Dulles, Top Aides Confer On Berlin Developments

Senator Calls For Program To Alert Nation

WASHINGTON (UPI)— Secretary of State John Foster Dulles called top State Department officials to his suite at the Walter Reed Army Medical Center Thursday to discuss "recent developments" in the Berlin crisis.

Those summoned by Dulles were acting Secretary of State Christian A. Herter, Deputy Undersecretary Robert Murphy, Assistant Secretary for European Affairs Livingston Merchant, and Joseph N. Greene, Dulles' special assistant.

State Department Press Officer Lincoln White said it could be assumed they discussed all aspects of the Berlin crisis, including Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev's apparent rejection of the Allied call for a foreign ministers conference.

The meeting in Dulles hospital room was announced as the Senate sounded with grave warnings of the danger confronting this nation and the world as a result of the deadlocked dispute over Red efforts to oust the Allies from Berlin.

Freshman Sen. Thomas J. Dodd drew a round of praise when he called for a "90-day crash program of the utmost urgency" to prepare Americans for the worst. He said the people failed to realize that Berlin represented the "threshold of a great disaster."

The Walter Reed meeting was Dulles first personal conference with some of his top aides since he entered the hospital Feb. 10 for a hernia operation, during which he was found to be suffering from a recurrence of cancer.

The meeting lasted from about 4 p.m. until 5 p.m. e.s.t.

Dulles previously discussed the Berlin situation Sunday with Vice President Richard M. Nixon and with his brother Allen, director of the Central Intelligence Agency.

The gravest of warnings on Berlin were voiced by Dodd and other senators, including Senate Democratic Whip Mike Mansfield (D-Mont.), Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.) and Chairman J. William Fulbright (D-Ark.) of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Mansfield, referring to Russia's demand that the Allies get out of West Berlin by May 27, said the world was "entering a situation in Germany in which the lives of tens of millions of people may balance on the avoidance of a single significant error."

Fulbright, while stressing the seriousness of the situation, warned against interpreting the dispute as out and out case of good versus evil. He said this would leave no hope of reaching an agreement.

D.C. Representation In House Proposed

WASHINGTON (AP)—A constitutional amendment to give the District of Columbia three delegates in the House of Representatives was proposed Thursday by Sen. Francis I. Case (R-SD).

Case, a member of the Senate District Committee, also said under his proposal the now disenfranchised residents of the nation's capital would be entitled to three electoral votes in choosing the president and vice president.

"When you stop to think about the matter," Case said in a prepared Senate speech, "it is a shocking thing that the country that boasts of leadership in promoting self-government and freedom does not provide a voice for the people who live at its own seat of government."

African Riots Result In State Of Emergency

SALISBURY, Southern Rhodesia (UPI)—The Southern Rhodesian government declared a state of emergency Thursday and rounded up extreme Nationalist leaders in a crackdown on anti-white demonstrators.

Sir Edgar Whitehead, prime minister of the British colony, said the security measures were taken to check native attempts to undermine white authority in a movement for independence.

In Nyasaland, to the south, an army convoy carrying British troops reported Africans stoning traffic and setting up roadblocks at Jaeacule and Kafukule.

At Limbe, a European identified as J. Stanton was attacked by a group of natives who invaded his office. They clubbed him on the head and stole a loaded shotgun which he bought for protection. Stanton used the gun Wednesday night to fire warning shots over the heads of a crowd which stoned his car.

Mrs. Luce Is Appointed Ambassador To Brazil

WASHINGTON (AP) — Clare Boothe Luce, whose enduring beauty is matched by her bright mind and sharp tongue, was named by President Eisenhower Thursday to be ambassador to Brazil.

No great trouble is expected in her winning Senate confirmation. She is generally credited with having done a good job as ambassador to Italy in 1953-57.

However, the Democratic-dominated Senate will have to overlook some of the rough things she has said, in her ever-so-smooth voice, about Democrats.

For instance, she is no favorite of former President Harry S. Truman, whom she likened in 1952 to a "bulldozer in trousers" dredging up mud to throw at Eisenhower.

Mrs. Luce's appointment to take charge of the embassy in Rio de Janeiro had been foreshadowed earlier from Brazil. There, she will succeed Ellis O. Briggs, career diplomat who may now be assigned to Greece.

On the point of religion, an important factor in many diplomatic assignments, Mrs. Luce has been a member of the Roman Catholic Church since 1946 and Brazil, like Italy, is a Catholic country.

Mrs. Luce, who will be 56 April 10, was raised an Episcopalian. She announced her conversion to Catholicism in 1946.

Her husband, Henry R. Luce, is editor of Time magazine.

Long before she got into politics, Mrs. Luce was famed as an editor and a writer. "The Women" was a satirical play of hers and was a great success. It dealt with such pasttimes as idle gossip. There are women, it is still said, who do not like the play or its author.

HOUGHTON, Mich. (AP)—Edward Haas "and my kid brother, Herman," left by plane Thursday for a month's vacation in Mexico City.

Edward, of Houghton, is 94; Herman, of nearby Calumet is 93.

They were to be met at Mexico City Airport by their "baby brother," Bert, 74, of Cleveland.

Family Of Four, Now Farmer Disappears

LOUISA, Va. (UPI) — A 47-year-old farmer has disappeared from his home about 20 miles from the rural road where a family of four vanished mysteriously six weeks ago.

State police said they have found nothing to connect the disappearance of Joseph Battle last Monday with the mystery of what happened to feed store clerk Carroll V. Jackson, his wife and two daughters. The Jacksons disappeared Jan. 11 and officers believe they may have been abducted from their car which was found abandoned on a roadside.

Battle, a bachelor, was last seen by his brother at his home near here.

Big Airport Aid Bill Approved By House Unit

WASHINGTON (AP) — A 297-million-dollar program to bring airports up to jet age standards was recommended Thursday by a House committee which topped President Eisenhower's proposal by about 50 per cent.

However, the Commerce Committee bill comes much closer to the administration plan than does a Senate-passed measure calling for a 465-million-dollar federal outlay. Eisenhower last year vetoed a bill somewhat like the current Senate version.

In each case, the airport construction program would be extended for four years beyond next June 30. And in each case the federal grants would be matched on a dollar-for-dollar basis by the states and localities.

In their drive to hold spending within the President's 77-billion-dollar budget, congressional Republicans have centered much of their early session efforts on the airport aid legislation and on a multibillion-dollar housing bill.

Commerce Committee Chairman Oren Harris (D-Ark) said the 297-million-dollar bill was approved by voice vote, with some audible noes.

Under terms of the legislation, $62,100,000 would be allocated to the 49 states and Hawaii in each of the four years, with another $900,000 a year earmarked for Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands. The bill also would authorize a 45-million-dollar fund to be used at the discretion of the federal airport administrator during the last three years.

Eisenhower proposed a 200-million-dollar program with allocations tapering from 65 million dollars the first year to 35 million in the fourth year.

Khrushchev Decides Not To Make Trip

Briton Warns Red Chieftain Against Berlin Interference

KIEV, Ukraine (AP) — British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan and Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev ended talks Thursday in an atmosphere of bitter chill. The British visitor warned Khrushchev of grave danger if anyone interferes with the Western powers' rights in Berlin.

"But Khrushchev is not budging an inch," a British spokesman said, "and Macmillan is not budging an inch, either. Make of that what you will."

Before flying here for a visit, Macmillan told Khrushchev that any interference without some alternative arrangements "would lead to a dangerous situation," the spokesman said.

Such alternative arrangements supposedly would meet the Soviet threat to turn over to East Germany the control of Allied lifelines to isolated Berlin. These would have to come through negotiations, in Macmillan's view.

Khrushchev in a speech to a political rally in the Kremlin Tuesday heaped ridicule on the Western plan for negotiations at the foreign ministers' level. In that speech Khrushchev warned that any violations of East Germany's borders in a dispute over Berlin would be considered an act of aggression.

Despite the tenor of Khrushchev's remarks, the spokesman insisted in reply to a reporter's question that Macmillan does not believe the Soviet leader has shut the door on a foreign ministers' meeting.

But the Kremlin speech, coming at the height of the British visit, so stung Macmillan that he thought of breaking off further talks and returning to London, British sources reported.

"But Macmillan came here to have talks with the Soviet leaders and to see the country," a British official said. "He had the talks and he decided he might as well see the country."

There will be a final meeting with Khrushchev Monday after Macmillan returns from visits to Kiev and Leningrad. But the British spokesman said there is nothing left to talk about except the wording of a final communique.

It had been expected that the Kiev trip would provide another opportunity for talks between the two leaders. But Khrushchev canceled his plans to accompany Macmillan at the last moment and stayed in Moscow. There he received a delegation from Iraq.

Wife Of New Orleans Mayor Found Dead

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — Mrs. de Lesseps Morrison, 37, wife of the mayor of New Orleans, was found dead Thursday on the bedroom floor of her home.

Mayor Morrison found the body clad in night clothes and a fur coat.

Mrs. Morrison was the mother of three children, two boys aged 14 and 2, and a girl, 11.

After a preliminary examination, the coroner's office said it was practically certain Mrs. Morrison died of natural causes.

The office said Mrs. Morrison had a chronic cystic disease of the lung which was infectious but not similar to tuberculosis.

'Longie' Zwillman, Target Of Rackets Probes, Hangs Self

Wife Finds Body Of Ex-Bootlegger In Home Basement

SUICIDE — Abner (Longie) Zwillman (above), 54, prohibition era bootlegger and more recent target of big-time crime probes, was found hanged yesterday in his West Orange, N. J., mansion. Authorities ruled the death suicide. (AP Photofax)

WEST ORANGE, N.J. (AP)—Onetime bootlegger Abner (Longie) Zwillman, depressed over a Senate investigation of the vending machine industry and jury-fixing charges in his income tax trial, hanged himself Thursday.

The body of the 54-year old target of several national rackets inquiries was found in the basement storage room of his 20-room mansion here by his wife, Mary, a former Millburn Junior League socialite.

Dr. Edwin H. Albano, Essex County medical examiner, called the death a suicide.

Zwillman's stepson, John Steinbach, told newsmen the Senate Labor - Management Committee's delvings into the coin machine business worried Zwillman, who owned the Public Service Tobacco Co., a cigaret vending machine firm.

Steinbach said Zwillman became especially moody after the Senate committee called Jerry Catena as a witness and asked a series of questions about Zwillman. Catena is a partner in the Runyon Vending Machine Co.

On top of the Washington probe, came indictments last week in which the government charged several men with bribing two jurors in Zwillman's 1956 income tax evasion trial.

The jury never reached a verdict. Zwillman had been tried for evading the payment of $38,911 in taxes for 1947 and 1948.

Steinbach said what weighed most heavily on Zwillman's mind was the effect of these revelations on his wife.

Dr. Albano said Zwillman used a 44-foot plastic covered clothesline to hang himself. The rope was strung over a beam eight feet from the floor.

Cop Charged In Rape Slaying Of Woman, 60

NEW YORK (AP) — A husky young policeman, stripped of his shield and denounced by his superiors, was held without bail Thursday in the rape-slaying of a 60-year-old Brooklyn grandmother.

The police force, already shaken by a series of scandals, was aghast at the enormity of the crime attributed to 26-year-old Patrolman Francis J. Rogers, son of a cop and brother of a cop. He was suspended after his arrest Wednesday night.

As Rogers took the stage at the regular morning police lineup, Inspector Raymond Maguire angrily snapped at him: "There is very little I can say about you. You dirtied our women. You are a disgrace. Get out of here!"

Held with Rogers in the Monday slaying of Mrs. Viola Mirman was a friend from his school days, Thomas Murtha, 22, a truck driver. They were charged with homicide, rape and kidnaping.

Detectives said they admitted dragging the widow into their car after she resisted their attempts to pick her up. Mrs. Mirman was beaten savagely. She also was raped, then thrown from the car to die in a parking lot.

Neither Rogers nor Murtha would admit raping the woman.

"They were so drunk they didn't know what they were doing," said one of the detectives on the case.

At the Gates Avenue precinct in Brooklyn where Rogers was assigned, Lt. Jesse Plutzer described Rogers, on the force three years, as "just an average cop doing an average job."

Rogers arrest was the latest in a series of incidents that have plagued the police force in the past two weeks. Nearly a dozen cops have been demoted, suspended or fired in gambling, morals and burglary cases.

Acid Thrower Ruins Painting

MUNICH, Germany (AP)—"The Fall of the Damned," a great painting by the Flemish artist Peter Paul Rubens, was damaged Thursday by an acid thrower. Experts felt there was a chance it could be restored.

The painting hangs in the Alte Pinakothek Gallery and is valued at about one million dollars.

The damage was discovered by a gallery guard. All exits were closed and police rushed in, but a search turned up no trace of the acid hurler.

A little more than an hour after the discovery a reporter received a letter saying its writer would destroy within one hour another treasured painting in the gallery. The writer named "The Four Apostles" by German painter Albrecht Durer.

The sender of the letter identified himself as "Walter Menzl, Free Philosophical Institute." No such institute is known here.

Authorities said there was no explanation why the target was switched from the Durer painting to the work by Rubens.

Gallery officials said about one-fifth of the picture—which is almost 10 X 7 feet—appeared ruined by the acid.

Psychiatrists Help Unloved Boy Who Mentally Turned Self Into Machine

CHICAGO (AP)—Joey was an unloved boy who mentally turned himself into a machine because it was too painful to be human.

He plugged himself in when he ate because he firmly believed electricity powered his digestive system.

He drank through an elaborate piping system built of straws so that, in his fantasy, liquids could be pumped into him.

He strung up wires and a taped-together cardboard apparatus by his bed at night to "live" him while he slept.

He had make-believe motors that ran him through the day, and exhaust pipes through which he exhaled.

When he bathed, he rocked back and forth with engine-like regularity, sometimes flooding the floor.

When psychiatrists first tried to talk to him, his only reply was, "Bam." The simulated explosion neutralized his machinery, barring human contact.

Bruno Bettelheim, professor of psychiatry and psychology at the University of Chicago, gave this picture of Joey with his fancies machinery idle or broken down: "For long periods of time he would sit so quietly that he would disappear from the focus of the most conscientious observation. We had to concentrate on recollecting his presence, for he seemed not to exist."

Joey is a schizophrenic child and Bettelheim said it is unlikely his calamity could befall a child in any time and culture but our own.

Writing in Scientific American, Bettelheim described Joey as a child robbed of his humanity by being completely ignored since birth by both parents.

He gave this account: The parents didn't mistreat Joey, but displayed entirely indifferent and mechanical reactions to his eating or not eating, sleeping or awakening, or bathroom habits. His obedience gave them no satisfaction and won him no satisfaction or approval. He was unable to establish a relationship.

The boy was brought to the University of Chicago's Sonia Shankman School for treatment when he was 9. After long attempts to make emotional contact, the doctors finally won his trust.

Bettelheim said: "Joey at last broke through his prison. Suffice it to say that he ceased to be a mechanical boy and became a human child. This newborn child was, however, nearly 12 years old. To recover the time lost is a tremendous task. Sometimes he sets to it with a will; at other times the difficulty of real life makes him regret he ever came out of his shell. But he never has wanted to return to his mechanical life."

Navy, Probing Cable Breaks, Halts Vessel

No Evidence Found Trawler Engaged In Other Than Fishing

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. Navy men who boarded a Russian fishing trawler off Newfoundland Thursday reported they found "no indications of intentions other than fishing." They had been seeking to learn what caused breaks in five transatlantic cables.

Adm. Jerauld Wright, commander in chief of the Atlantic Fleet, who ordered the boarding of the Soviet trawler Novorossisk, said in a statement that the boarding party found that the trawler "was equipped for deep sea fishing and that all papers were in order."

This prompt report on the incident seemed likely to lessen the possibility that the boarding might stir up serious new trouble with Russia.

Wright's statement issued by the Navy here also said:

"The master of the trawler was friendly and cooperative and there were no indications of intentions other than fishing.

"The vessel's log revealed that the trawler had been operating in the vicinity of the reported cable interruptions."

The party which boarded the Russian trawler consisted of five men from the crew of the Roy O. Hale.

The trawler's crew was made up of 54 men and women, one of whom spoke English, the Navy announcement said. It said it did not know how many were women.

Discussion In French

The discussion between the boarding party and the Russians was conducted in French, the Navy said.

The Hale now is headed for Argentina, Newfoundland, where she is scheduled to arrive about 7 p.m. EST Friday.

The boarding took place about noon EST Thursday about 120 miles northeast of St. Johns, Newfoundland, by a party from the Hale, a picket-radar ship.

The Navy said the report from the boarding party was relayed by the Hale's captain, Lt. Cmdr. Ernest J. Korpte, to Adm. Wright, whose headquarters are at Norfolk, Va. Wright in turn relayed the report to Washington.

The Navy said that the original boarding orders were issued by Adm. Wright, with the approval of Secretary of Defense Neil McElroy.

There was no mention of the incident by the Moscow Radio or any other Soviet source in the early hours of Friday, Moscow time. It was 2 a.m. in Moscow when newsmen there learned of the boarding action.

Action Taken Under Pact

The boarding was not disclosed publicly until after 5 p.m.

The American action was taken under an international agreement—signed by the United States and the Soviet Union among others—known as "The Convention for Protection of Submarine Cables of 1884."

This agreement, the Defense Department said, "authorizes investigations by naval ships of official documents of other ships suspected of damaging and interfer-

H-Bomb Plant Blast Kills 2

ALDERMASTON, England (AP)—A violent explosion rocked Britain's big H-bomb factory here Thursday, killing two men and injuring another.

Airplanes were warned to avoid the region 45 miles west of London. But they resumed flights when officials said the blast was caused by conventional explosives and there was no radioactive danger. Traffic was permitted on nearby roads.

It was the sixth incident at the base in the past four years. Britain's Atomic Energy Authority set up a board of inquiry.

A spokesman said no radioactive materials were involved or disturbed in the Aldermaston blast.

He would not identify the explosives more precisely. He said some are used at the research establishment, housing in a dozen buildings and huts scattered over a 200-acre area enclosed by a high fence.

'Longie' Zwillman, Target Of Rackets Probes, Hangs Self

Wife Finds Body Of Ex-Bootlegger In Home Basement

SUICIDE — Abner (Longie) Zwillman (above), 54, prohibition era bootlegger and more recent target of big-time crime probes, was found hanged yesterday in his West Orange, N. J., mansion. Authorities ruled the death suicide. (AP Photofax)

WEST ORANGE, N.J. (AP)— Onetime bootlegger Abner (Longie) Zwillman, depressed over a Senate investigation of the vending machine industry and jury-fixing charges in his income tax trial, hanged himself Thursday.

The body of the 54-year old target of several national rackets inquiries was found in the basement storage room of his 20-room mansion here by his wife, Mary, a former Millburn Junior League socialite.

Dr. Edwin H. Albano, Essex County medical examiner, called the death a suicide.

Zwillman's stepson, John Steinbach, told newsmen the Senate Labor - Management Committee's delvings into the coin machine business worried Zwillman, who owned the Public Service Tobacco Co., a cigaret vending machine firm.

Steinbach said Zwillman became especially moody after the Senate committee called Jerry Catena as a witness and asked a series of questions about Zwillman. Catena is a partner in the Runyon Vending Machine Co.

On top of the Washington probe, came indictments last week in which the government charged several men with bribing two jurors in Zwillman's 1956 income tax evasion trial.

The jury never reached a verdict. Zwillman had been tried for evading the payment of $38,911 in taxes for 1947 and 1948.

Steinbach said what weighed most heavily on Zwillman's mind was the effect of these revelations on his wife.

Dr. Albano said Zwillman used a 44-foot plastic covered clothesline to hang himself. The rope was strung over a beam eight feet from the floor.

Cop Charged In Rape Slaying Of Woman, 60

NEW YORK (AP) — A husky young policeman, stripped of his shield and denounced by his superiors, was held without bail Thursday in the rape-slaying of a 60-year-old Brooklyn grandmother.

The police force, already shaken by a series of scandals, was aghast at the enormity of the crime attributed to 26-year-old Patrolman Francis J. Rogers, son of a cop and brother of a cop. He was suspended after his arrest Wednesday night.

As Rogers took the stage at the regular morning police lineup, Inspector Raymond Maguire angrily snapped at him: "There is very little I can say about you. You dirtied our women. You are a disgrace. Get out of here!"

Held with Rogers in the Monday slaying of Mrs. Viola Mirman was a friend from his school days, Thomas Murtha, 22, a truck driver. They were charged with homicide, rape and kidnaping.

Detectives said they admitted dragging the widow into their car after she resisted their attempts to pick her up. Mrs. Mirman was beaten savagely. She also was raped, then thrown from the car to die in a parking lot.

Neither Rogers nor Murtha would admit raping the woman.

"They were so drunk they didn't know what they were doing," said one of the detectives on the case.

At the Gates Avenue precinct in Brooklyn where Rogers was assigned, Lt. Jesse Plutzer described Rogers, on the force three years, as "just an average cop doing an average job."

Rogers arrest was the latest in a series of incidents that have plagued the police force in the past two weeks. Nearly a dozen cops have been demoted, suspended or fired in gambling, morals and burglary cases.

Acid Thrower Ruins Painting

MUNICH, Germany (AP)—"The Fall of the Damned," a great painting by the Flemish artist Peter Paul Rubens, was damaged Thursday by an acid thrower. Experts felt there was a chance it could be restored.

The painting hangs in the Alte Pinakothek Gallery and is valued at about one million dollars.

The damage was discovered by a gallery guard. All exits were closed and police rushed in, but a search turned up no trace of the acid hurler.

A little more than an hour after the discovery a reporter received a letter saying its writer would destroy within one hour another treasured painting in the gallery. The writer named "The Four Apostles" by German painter Albrecht Durer.

The sender of the letter identified himself as "Walter Menzl, Free Philosophical Institute." No such institute is known here.

Authorities said there was no explanation why the target was switched from the Durer painting to the work by Rubens.

Gallery officials said about one-fifth of the picture—which is almost 10 X 7 feet—appeared ruined by the acid.

Psychiatrists Help Unloved Boy Who Mentally Turned Self Into Machine

CHICAGO (AP)—Joey was an unloved boy who mentally turned himself into a machine because it was too painful to be human.

He plugged himself in when he ate because he firmly believed electricity powered his digestive system.

He drank through an elaborate piping system built of straws so that, in his fantasy, liquids could be pumped into him.

He strung up wires and a taped-together cardboard apparatus by his bed at night to "live" him while he slept.

He had make-believe motors that ran him through the day, and exhaust pipes through which he exhaled.

When he bathed, he rocked back and forth with engine-like regularity, sometimes flooding the floor.

When psychiatrists first tried to talk to him, his only reply was, "Bam." The simulated explosion neutralized his machinery, barring human contact.

Bruno Bettelheim, professor of psychiatry and psychology at the University of Chicago, gave this picture of Joey with his fancies machinery idle or broken down: "For long periods of time he would sit so quietly that he would disappear from the focus of the most conscientious observation. We had to concentrate on recollecting his presence, for he seemed not to exist."

Joey is a schizophrenic child and Bettelheim said it is unlikely his calamity could befall a child in any time and culture but our own.

Writing in Scientific American, Bettelheim described Joey as a child robbed of his humanity by being completely ignored since birth by both parents.

He gave this account: The parents didn't mistreat Joey, but displayed entirely indifferent and mechanical reactions to his eating or not eating, sleeping or awakening, or bathroom habits. His obedience gave them no satisfaction and won him no satisfaction or approval. He was unable to establish a relationship.

The boy was brought to the University of Chicago's Sonia Shankman School for treatment when he was 9. After long attempts to make emotional contact, the doctors finally won his trust.

Bettelheim said: "Joey at last broke through his prison. Suffice it to say that he ceased to be a mechanical boy and became a human child. This newborn child was, however, nearly 12 years old. To recover the time lost is a tremendous task. Sometimes he sets to it with a will; at other times the difficulty of real life makes him regret he ever came out of his shell. But he never has wanted to return to his mechanical life."

Navy, Probing Cable Breaks, Halts Vessel

No Evidence Found Trawler Engaged In Other Than Fishing

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. Navy men who boarded a Russian fishing trawler off Newfoundland Thursday reported they found "no indications of intentions other than fishing." They had been seeking to learn what caused breaks in five transatlantic cables.

Adm. Jerauld Wright, commander in chief of the Atlantic Fleet, who ordered the boarding of the Soviet trawler Novorossisk, said in a statement that the boarding party found that the trawler "was equipped for deep sea fishing and that all papers were in order."

This prompt report on the incident seemed likely to lessen the possibility that the boarding might stir up serious new trouble with Russia.

Wright's statement issued by the Navy here also said:

"The master of the trawler was friendly and cooperative and there were no indications of intentions other than fishing.

"The vessel's log revealed that the trawler had been operating in the vicinity of the reported cable interruptions."

The party which boarded the Russian trawler consisted of five men from the crew of the Roy O. Hale.

The trawler's crew was made up of 54 men and women, one of whom spoke English, the Navy announcement said. It said it did not know how many were women.

Discussion In French

The discussion between the boarding party and the Russians was conducted in French, the Navy said.

The Hale now is headed for Argentina, Newfoundland, where she is scheduled to arrive about 7 p.m. EST Friday.

The boarding took place about noon EST Thursday about 120 miles northeast of St. Johns, Newfoundland, by a party from the Hale, a picket-radar ship.

The Navy said the report from the boarding party was relayed by the Hale's captain, Lt. Cmdr. Ernest J. Korpte, to Adm. Wright, whose headquarters are at Norfolk, Va. Wright in turn relayed the report to Washington.

The Navy said that the original boarding orders were issued by Adm. Wright, with the approval of Secretary of Defense Neil McElroy.

There was no mention of the incident by the Moscow Radio or any other Soviet source in the early hours of Friday, Moscow time. It was 2 a.m. in Moscow when newsmen there learned of the boarding action.

Action Taken Under Pact

The boarding was not disclosed publicly until after 5 p.m.

The American action was taken under an international agreement—signed by the United States and the Soviet Union among others—known as "The Convention for Protection of Submarine Cables of 1884."

This agreement, the Defense Department said, "authorizes investigations by naval ships of official documents of other ships suspected of damaging and interfer-

H-Bomb Plant Blast Kills 2

ALDERMASTON, England (AP)—A violent explosion rocked Britain's big H-bomb factory here Thursday, killing two men and injuring another.

Airplanes were warned to avoid the region 45 miles west of London. But they resumed flights when officials said the blast was caused by conventional explosives and there was no radioactive danger. Traffic was permitted on nearby roads.

It was the sixth incident at the base in the past four years. Britain's Atomic Energy Authority set up a board of inquiry.

A spokesman said no radioactive materials were involved or disturbed in the Aldermaston blast.

He would not identify the explosives more precisely. He said some are used at the research establishment, housing in a dozen buildings and huts scattered over a 200-acre area enclosed by a high fence.

Tawes Proposes State Fisheries Dept. Overhaul

Bill Would Abolish 3-Man Commission

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Gov. Tawes Thursday proposed a sweeping reorganization of the Tidewater Fisheries Department — his third major revamping of a state agency since taking office six weeks ago.

He earlier proposed reorganization of the State Roads Commission and absorbing the Department of Information in a new State Economic Development Commission.

Legislation which would abolish the present three-member fisheries commission and place Maryland's biggest conservation agency under a full-time director and a seven-member commission was submitted to the Senate.

An aide described the bill as an effort to rehabilitate the state's Assembly approves.

The commission would have broad powers to change fishing laws, and such changes would stand unless overridden by the Legislature. Members would be selected on a geographic basis, with the Eastern Shore and Tidewater counties on the Western Shore having two members each. One each would come from Western Maryland, Baltimore City and the state at large.

The director would be appointed by the commission with approval of the governor and could report directly to the governor on matters that he felt needed executive attention.

At present the department is under direction of the chairman of the three-member Tidewater Fisheries Commission.

Tawes, who went before the Legislature two weeks ago to outline a similar overhaul of the State Roads Commission, was out of the state Thursday on a speaking engagement and issued no statement in connection with the TFC proposal.

Lloyd L. Simpkins, his executive secretary who helped draft the bill, said it resulted from studies of a special committee which reported to the governor on meetings with persons in the seafood industry.

The proposed reorganization would bring the TFC more in line with other State conservation agencies, which now have advisory agencies and department directors. It would meet more often though and its members would be salaried at $1,200 a year.

The reorganization bill was submitted to the Senate, which Wednesday confirmed appointment of Sen. Louis N. Phipps (D-Anne Arundel) as a member of the present commission, effective June 1. That term would be abolished under the new bill but it is believed Phipps will be offered a seat on the expanded group.

Whether he accepts may depend on who would be named to replace him in the Senate. He is said to favor Del. John McNulty (D-Anne Arundel) or his son, Louis N. Phipps Jr., for the job. Appointment would be made by the county Democratic committee, which was reported leaning toward Del. Ridgely Melvin, chairman of the House Judiciary Committee.

Sect Members Guilty In Death Of Their Child

HAGERSTOWN (AP) — A man and wife whose religious convictions prohibited them from calling on the services of a physician were convicted today of manslaughter in the death of their 5-month-old daughter.

A jury took 40 minutes to convict Ollen O. Craig, 35, and his wife, Lillian. Bail was continued at $1,000 each pending sentencing.

Manslaughter carries a maximum penalty of 10 years imprisonment.

Craig, a building contractor, and his wife belong to the Church of God sect here. Many members of the sect appeared in the court room.

Craig, serving as his own counsel, quoted from the Book of James Chapt. 5, verses 14 and 15: "If there is any among you sick, let him call in the elders; let them pray over him and anoint him with oils."

State's Atty. James Strine, in his address to the jury, quoted Matthew, Chapt. 9, Verse 12, "That they who are sick need a physician."

Earlier, Craig said he delivered his baby daughter, Elaine, last June 5. The child died last Nov. 25 of pneumonia.

"We do not uphold any law that will not uphold the law of God," the defendant said. "More than any court I respect the law of God. We did not murder the child."

Strine told the jury everyone knows the Bill of Rights grants everyone freedom of religion. However, restraint is needed to prevent anyone from infringing on the rights of others, he added.

"With the power of the state," he said, "we must tell them this has got to stop. We don't want it to happen again."

Last March Craig was acquitted of a manslaughter charge in the death of another child, 8-month-old Raymond. The judge ruled then that there was reasonable doubt whether Craig knew the child had pneumonia.

Accidental cutting of cables by trawlers occurs from time to time. Many of them work deep.

At the White House, press secretary James C. Hagerty was somewhat vague as to what role President Eisenhower played in the Navy's decision to send a party aboard the Soviet fishing trip.

He said yes, certainly the President was advised of the boarding before it was announced by the Navy. But he declined comment when asked if Eisenhower had been consulted in advance of the boarding.

The area off Newfoundland has been hard hit recently by cable snappings, and these have hampered transatlantic communications.

Antietam Park Hearings Open

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Public Lands Subcommittee Thursday opened hearings on a bill to make the Antietam Civil War battlefield a national park.

Rep. John R. Foley (D-Md), sponsor of the bill, led a group of 14 witnesses, all favoring governmental purchase of 1,800 acres of the battlefield in Western Maryland.

It was at Antietam that Union forces under Gen. George McClellan turned back a Confederate invasion of the North on Sept., 17, 1862.

Although neither side won the battle, the South, under Gen. Robert E. Lee, was forced to retreat.

Foley's bill would authorize purchase of the battlefield with Interior Department funds. Only donated funds may now be used at Antietam, where 184 acres are government-owned.

The bill is similar to one introduced last year by former Rep. Dewitt S. Hyde (R-Md). That bill died in committee.

Foley and the other witnesses urged action as soon as possible to prevent commercial encroachment on the battlefield which they hope will be a national park for the battle's 100th anniversary in 1962.

Man Sentenced In Tot's Death

BALTIMORE (AP) — Bennie Aye, 22, was sentenced to 10 years in prison Thursday for beating a 4-year-old stepson to death because of the way he washed his younger half-brother's diapers.

"During my stay on the bench," said Judge Joseph E. Byrnes, "I hope I never come across any person more inhuman than you are."

Aye was convicted of manslaughter and got the maximum sentence.

The mother of little Calvin Nathaniel Watson, Mrs. Gladys Aye, 19, was acquitted of a murder charge. Judge Byrne said that although she had beaten him on occasions and was a "poor mother," none of her blows caused death.

There are about 200 famous private estates in England which are open to visitors.

Two Children Die In Trailer Blaze

MIDDLETOWN, Pa. (UPI) — The failure to give up a party line so an immediate alarm could be turned in may have cost the lives of two children in a fire near here Thursday.

The blaze, which started from a gas heater explosion about noon, destroyed a trailer belonging to Mrs. Walter Hensel and killed her two children, Tina Marie, 3, and Walter, 6 months.

Ironically, the fire began as Mrs. Hensel was getting water at the home of Mrs. Virginia Porterfield, about 50 feet away from the trailer along Foxiana Rd. in Londonderry Twp.

Mrs. Hensel's attempts to turn in an immediate alarm were thwarted when several persons using a party line telephone refused to surrender the line for about 10 minutes, Middletown police said.

Boat Owners Hit Proposed State Act

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Owners and operators of power boats urged a Legislative Committee Thursday to either write broad changes into a proposed state boat act or scrap it entirely and let the federal government regulate them.

They voiced objections to the House Ways and Means Committee, which has an administration bill calling for licensing of all inboard and outboard motor boats in Maryland.

Most witnesses complained of plans to use the $5 annual licensing fee as a revenue producer for the general fund without diverting any of it for improvement of boating conditions.

They also objected to having the measure's safety regulations enforced by the Tidewater Fisheries Commission and the Game and Inland Fish Commission. They proposed instead that a separate body be set up to administer and enforce the act and use funds derived from it.

None protested having to pay a license fee, but several said it should be scaled according to boat size and that smaller craft should be exempt.

Spokesmen for more than 20 yacht and boat clubs attended the hearing.

Ile De France Begins Last Voyage To Japan

LE HAVRE, France (UPI)—The luxury liner Ile de France, once France's pride of the seas, embarked on its last voyage Thursday—to a scrap heap in Japan.

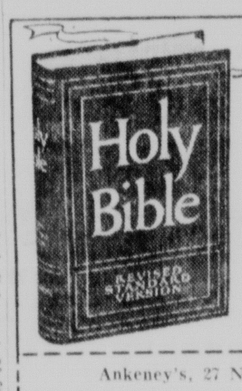

The 44,000-ton liner, stripped of its luxury fittings and manned by a skeleton Japanese crew, slipped quietly out of the harbor for Osaka where it will be cut up.

California was the first state in the union to appoint a public defender.

Boat Owners Hit Proposed State Act

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Owners and operators of power boats urged a Legislative Committee Thursday to either write broad changes into a proposed state boat act or scrap it entirely and let the federal government regulate them.

They voiced objections to the House Ways and Means Committee, which has an administration bill calling for licensing of all inboard and outboard motor boats in Maryland.

Most witnesses complained of plans to use the $5 annual licensing fee as a revenue producer for the general fund without diverting any of it for improvement of boating conditions.

They also objected to having the measure's safety regulations enforced by the Tidewater Fisheries Commission and the Game and Inland Fish Commission. They proposed instead that a separate body be set up to administer and enforce the act and use funds derived from it.

None protested having to pay a license fee, but several said it should be scaled according to boat size and that smaller craft should be exempt.

Spokesmen for more than 20 yacht and boat clubs attended the hearing.

Ile De France Begins Last Voyage To Japan

LE HAVRE, France (UPI)—The luxury liner Ile de France, once France's pride of the seas, embarked on its last voyage Thursday—to a scrap heap in Japan.

The 44,000-ton liner, stripped of its luxury fittings and manned by a skeleton Japanese crew, slipped quietly out of the harbor for Osaka where it will be cut up.

California was the first state in the union to appoint a public defender.

"Old Mary," Headed For Scrap Pile, Had Brilliant World War II Record

BALTIMORE (AP) — The battleship U.S.S. Maryland, which the Navy announced this week is headed for the scrap pile, had a brilliant World War II record.

Three times damaged by the Japanese in a 10-month period, the "Old Mary", as she was affectionately called by her officers and crew, was on her way to deal out more misery when word of Japanese acceptance of the Potsdam ultimatum was officially announced.

The Maryland received her last battle damage of the war from a suicide plane at Okinawa April 7, 1945. The Kamikaze crashed into the top of the main battery turret three. The explosion of its bomb load and gasoline tanks enveloped the after part of the ship in flames, claiming the lives of 11 men, injuring 36 others and causing the listing of six others as missing in action.

The damaged ship entered Puget Sound Navy Yard on "VE Day" and steamed out into the Pacific on the unofficial "VJ Day".

One of the United States battleships claimed sunk at Pearl Harbor, the Maryland took part in almost every major invasion in the Pacific. Her 16-inch guns, the first of that size ever mounted on a U.S. battleship, plastered the enemy at Tarawa, Kwajalein, Saipan, Palau, Leyte and Okinawa. She was one of the "ghosts" which helped sink a great part of the Japanese fleet in the battle of Surigao Strait, October 25, 1944, in the Philippines.

In four hits from the enemy during the war, the Maryland suffered the loss of 50 of her crew. Six were killed at Pearl Harbor. Two men were lost when the ship was torpedoed at Saipan, June 22, 1944. Thirty-one were killed and 31 wounded when a suicide plane crashed into her forecastle between turrets one and two November 29, 1944 in Leyte Gulf.

While she was taking it, the Maryland did a lot of dishing it out, too. In six major operations against the enemy she belched more than 3,700 rounds of ammunition from her main battery, each round weighing approximately a ton. Her secondary battery of five-inch guns fired almost 15,000 rounds at shore targets and enemy aircraft. In all more than 31,000 rounds of all types ammunition were expended in helping chase the Japanese from the Solomons to their homeland.

The old battleship, commissioned July 21, 1921 at the Newport News Shipbuilding and Drydock Company, was under air attack an even 100 times during the war. Forty of these raids came at Leyte and an equal number at Okinawa. She had 12 planes to her credit and many more went down under her guns in combined fire with accompanying units.

The Maryland received her first taste of enemy attack at Pearl Harbor. The sneak raiders straddled her gasoline storage with two 500-pound bombs which penetrated her main deck and exploded but miraculously did not ignite the gas.

Following the Pearl Harbor attack, the Maryland received repairs at Puget Sound Navy Yard and proceded to the Fijis and then the New Hebrides Islands to serve with other fleet units as a barrier against Japanese penetration southward and possibly an invasion of Australia.

At the end of hostilities in the Pacific, the Maryland served as a troop carrier, bringing home military men who had fought against the Japanese.

Her active career ended in 1948 when she was placed in mothballs and a life of serenity in the Navy Yard at Bremerton, Wash.

Now a Navy Department order has consigned her to the Valhalla of most of the nation's once mighty fighting ships—the scrap pile.

Tape Record Wins Woman Freedom

LONDON (UPI)—A judge listened to a tape recording of a quarrel and then acquitted Mrs. Rachel Bracey on charges of attempted murder of her husband on the grounds that he provoked the attack.

Mrs. Bracey, 22, was alleged to have beaten her husband, Clifford, with a hammer.

The recorder had been switched on by the husband during a radio broadcast and remained on during the quarrel.

Played It Safe

LONDON (UPI) — The Cambridge University tiddlywinks team played it safe for the match with Oxford University. It had Lloyd's of London insure each player's thumb for $700.

Odds Against Kefauver In Strauss Fight

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON (AP)—By every standard, that's quite a job Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn) has cut out for himself.

For he—along with some other Democratic senators—is trying to block the appointment of Lewis L. Strauss as secretary of commerce. If he succeeds, Kefauver's sure of at least a footnote in all the political history books.

A Congress may take a president's program and cuff it about unitl it's unrecognizable.

It may not give him the money he insists he needs.

But, although senators may grumble and argue, they usually confirm the men and women the president chooses for his Cabinet.

As far as the records show, only once in the past 91 years has a Cabinet officer, duly nominated, failed to pass his senatorial tests.

In 1925, President Calvin Coolidge named Charles B. Warren his attorney general.

The Senate refused to accept Warren on the grounds that: 1, he had been connected with the sugar trust, and 2, he had been a defendant in a suit brought by the same Justice Department he had been named to head.

But if historical odds all favor Lewis Lichtenstein Strauss, he must have known from the moment he accepted appointment as secretary of commerce last October, that he was in for trouble as soon as the Senate settled down to work in its new session. Strauss has been filling the job since under a recess appointment.

Now 63, Strauss has led a fabulous life.

Into business as a boy, a shoe salesman in his father's Richmond Va., store; Herbert Hoover's secretary, Wall Street banker, naval ordnance officer in World War II who sailed right up to admiral, member, then chairman, of the Atomic Energy Commission.

Along the way he ran into difficulties, as he himself conceded.

In 1954 he was saying, "For the first time in my life I have enemies."

Some of these he made during the Dixon-Yates fight involving the Tennessee Valley Authority. There's no point in rehashing that story here, but Strauss was on one side and Kefauver was on the other.

In 1956, when Kefauver was running for vice president, he was saying the Eisenhower administration was lagging behind in atomic power, and Strauss was hitting back with such comments as "distorted the facts . . . malicious innuendo . . . totally false."

Historically, it would seem that Strauss has it made. But if both sides keep firing away at close range, it could be an interesting Senate hearing.

Aguinaldo Improves

MANILA (UPI) — Gen. Emilio Aguinaldo, 90, who led the Philippines fight for independence against Spain and later against the United States, was reported recovering Thursday from a sudden rise in blood pressure. Aguinaldo's physician, Dr. Vicente de Ocampo, said the old man had to remain confined for further observation, but added he had a good sleep and was very strong.

New Railroad Planned

TOKYO (UPI) — Moscow Radio said Wednesday night the Soviet Union was planning construction of a second trans-Siberian railway from the Ural Mountains to the Pacific Ocean. Construction was scheduled for completion within 15 years, the broadcast heard here said.

"Old Mary," Headed For Scrap Pile, Had Brilliant World War II Record

BALTIMORE (AP) — The battleship U.S.S. Maryland, which the Navy announced this week is headed for the scrap pile, had a brilliant World War II record.

Three times damaged by the Japanese in a 10-month period, the "Old Mary", as she was affectionately called by her officers and crew, was on her way to deal out more misery when word of Japanese acceptance of the Potsdam ultimatum was officially announced.

The Maryland received her last battle damage of the war from a suicide plane at Okinawa April 7, 1945. The Kamikaze crashed into the top of the main battery turret three. The explosion of its bomb load and gasoline tanks enveloped the after part of the ship in flames, claiming the lives of 11 men, injuring 36 others and causing the listing of six others as missing in action.

The damaged ship entered Puget Sound Navy Yard on "VE Day" and steamed out into the Pacific on the unofficial "VJ Day".

One of the United States battleships claimed sunk at Pearl Harbor, the Maryland took part in almost every major invasion in the Pacific. Her 16-inch guns, the first of that size ever mounted on a U.S. battleship, plastered the enemy at Tarawa, Kwajalein, Saipan, Palau, Leyte and Okinawa. She was one of the "ghosts" which helped sink a great part of the Japanese fleet in the battle of Surigao Strait, October 25, 1944, in the Philippines.

In four hits from the enemy during the war, the Maryland suffered the loss of 50 of her crew. Six were killed at Pearl Harbor. Two men were lost when the ship was torpedoed at Saipan, June 22, 1944. Thirty-one were killed and 31 wounded when a suicide plane crashed into her forecastle between turrets one and two November 29, 1944 in Leyte Gulf.

While she was taking it, the Maryland did a lot of dishing it out, too. In six major operations against the enemy she belched more than 3,700 rounds of ammunition from her main battery, each round weighing approximately a ton. Her secondary battery of five-inch guns fired almost 15,000 rounds at shore targets and enemy aircraft. In all more than 31,000 rounds of all types ammunition were expended in helping chase the Japanese from the Solomons to their homeland.

The old battleship, commissioned July 21, 1921 at the Newport News Shipbuilding and Drydock Company, was under air attack an even 100 times during the war. Forty of these raids came at Leyte and an equal number at Okinawa. She had 12 planes to her credit and many more went down under her guns in combined fire with accompanying units.

The Maryland received her first taste of enemy attack at Pearl Harbor. The sneak raiders straddled her gasoline storage with two 500-pound bombs which penetrated her main deck and exploded but miraculously did not ignite the gas.

Following the Pearl Harbor attack, the Maryland received repairs at Puget Sound Navy Yard and proceded to the Fijis and then the New Hebrides Islands to serve with other fleet units as a barrier against Japanese penetration southward and possibly an invasion of Australia.

At the end of hostilities in the Pacific, the Maryland served as a troop carrier, bringing home military men who had fought against the Japanese.

Her active career ended in 1948 when she was placed in mothballs and a life of serenity in the Navy Yard at Bremerton, Wash.

Now a Navy Department order has consigned her to the Valhalla of most of the nation's once mighty fighting ships—the scrap pile.

Tape Record Wins Woman Freedom

LONDON (UPI)—A judge listened to a tape recording of a quarrel and then acquitted Mrs. Rachel Bracey on charges of attempted murder of her husband on the grounds that he provoked the attack.

Mrs. Bracey, 22, was alleged to have beaten her husband, Clifford, with a hammer.

The recorder had been switched on by the husband during a radio broadcast and remained on during the quarrel.

Played It Safe

LONDON (UPI) — The Cambridge University tiddlywinks team played it safe for the match with Oxford University. It had Lloyd's of London insure each player's thumb for $700.

Odds Against Kefauver In Strauss Fight

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON (AP)—By every standard, that's quite a job Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn) has cut out for himself.

For he—along with some other Democratic senators—is trying to block the appointment of Lewis L. Strauss as secretary of commerce. If he succeeds, Kefauver's sure of at least a footnote in all the political history books.

A Congress may take a president's program and cuff it about until it's unrecognizable.

It may not give him the money he insists he needs.

But, although senators may grumble and argue, they usually confirm the men and women the president chooses for his Cabinet.

As far as the records show, only once in the past 91 years has a Cabinet officer, duly nominated, failed to pass his senatorial tests.

In 1925, President Calvin Coolidge named Charles B. Warren his attorney general.

The Senate refused to accept Warren on the grounds that: 1, he had been connected with the sugar trust, and 2, he had been a defendant in a suit brought by the same Justice Department he had been named to head.

But if historical odds all favor Lewis Lichtenstein Strauss, he must have known from the moment he accepted appointment as secretary of commerce last October, that he was in for trouble as soon as the Senate settled down to work in its new session. Strauss has been filling the job since under a recess appointment.

Now 63, Strauss has led a fabulous life.

Into business as a boy, a shoe salesman in his father's Richmond Va., store; Herbert Hoover's secretary, Wall Street banker, naval ordnance officer in World War II who sailed right up to admiral, member, then chairman, of the Atomic Energy Commission.

Along the way he ran into difficulties, as he himself conceded.

In 1954 he was saying, "For the first time in my life I have enemies."

Some of these he made during the Dixon-Yates fight involving the Tennessee Valley Authority. There's no point in rehashing that story here, but Strauss was on one side and Kefauver was on the other.

In 1956, when Kefauver was running for vice president, he was saying the Eisenhower administration was lagging behind in atomic power, and Strauss was hitting back with such comments as "distorted the facts . . . malicious innuendo . . . totally false."

Historically, it would seem that Strauss has it made. But if both sides keep firing away at close range, it could be an interesting Senate hearing.

Aguinaldo Improves

MANILA (UPI) — Gen. Emilio Aguinaldo, 90, who led the Philippines fight for independence against Spain and later against the United States, was reported recovering Thursday from a sudden rise in blood pressure. Aguinaldo's physician, Dr. Vicente de Ocampo, said the old man had to remain confined for further observation, but added he had a good sleep and was very strong.

New Railroad Planned

TOKYO (UPI) — Moscow Radio said Wednesday night the Soviet Union was planning construction of a second trans-Siberian railway from the Ural Mountains to the Pacific Ocean. Construction was scheduled for completion within 15 years, the broadcast heard here said.

Lambda BSP Discusses Ritual Dinner, Cruise Ball

Members of Lambda Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi, were reminded of the Ritual dinner and inter-chapter party, at the meeting earlier in the week at the club rooms. Mrs. Lois Nickle presided. The dinner is to be held April 30 at the Ali Ghan Country Club. The interchapter party, is being given by Omicron Chapter, tonight at the Ali Ghan Country Club, beginning at 8. The chapter continued plans on the Oriental Cruis Ball to be held April 17, by Beta Sigma Phi City Council, at Clary Club, for the Girl Scout camp fund.

Announcement was made of a luncheon meeting to be held by the Nominating committee; and that Lambda chapter will meet March 10 at 7:30 at Hafer House.

Mrs. John Hafer was guest speaker and told of her trip to Russia last summer. She said the Russian plane was not modern, like American planes, and no food was served on it. In contrast to the fact that Russian homes are owned by the state, with as high as four families living in a four room house, with all using the same kitchen; their hotel was elaborate with five rooms for two people. But there was no fruit, fresh vegetables or eggs. Mrs. Hafer said she noticed the women wore no foundation garments, their hair was not waved nor did they wear late styles. However 70 percent of the doctors are women; the school system is good and "the ballet was beautiful." Explaining that she saw "few churches" Mrs. Hafer said, that at the one they attended, the minister compared life to a fountain pen, which may sign a declaration of independence, declare war or end war, but "a pen without ink is like people without love for fellow beings or love of God."

A social followed and refreshments were served. Others attending were Miss Mildred Blades, Miss Joan Hafer, Mrs. Elizabeth Drew, Mrs. Norma Emerick, Mrs. Dolly Green, Mrs. Dortha Hare, Mrs. Patricia Jacobs, Mrs. Donna Lambert, Mrs. Lois McMullen, Mrs. Grace Moore, Mrs. Sara Rank, Mrs. Lois Schadt, Mrs. Robin Sheetz, Mrs. Florence Snelson, Mrs. Helen Treat, Mrs. Genevieve Twigg, Mrs. Ruth Wood, Mrs. LaVerne Young, Mrs. Wilma Jean Heinrich, Mrs. Mona Paupe, Mrs. Joan Llewellyn, Mrs. Mary Pratzman, Mrs. Joan Smith, Mrs. Geannine Windermuth, Mrs. Mary Clark Malone and Mrs. Helen Poe.

Chorus To Rehearse For Folk Song Festival

The Allegany County Homemakers Chorus will have rehearsal Monday to prepare for the "American Folk Song Festival." The festival is to be held in May with all county clubs participating.

Mrs. Charles Burkey will preside at the rehearsal at 7:30 p.m., in the siesta room of Central YMCA.

Mrs. George L. Deal, LaVale, is a surgical patient in George Washington University Hospital, Washington.

Association Will Meet March 4

Programs for this year's meetings will be distributed at the business session of the Women's Association of First Presbyterian Church, which will be held March 4 in the fellowship hall, at 8 p.m. Mrs. Karl G. Perry will preside. The program cover has a copy of the window which was used as the theme for the Quadrennial meeting of the United Presbyterian Women at Purdue University, which was explained by Mrs. T. L. Richards.

Devotionals are to be conducted by Mrs. William Courtney and Mrs. William Ludman, using as their theme, "This Faith We Share."

"United Presbyterian Women, Collectively, Indispensable," is the subject of the program. Taking part will be Mrs. Wallace Smith, Mrs. Herman Koegel, Mrs. William Grimm, Mrs. Richards and Mrs. John Lower.

The Liller-Robinette Circle will be hostesses for the social following the meeting.

Club Will Hold Family Dinner 17th

The Flintstone Homemakers Club decided to have a family dinner on March 17. It will be "Pot Luck" style. Plans were made at the meeting in the Flintstone Methodist Church.

Following the Lord's Prayer, Mrs. H. V. Bender read the Homemakers Creed. Miss Pearl Wilson gave the history of the hymn, "Our God, Our Help in Ages Past." Mrs. B. C. Robinette accompanied the group singing. Roll call was answered with Valentine greetings.

A reading was given by Mrs. Robinette in memory of Miss Maude Bean and Mrs. Agnes Roberts. The group sang, "Beyond the Sunset."

A report on choosing foundation garments was given by Mrs. Guy Thompson. Mrs. Paul Oster reported on the Community Club Awards, which the group voted to join. A hooked rug, being made by Mrs. William Mauzy, was exhibited and discussed. The quotation of the month was read by Mrs. Lawrence Smith, and the group sang, "Aunt Dinah's Quilting Party."

Mrs. H. C. Willison and Mrs. Kenneth McLaughlin were hostesses for the social hour. Others attending were Mrs. H. K. Chaney, Mrs. Russell Dolly, Mrs. Arthur Howard, Mrs. Eugene Kinton, Mrs. Ralph Moore, Mrs. Curtis Nash, Mrs. Carolyn Nixon, Mrs. Franklin Norris and Mrs. Oka Twigg.

Lay Health Group To Hold Annual Luncheon June 2

The Allegany County Public Health Lay Group was the guest of the city group at a games party and meeting Tuesday in the Union Street health room. Miss Margaret Smith conducted the business session.

June 2 was selected for the annual spring luncheon and a committee was appointed to make further arrangements. It consists of Mrs. Charles Heller, Mrs. Thomas Williamson, Miss Smith and Mrs. F. Patrick Allender. A business meeting will be held also and a vice-chairman and secretary are to be elected. Members were urged to make reservations early. Appointed on the Nominating committee are Mrs. T. S. May, Mrs. Pearl Sittig and Mrs. Thomas Williamson.

New members introduced were Mrs. Bertha Scollick, Mrs. Naomi Evanson, Mrs. Mildred Bruce and Mrs. Robert Nave. Guests welcomed were Miss Joan Lear, Mrs. Anthony Cioni and Mrs. Harold Erb. Reports on group activities were given by Mrs. Pearl Sittig, Frostburg; Mrs. Betty Deter, Bowman's Addition, and Mrs. Elizabeth Nave, city. Mrs. Edith Cessna, chairman of the Cancer Dressing project, reported that members had made 650 dozen dressings. Miss Grace Hardman thanked Mrs. Nave for the sewing and mending done for the health department.

Games were played and prizes awarded. Refreshments were served. Others attending were Mrs. Lewis Twigg, Mrs. Beverly Shaner, Mrs. Iona Keister, Mrs. Ivy Jones, Mrs. Lois Jackson, Mrs. Mildred Hickle, Mrs. Mary Jane Tyree, Mrs. Catherine Brown and Mrs. Helen Vogel.

Mrs. Tolson Receives MA Degree

Mrs. Howard L. Tolson, Braddock Road, has received her Master of Arts Degree in Administration from Columbia University. She has her Bachelor of Science degree from the University of Wisconsin.

Coming here from Fairmont, W. Va., in February 1934, she was made director of Memorial Hospital School of Nursing and superintendent of nurses in 1935, resigning when she was married in September 1937.

With the need of nurses during the war, Mrs. Tolson returned to the hospital in February 1941 as educational director. She resigned that position in September 1947 and went to Frostburg State Teachers College in 1948, where she taught sciences for nine years, until her resignation to obtain her Master's degree. Receiving her degree in midyear, Mrs. Tolson expects to return to New York in June for commencement exercises.

Cresaptown 4-H Plans Programs

Plans to present demonstrations at Homemakers meetings were formulated by the Cresaptown 4-H Girls Club, held at the home of Mrs. Edith Lechliter, local leader, with Mrs. Bruce Brenneman assistant. The demonstrations will be given at the Cresap, Bowling Green and Potomac Park Homemaker meetings, in April.

Janice Horton presided and led the pledge. Miss Nancy Marsteller spoke on National 4-H Week and the girls decided to place exhibits with the 4-H emblem, in stores in Cresaptown and Potomac Park. Miss Marsteller also spoke of the demonstrations, public speaking contest and camping, July 18-20.

The club named Janice Horton, Donna Simpson, Carol Long and Caroline Walker to represent the club at the next Trail meeting, which will be March 7 at 9:30 a.m. Penlope Stein gave a demonstration on salad. The next meeting will be March 19 at the home of Caroline Walker, McMullen Highway.

Others present were Caroline Walker, Linda Clayton, Benah Higgs, Margaret Smith, Karen Phillips, Joann Harrison, Linda Stein, Linda Brenenman, Sheila Simpson, Barbara Walker, Linda Broadwater, Jane Triplett, Lois Brenneman and Carol Long.

Church To Mark Week Of Prayer

A "Week of Prayer" will be observed by the LaVale Baptist Church, with Mrs. Sarah Lewis chairman. It will begin Monday with a "Round the Clock" prayer service.

Tuesday Circle 3 will meet at 7:30 at the home of Miss Dora Lewis, Winchester Road. Circle 1 will meet Wednesday at 1 at the home of Mrs. Barbara Gifford. Thursday Circle 2 will meet at the church at 7:30. The concluding service will be held Friday evening, with all circles taking part.

Blackboard Jungles Of Big Cities One Of Most Neglected Mission Frontiers

By CLAIRE COX

NEW YORK (UPI) — Churches are calling for missionaries to spread Christianity in the blackboard jungles of big cities as well as the African veldt.

Protestant leaders report that the big town is one of the most exciting missionary frontiers in the world today.

But they also say it is one of the most neglected.

The Congregational Christian Churches recently made an extensive study of the problems churches face in the midst of the upheavals that are changing the faces of downtown—or inner city—areas and the composition of their populations.

What the researchers found was a sharp need for urban church re-development to accompany the general urban renewal programs under way in many places. They found a need for fresh church leadership, for leaders with no vested interests and for leaders who would devote their time to leading instead of policy-making.

Sees Many Opportunities

"The frontiers of the Christian mission in the city are probably the most exciting and potentially opulent opportunities that the future holds for Protestantism," said the Rev. Joseph W. Merchant, secretary of the Inner-City Church of the Congregational Christian Board of Home Missions.

The Congregationalists found that one-fifth to one-half of all foreign born Americans live in inner-cities. Forty to 90 per cent of them are non-whites. In New York City alone, more than 55 per cent of the 960,000 church-connected Protestants are non-white.

Migration of these Protestants to the city has been stepped up, and they are moving around more within the city, while other Protestants have spent the last 50 years running away from the city, Merchant said. Even church leaders have moved to suburbia and commute to their city jobs.

"How do you evangalize people on the run?" asked Paul Silas Heath, recently retired New York general presbyter of the Presbyterian Church.

Cites Social Caste System

W. Vernon Middleton, general secretary of the Division of National Missions of the Methodist Church Board of Missions, said one difficulty encountered in cities has been the social caste system that has accompanied racial stratification.

"There was a time when the Methodist church had a great appeal for the common people," he said. "But times have changed. . . we must either reorient our total urban church program to minister effectively to more than the privileged class, or we must reconcile ourselves to the truth that we have been unable to establish effective communication with other than the top-layer aggregate."

The Rev. Leland Gartrell executive secretary of the Department of Church Planning and Research of the Protestant Council of New York, said churchmen must recognize that many big city churches simply can not be self-supporting.

Seek Urban Solution

"The areas of greatest need have the fewest resources to invest," he said. "We must find a way to pour resources into not only what seem to be the most promising sites, but also in those churches which may never be self-supporting."

Many churches are trying to solve the urban problem, both on national and local scales. Only recently, the United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A. announced plans for a million-dollar expansion of church work in urban renewal. The money will go for larger and improved buildings, training urban church workers and helping churches in financial need.

The New York Mission Society has an active program for helping churches get on their feet.

Study Experimental Programs

The Episcopal church has been studying experimental parish programs. Christ Episcopal Church in Cincinnati has been conducting an experimental program to test the value of church advertising.

American Baptists are trying to reach out to Negro Baptist bodies to make Baptist churches more meaningful. The Nazarene Congregational Church in Brooklyn is giving remedial reading to underprivileged youngsters. St. Augustine's Episcopalian Church on New York's lower East Side, is working with street gangs. The Congregationalists have a mission to the "beatniks" in San Francisco.

The Rev. G. Paul Musselman, director of industrial city churches of the Protestant Episcopal Church, puts the whole problem this way:

"The role of the city church is no longer that of humanizing life in the city. Our new role may be that of preventing an urban civilization from committing suicide."

Detroit Draftee Outsmarts Self

DETROIT (UPI) — Cara Woods Jr., 22, was arrested by the FBI Wednesday because he was just too smart.

Authorities said Woods got a 4-F draft rating last summer when he scored only two points out of a possible 100 in the armed forces general education test.

FBI agents got suspicious about how anybody could be so dumb. They checked Woods' high school record and found he had made 15 A's and five B's in 20 courses and had an A average in mathematics at Wayne University.

The agents charged Woods with hindering and interfering with the Selective Service Act.

Britain To Rely On 'Blue Streak' Missile

LONDON (UPI) — Defense Minister Duncan Sandy's said Wednesday that Britain will bank on the British-built "Blue Streak" rocket fired from underground launching sites as her main nuclear age deterrent weapon.

The missile, which can carry a nuclear warhead, has a range of 2,000 miles. The air distance from London to Moscow is 1,500 miles.

Sandys told the House of Commons that unlike the United States, Britain cannot afford several types of rockets.

"If we could afford to have an assortment of deterrents," he said, "to have other clubs in the bag, we would certainly like to have a proportion of (U.S.) Polaris and Minute Man missiles in our quiver."

NO MIAMI HONEYMOON

TOKYO (UPI) — Crown Prince Akihito and his commoner bride-to-be, Miss Michiko Shoda, will not honeymoon in Miami, Fla., as has been rumored, it was announced Thursday. The imperial couple will take a wedding trip in Japan.

Blackboard Jungles Of Big Cities One Of Most Neglected Mission Frontiers

By CLAIRE COX

NEW YORK (UPI) — Churches are calling for missionaries to spread Christianity in the blackboard jungles of big cities as well as the African veldt.

Protestant leaders report that the big town is one of the most exciting missionary frontiers in the world today.

But they also say it is one of the most neglected.

The Congregational Christian Churches recently made an extensive study of the problems churches face in the midst of the upheavals that are changing the faces of downtown—or inner city—areas and the composition of their populations.

What the researchers found was a sharp need for urban church re-development to accompany the general urban renewal programs under way in many places. They found a need for fresh church leadership, for leaders with no vested interests and for leaders who would devote their time to leading instead of policy-making.

Sees Many Opportunities

"The frontiers of the Christian mission in the city are probably the most exciting and potentially opulent opportunities that the future holds for Protestantism," said the Rev. Joseph W. Merchant, secretary of the Inner-City Church of the Congregational Christian Board of Home Missions.

The Congregationalists found that one-fifth to one-half of all foreign born Americans live in inner-cities. Forty to 90 per cent of them are non-whites. In New York City alone, more than 55 per cent of the 960,000 church-connected Protestants are non-white.

Migration of these Protestants to the city has been stepped up, and they are moving around more within the city, while other Protestants have spent the last 50 years running away from the city, Merchant said. Even church leaders have moved to suburbia and commute to their city jobs.

"How do you evangalize people on the run?" asked Paul Silas Heath, recently retired New York general presbyter of the Presbyterian Church.

Cites Social Caste System

W. Vernon Middleton, general secretary of the Division of National Missions of the Methodist Church Board of Missions, said one difficulty encountered in cities has been the social caste system that has accompanied racial stratification.

"There was a time when the Methodist church had a great appeal for the common people," he said. "But times have changed . . we must either reorient our total urban church program to minister effectively to more than the privileged class, or we must reconcile ourselves to the truth that we have been unable to establish effective communication with other than the top-layer aggregate."

The Rev. Leland Gartrell executive secretary of the Department of Church Planning and Research of the Protestant Council of New York, said churchmen must recognize that many big city churches simply can not be self-supporting.

Seek Urban Solution

"The areas of greatest need have the fewest resources to invest," he said. "We must find a way to pour resources into not only what seem to be the most promising sites, but also in those churches which may never be self-supporting."

Many churches are trying to solve the urban problem, both on national and local scales. Only recently, the United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A. announced plans for a million-dollar expansion of church work in urban renewal. The money will go for larger and improved buildings, training urban church workers and helping churches in financial need.

The New York Mission Society has an active program for helping churches get on their feet.

Study Experimental Programs

The Episcopal church has been studying experimental parish programs. Christ Episcopal Church in Cincinnati has been conducting an experimental program to test the value of church advertising.

American Baptists are trying to reach out to Negro Baptist bodies to make Baptist churches more meaningful. The Nazarene Congregational Church in Brooklyn is giving remedial reading to underprivileged youngsters. St. Augustine's Episcopalian Church on New York's lower East Side, is working with street gangs. The Congregationalists have a mission to the "beatniks" in San Francisco.

The Rev. G. Paul Musselman, director of industrial city churches of the Protestant Episcopal Church, puts the whole problem this way:

"The role of the city church is no longer that of humanizing life in the city. Our new role may be that of preventing an urban civilization from committing suicide."

Detroit Draftee Outsmarts Self

DETROIT (UPI) — Cara Woods Jr., 22, was arrested by the FBI Wednesday because he was just too smart.

Authorities said Woods got a 4-F draft rating last summer when he scored only two points out of a possible 100 in the armed forces general education test.

FBI agents got suspicious about how anybody could be so dumb. They checked Woods' high school record and found he had made 15 A's and five B's in 20 courses and had an A average in mathematics at Wayne University.

The agents charged Woods with hindering and interfering with the Selective Service Act.

Britain To Rely On 'Blue Streak' Missile

LONDON (UPI) — Defense Minister Duncan Sandy's said Wednesday that Britain will bank on the British-built "Blue Streak" rocket fired from underground launching sites as her main nuclear age deterrent weapon.

The missile, which can carry a nuclear warhead, has a range of 2,000 miles. The air distance from London to Moscow is 1,500 miles.

Sandys told the House of Commons that unlike the United States, Britain cannot afford several types of rockets.

"If we could afford to have an assortment of deterrents," he said, "to have other clubs in the bag, we would certainly like to have a proportion of (U.S.) Polaris and Minute Man missiles in our quiver."

NO MIAMI HONEYMOON

TOKYO (UPI) — Crown Prince Akihito and his commoner bride-to-be, Miss Michiko Shoda, will not honeymoon in Miami, Fla., as has been rumored, it was announced Thursday. The imperial couple will take a wedding trip in Japan.

Housewife Ends Week-Long Duel With Oil Truck

BALTIMORE (AP) — Mrs. James F. Thompson's week-long duel with an oil truck ended Thursday.

The Benson Oil Co. got its truck back—the battery dead. The firm also was trying to give away the truck's 500 gallons of fuel oil but found no immediate takers.

A week ago the Towson grandmother took the keys from the truck's ignition when she found the vehicle in her driveway. She said she was tired of trucks using it.

Negotiations, even threats of court action failed to move her—or the truck.

Finally, the oil company made this offer: give back the keys and it would give the 500 gallons of oil to Mrs. T's favorite charity.

It got back the keys but a church and a charitable organization Mrs. Thompson named for the oil refused it, saying they didn't want to become involved.

The firm was awaiting other suggestions from Mrs. Thompson.

WOULD NATIONALIZE STEEL

LONDON (UPI) — The British Labor Party plans to nationalize the naiton's steel industry if it wins the next general election. The party's executive council approved the nationalization plan at a meeting Wednesday.

TWO DIE IN TRAILER HOME FIRE—A fireman pours water on the remains of a house trailer after it was destroyed by a fire, killing two children. BUY NEW HELMETS

BONN, Germany (UPI) — The West German army has ordered 40,000 Swedish helmets to replace American-style helmets. The Defense Ministry said American-style helmets had been found too heavy for comfort and tipped forward when soldiers "hit the dirt," threatening to break the bridge of the wearer's nose.

Dogwood bark formerly was used for treating mangy dogs.

Stamped slogans on mail are nothing new. Benjamin Franklin, a deputy postmaster general for the American Colonies, franked his envelopes with "Free B. Franklin." After the War for Independence started, he patriotically switched the words to read "B. Free Franklin."

Seniority Ruling Sought For Flood Control Crew

The Civil Service Commission was asked yesterday to solve an issue concerning seniority rights of five Street Department employes who were transferred into the newly created Flood Maintenance Department.

Mayor J. Edwin Keech said yesterday that the men were not transferred but were only assigned to the new unit which will be responsible for maintaining this city's $18,000,000 flood protection works.

The action was taken by an order adopted February 16 which states the men "shall be assigned from the Street Department to the Flood Control Maintenance Department which is under the direction of the Mayor and Council.

John J. Long, commissioner of streets and public property, requested the opinion in a letter to Francis A. Kenny, chairman of the commission.

Mr. Long said the problem was broached by Guy Long, secretary of Local 812, Municipal Wokers Union, when the five men were transferred.

The order was passed with a 4-1 vote with Commissioner Long against the proposal.

Seniority Retained

By that action, Roy Maphis was made foreman of the new department with Emory H. Sager, Gilbert L. Markwood, Joseph J. Soethe and Harry Sharretts as its four-man crew.

These men had been in the Street Department under a flood maintenance unit. Mayor Keech's order further stated that the five employes would retain their seniority rights.

Then this past Monday, the council tabled an order returning one of the five men, Markwood, back to the Street Department.

Markwood, the commissioner noted, who has a very good record in the Street Department, requested the transfer back to his former job.

Long Asks Ruling

Mr. Long stated: "For the protection of the seniority of the men in the Department of Streets and Public Property, will you please have your body rule on these changes. The Civil Service Rule on transfers states 'With the approval of the commission any regularly appointed employe of the classified service may, upon the written request of both appointing authorities involved, be transferred from the position he holds to a like position in another department. The seniority of a transferred employe shall begin anew as of the date of the transfer.' and Rule 9, Section 1, states 'Seniority of employes in the classified city service shall be confined to the department wherein employed except any special case that may be ruled upon by the commission.''

Mr. Long asked: "How can an employe hold seniority in two departments?

"These five transferred workers have been in the flood maintenance department under the commissioner of streets and public property since the inception of the flood maintenance section approximately two years ago. Some of the men hold additional years of seniority in the Department of Streets and Public Property," he concluded.

Mayor Keech said the men were not transferred to another department but were given specific duties so they will be available for flood control duties at all times.

St. Mary's Plans Carnival Sunday

Final arrangements were completed Wednesday for the spaghetti supper and carnival scheduled Sunday at St. Mary's Catholic Church.

Joseph Divico, general chairman, said all workers met Wednesday and outlined plans for the affair which is being sponsored jointly by the parish and Wamba Caravan 89, Order of Alhambra, of the Knights of Columbus.

Proceeds of the benefit will be applied to the church's building fund. Plans are now being made for the construction of a new school, convent and rectory, according to Rev. Charles W. Bogan, pastor.

Divico said all workers should report to the parish hall this Saturday at 1 p. m. to begin setting up tables for the supper. Booths will also be erected on Saturday.

Honor Roll Lists Charles Knotts

Charles Knotts, son of Mr. and Mrs. William P. Knotts, Bowling Avenue, Roberts Place, made the honor roll for the first semester at the Shenandoah Conservatory of Music and Shenandoah College, Dayton, Va.

He is a freshman in Shenandoah College where he is enrolled in the business administration curriculum.

Basketball Areas Available Now

The Recreation Department said today that six poles equipped with banking boards, and hoops with nets have been erected to date under Commissioner John J. Long's neighborhood basketball program.

Recreation Director C. Eugene Mason said the basketball equipment has been installed at Avirett Avenue and Patterson Avenue; Baker Street; Bond Street; Chestnut Street; Wilmont Avenue; and the Browning Street - Oak Street corner.

Street Department and Recreation Department crews erected the equipment on sites where permission and cooperation has been received from property owners.

Mason said numerous other sites are being readied or planned.

Any one having a site on which the basketball equipment can be erected is asked to contact the Recreation Department since a number is still needed, Mason said.

The play areas have been well received by youngsters, the director added.

Procedure On Liquor Licenses Is Revised

The practice of holding hearings on two days for applicants for renewal of alcoholic beverage licenses was abolished yesterday by the Allegany County Board of Alcoholic Beverage Licenses Commissioners.

Edward J. Ryan, recently named to the board by Gov. Tawes, recommended at yesterday's board meeting that the practice be discontinued. He said it was unnecessary and only caused a jam in the office of Joseph E. Boden, clerk of court, on the two days set aside.

Stanley O. Hamilton, board chairman, and Howard Vandegrift, the other members of the board, agreed that the system be scrapped.

Instead, the board said that persons who apply for renewal of their licenses will be able to obtain their permits by going directly to the clerk's office on or after April 21.

The board said that applicants for new licenses will be called in for discussion and licensees against whom complaints have been lodged will also be called in before the board for settlement of problems.

The new procedure will be more efficient and will also eliminate long waiting by licensees at the Court House which resulted in past years, it was stated.

It was stressed by the board that licensees make application for renewals on or before March 25 so they can be processed and advertised as required by law. Any delinquent applicants will face the prospect of being without their permits to operate, it was pointed out. Licenses become effective May 1.

Station Is Inspected

Members of the City Council, Mayor J. Edwin Keech, representatives of the Corps of Army Engineers, and City Engineer C. R. Nuzum were present.

Seniority Ruling Sought For Flood Control Crew

The Civil Service Commission was asked yesterday to solve an issue concerning seniority rights of five Street Department employes who were transferred into the newly created Flood Maintenance Department.

Mayor J. Edwin Keech said yesterday that the men were not transferred but were only assigned to the new unit which will be responsible for maintaining this city's $18,000,000 flood protection works.

The action was taken by an order adopted February 16 which states the men "shall be assigned from the Street Department to the Flood Control Maintenance Department which is under the direction of the Mayor and Council.

John J. Long, commissioner of streets and public property, requested the opinion in a letter to Francis A. Kenny, chairman of the commission.

Mr. Long said the problem was broached by Guy Long, secretary of Local 812, Municipal Wokers Union, when the five men were transferred.

The order was passed with a 4-1 vote with Commissioner Long against the proposal.

Seniority Retained

By that action, Roy Maphis was made foreman of the new department with Emory H. Sager, Gilbert L. Markwood, Joseph J. Soethe and Harry Sharretts as its four-man crew.

These men had been in the Street Department under a flood maintenance unit. Mayor Keech's order further stated that the five employes would retain their seniority rights.

Then this past Monday, the council tabled an order returning one of the five men, Markwood, back to the Street Department.

Markwood, the commissioner noted, who has a very good record in the Street Department, requested the transfer back to his former job.

Long Asks Ruling

Mr. Long stated: "For the protection of the seniority of the men in the Department of Streets and Public Property, will you please have your body rule on these changes. The Civil Service Rule on transfers states 'With the approval of the commission any regularly appointed employe of the classified service may, upon the written request of both appointing authorities involved, be transferred from the position he holds to a like position in another department. The seniority of a transferred employe shall begin anew as of the date of the transfer.' and Rule 9, Section 1, states 'Seniority of employes in the classified city service shall be confined to the department wherein employed except any special case that may be ruled upon by the commission.'"

Mr. Long asked: "How can an employe hold seniority in two departments?

"These five transferred workers have been in the flood maintenance department under the commissioner of streets and public property since the inception of the flood maintenance section approximately two years ago. Some of the men hold additional years of seniority in the Department of Streets and Public Property," he concluded.

Mayor Keech said the men were not transferred to another department but were given specific duties so they will be available for flood control duties at all times.

Liquor Board Splits, Grants LaVale Switch

The Allegany County Board of License Commissioners yesterday voted to grant a transfer of the package liquor goods store license of the Potomac Fruit Market, Inc., from North Centre and Frederick streets to a site in LaVale.

Voting against the granting the liquor license transfer was Edward J. Ryan, who recently was named to the board. Mr. Ryan, a Democrat, said that a large number of persons signed the remonstrance against issuance of the license and he felt that their wishes should be considered.

Stanley O. Hamilton, the Republican member, and Howard Vandegrift, a Democrat, both voted for the transfer. They said that testimony in the remonstrance hearing February 17 showed that there are 22 commercial establishments in the section and that there had been an on-sale beer license in an adjacent property at one time.

All three board members agreed that the remonstrants' testimony that property values would be effected and that there would be an adverse affect on children who take busses to school from a nearby intersection were not valid.

Earl Allen, who is one of the licensees, testified concerning the commercial aspects of the section along U. S. Route 40 from the site of the proposed premises and the Six Mile House. The other licensees are Edna Griffith and Bertha Walker.

Milton Gerson was attorney for the applicants and Earl E. Manges was counsel for the remonstrants.

Distributors Of Kelly Tires Convene Here

Seventy-two Kelly-Springfield Tire Company Cumberland District distributors attended the company's 1959 spring distributor meeting at the Shrine Country Club yesterday morning.

M. T. Powers, Kelly vice president - sales, told the distributors about Kelly's "better-than-industry" sales performance during 1958 and Kelly's production and product control improvements to handle 1959's increased consumer demand.

From the home office in Cumberland, L. J. Auker, advertising and sales promotion manager, told the distributors, "Everything points to a terrific growth in replacement tire sales volume in 1959. Industry estimates forecast renewal sales this year of better than sixty-one million passenger tires, almost nine million truck and bus tires and almost two million farm tractor and implement tires.

"The retreading business also continues to register greater and greater gains. The industry forecast for this year is approximately 30 million units for passenger retreads and 8½ million truck retreads," Auker concluded.

Other indications of a record-breaking sales year, as well as the features and benefits of the complete Kelly line of tires for 1959, were discussed by S. W. Harter, Cumberland district manager. The meeting concluded with lunch.

615 Allegany High Pupils Miss Classes

The attendance picture in Allegany County schools was spotty yesterday with increases in some schools and slight decreases in others.

Allegany High School reported the largest number absent with 615 students off due to the flu incidence. Bruce High School in Westernport listed 149 absentees as compared to 125 on Tuesday.

Fort Hill High School had 483 absent yesterday while only 365 were away on Tuesday. Beall High in Frostburg had 80 students absent.

Gephart Elementary listed 22 children absent, a slight increase. West Side Elementary also had a slight increase to 63 pupils compared to 54 on Tuesday. Mt. Royal Elementary has a slight increase with 43 children absent.

Valley High in Lonaconing had 133 absent compared with 162 Wednesday. Beall Elementary in Frostburg had 128 pupils absent, an increase from yesterday's 113 pupils. SS. Peter and Paul parochial school had 58 absentees yesterday, which is about the same as Wednesday, while the Ursuline Academy list of students absent was 27, a slight increase.

Johnson Heights Elementary reported a decrease of eight in the number of pupils ill, with 43 absent yesterday. John Humbird Elementary had 33 children absent, the high point of the week.

Hold On To Your Pocketbooks!
If this bill passes the jug stores close!

Special interests have worked out a new campaign to make you pay more for your milk. They are backing a bill in the Maryland General Assembly, which proposes the establishment of a state milk control commission. No matter how they try to justify it, this bill means just one thing to you: Higher milk prices! The people in favor of milk controls want to fatten their profits at your expense. All they have to do is convince you of the "evils" of free competition.

The backers of this bill have already begun their campaign against milk freedom by spreading a lot of malarky about needing a milk commission to insure a stable milk market. They're saying that a milk commission is vital to insure a constant milk supply, and they claim that the farmer needs it to get better prices for his milk.

But here's what they're not saying:

1. This bill would mean the end of THE JUG STORES AND THE SAVINGS THEY MAKE POSSIBLE.
2. You, the consumer, don't have anything to say about milk prices in a controlled market.
3. The law of supply and demand goes out the window when prices are fixed.

You're supposed to think it's O.K. to pay the retail price that's fixed by a commission, but they don't want you to know that this price is usually fixed at the highest home delivered price. They're not saying that their profits will swell if a commission sets the same price for all milk—home delivered or store-bought. They're not letting on that the only way to save money on milk in a controlled market, is to buy less. You're supposed to find these things out for yourself, after the bill is written into law.

Here are some more things about milk controls you won't hear from these special interest groups: When consumers pay more for fluid milk, they use less on their tables. The consumers of states like Virginia, Pennsylvania, and Massachusetts, where they have Milk Commissions, will testify to that fact. When fluid milk consumption goes down, the milk not used for drinking is made into dairy products and sold. When items like butter, cheese, and non-fat milk solids are not sold, they go into surplus and are bought by the government.

In other words, you wind up paying taxes to buy surplus dairy products which you couldn't afford to buy in fluid form in the first place!

But it doesn't end there. As high prices force consumers to buy less and less fluid milk, the farmer's income drops. Since the farmer's income depends mainly on how much fluid milk he sells, he has to ask a higher price for his milk. When this happens, the milk commission raises retail milk prices and the whole cycle begins again. Less milk is used, more surplus is created, farm income goes down, and the commission socks you with another price increase. In fact, this very thing is happening in Virginia right now.

Compare this with the freedom you have in Maryland. Now, you buy all the milk you need from the dairy that sells at the price you want to pay. Prices are not controlled. They seek their own level. They are set by the operation of the law of supply and demand.

Here's how this free competition benefits you. In Baltimore, for instance, families consumed about 100 pounds more fluid milk per person in 1956, than did the families of Richmond, Virginia. Virginia has a State Milk Commission. The Baltimore housewife pays about 18 cents less per gallon of milk than her Richmond counterpart. Maryland farmers sell more fluid milk, and are enjoying a good income.

Taxes in Maryland do not include the cost of administering a state milk commission. Maryland dairies are constantly striving to improve their products, their methods of distribution, and their services. Dairies in Virginia have no such incentive. In fact, one major city in Virginia has only two milk distributors.

Milk is the most complete food known to man. It is essential for the growth and health of babies and children. Milk prices must be kept low enough to allow every family to buy all the milk it needs for proper health. No state milk commission will ever be able to keep retail milk prices as low as companies engaged in free enterprise in a free milk market. Don't let them take away your right to save on the milk your family needs.

Protect your right to a free milk market. Write Governor J. Millard Tawes, your newspaper editors, and your delegates. Tell them that you are against the proposed state milk commission. This is an appeal to all public-spirited citizens to join in the fight against power-hungry special interest groups. Add your voice to the growing throng of consumers who want to keep their milk free from controls.

MARYLANDERS FOR MILK FREEDOM, a group of public spirited citizens, have already organized in a crusade to protect Maryland families against the evils of milk controls. Liquor Board Splits, Grants LaVale Switch

The Allegany County Board of License Commissioners yesterday voted to grant a transfer of the package liquor goods store license of the Potomac Fruit Market, Inc., from North Centre and Frederick streets to a site in LaVale.

Voting against the granting the liquor license transfer was Edward J. Ryan, who recently was named to the board. Mr. Ryan, a Democrat, said that a large number of persons signed the remonstrance against issuance of the license and he felt that their wishes should be considered.

Stanley O. Hamilton, the Republican member, and Howard Vandegrift, a Democrat, both voted for the transfer. They said that testimony in the remonstrance hearing February 17 showed that there are 22 commercial establishments in the section and that there had been an on-sale beer license in an adjacent property at one time.

All three board members agreed that the remonstrants' testimony that property values would be effected and that there would be an adverse affect on children who take busses to school from a nearby intersection were not valid.

Earl Allen, who is one of the licensees, testified concerning the commercial aspects of the section along U. S. Route 40 from the site of the proposed premises and the Six Mile House. The other licensees are Edna Griffith and Bertha Walker.

Milton Gerson was attorney for the applicants and Earl E. Manges was counsel for the remonstrants.

Distributors Of Kelly Tires Convene Here

Seventy-two Kelly-Springfield Tire Company Cumberland District distributors attended the company's 1959 spring distributor meeting at the Shrine Country Club yesterday morning.

M. T. Powers, Kelly vice president - sales, told the distributors about Kelly's "better-than-industry" sales performance during 1958 and Kelly's production and product control improvements to handle 1959's increased consumer demand.

From the home office in Cumberland, L. J. Auker, advertising and sales promotion manager, told the distributors, "Everything points to a terrific growth in replacement tire sales volume in 1959. Industry estimates forecast renewal sales this year of better than sixty-one million passenger tires, almost nine million truck and bus tires and almost two million farm tractor and implement tires.

"The retreading business also continues to register greater and greater gains. The industry forecast for this year is approximately 30 million units for passenger retreads and 8½ million truck retreads," Auker concluded.

Other indications of a record-breaking sales year, as well as the features and benefits of the complete Kelly line of tires for 1959, were discussed by S. W. Harter, Cumberland district manager. The meeting concluded with lunch.

615 Allegany High Pupils Miss Classes

The attendance picture in Allegany County schools was spotty yesterday with increases in some schools and slight decreases in others.

Allegany High School reported the largest number absent with 615 students off due to the flu incidence. Bruce High School in Westernport listed 149 absentees as compared to 125 on Tuesday.

Fort Hill High School had 483 absent yesterday while only 365 were away on Tuesday. Beall High in Frostburg had 80 students absent.

Gephart Elementary listed 22 children absent, a slight increase. West Side Elementary also had a slight increase to 63 pupils compared to 54 on Tuesday. Mt. Royal Elementary has a slight increase with 43 children absent.

Valley High in Lonaconing had 133 absent compared with 162 Wednesday. Beall Elementary in Frostburg had 128 pupils absent, an increase from yesterday's 113 pupils. SS. Peter and Paul parochial school had 58 absentees yesterday, which is about the same as Wednesday, while the Ursuline Academy list of students absent was 27, a slight increase.

Johnson Heights Elementary reported a decrease of eight in the number of pupils ill, with 43 absent yesterday. John Humbird Elementary had 33 children absent, the high point of the week.

Hold On To Your Pocketbooks!
If this bill passes the jug stores close!

Special interests have worked out a new campaign to make you pay more for your milk. They are backing a bill in the Maryland General Assembly, which proposes the establishment of a state milk control commission. No matter how they try to justify it, this bill means just one thing to you: Higher milk prices! The people in favor of milk controls want to fatten their profits at your expense. All they have to do is convince you of the "evils" of free competition.

The backers of this bill have already begun their campaign against milk freedom by spreading a lot of malarky about needing a milk commission to insure a stable milk market. They're saying that a milk commission is vital to insure a constant milk supply, and they claim that the farmer needs it to get better prices for his milk.

But here's what they're not saying:

1. This bill would mean the end of THE JUG STORES AND THE SAVINGS THEY MAKE POSSIBLE.
2. You, the consumer, don't have anything to say about milk prices in a controlled market.
3. The law of supply and demand goes out the window when prices are fixed.

You're supposed to think it's O.K. to pay the retail price that's fixed by a commission, but they don't want you to know that this price is usually fixed at the highest home delivered price. Board Suspends Tavern License

The license of Ruffo's Tavern in Mt. Savage was suspended for six days yesterday by the Allegany County Board of Alcoholic Beverage License Commissioners.

A plea of guility to possession of a gaming device in the form of a tip board was entered by the licensees at yesterday's hearing. The suspension starts March 1 and continues through March 6.

Matthew J. Mullaney was attorney for the tavern operators at the hearing. He told the board that it was a minor infraction of the law and urged leniency. The tavern licensees had been fined $100 each during a trial last week before Associate Judge Neil C. Fraley in Allegany County Circuit Court.

Fort Hill Unit Completes Disaster Chest

The Junior Red Cross unit at Fort Hill High School has completed a project which will directly benefit a disaster area where school's and children's institutions have been affected.

The Fort Hill unit has completed the construction and fitting-out of a Red Cross chest which will eventually wind up in disaster or devastated area where school, recreational and health supplies are needed.

The chest was constructed in an industrial arts class under the direction of Lee Alexander, shop instructor, and supplies purchased under the supervision of Mrs. Albert Hast, faculty sponsor of the Fort Hill Junior Red Cross.

Mrs. John M. Robb, chairman of the high school section of the Junior Red Cross, accepted the chest on behalf of the Allegany County Red Cross Chapter. She explained that the chest program was inaugurated during the 1947-48 school year, and that since that time 1,874 chests have been shipped to distressed areas.

Shop students who were chiefly responsible for the building of the chest were Lawrence Cosgrove and William Llwellyn, while the purchasing of supplies was done by Bonnie Sansom, Bonnie Saville, Hugh Brinkman and Truman Breighner.

Calvin Harbaugh assisted in the packing of the chest which was done under supervision of Mrs. George W. Legge, executive secretary of the County Red Cross Chapter.

Mrs. Hast said the Fort Hill Hi-Y and Tri-Hi-Y units contributed towards the purchasing of supplies aside from the donations made by the student body.

Recipients of direct aid from Junior Red Cross units from throughout the country were the surviviors of the tragic parochial school fire last fall in Chicago, Mrs. Legge pointed out, explaining that a Red Cross chest was provided for each of the 24 rooms in the school.

The Chicago parochial school students who survived the disaster also were furnished a new book bag and gift box each, which drew the comment from the archdiocesan superintendent of schools that "if the adult and junior members of the Red Cross could have seen the looks on the faces of the children they would be amply repaid."

Mrs. Legge said the Junior Red Cross chests were also provided for the schools in the southwest section of the country which were either damaged or destroyed in floods last year.

Missionary To Africa To Address Nazarenes

Members of nine area Nazarene churches will attend a program today at 7:30 p. m. at First Church of the Nazarene, Oldtown Road, to hear Rev. Paul H. Hetrick, a missionary to Africa.

Churches at St. Clairsville, Bedford, Hyndman, Hancock, Moscow, Frostburg, Oakland, and Bethel and First Nazarene here will send delegations to the service.

This is the first time Rev. Mr. Hetrick and his family, including four children, have been in the United States on furlough since 1945.

The Hetricks have worked in Swaziland and Transvaal, South Africa, where the Nazarene missionary work is concentrated. For the last five years, Mr. Hetrick has been a teacher in a boys school at Boksburg, Transvaal.

He also served as principal of a Bible school in Stegi, Swaziland, and for a time was in charge of the boys' hostel at Lremersdorp, Swaziland.

Mr. Hetrick was born in Brookville, Pa. His formal schooling was at Eastern Nazarene College, Wollaston, Mass., where he received a bachelor of arts degree in 1942. He was a pastor for five years before becoming a missionary.

Weather Bureau Honors Garrett County Observer

OAKLAND—Ralph E. Weber, Oakland, was one of 21 citizen observers honored yesterday by the Weather Bureau for making daily weather observations for over 50 years without pay.

The 21 men and women are the veterans of a nationwide corps of 7,000 volunteers who read rain gauges and thermometers daily.

Weber is the No. 2 observer in Maryland from the point of service, exceeded only by D. Paul Oswald of Hagerstown who started one year before him in 1902.

The accommodating Garrett Countian holds the honor of reading the lowest surface temperature ever recorded south of the Mason-Dixon Line—a bitter 40 degrees below zero on January 13, 1912.

Weber, Oswald, and the 19 other observers were recognized by the Weather Bureau, in a special citation edition of the Daily Weather Map issued over the United States. They have their pictures and biographies printed for all to read.

The salute to the 21 men and women couldn't be placed on a more appropriate place than on the back of the weather map.

F. W. Reichelderfer, chief of the Weather Bureau, paid tribute to work of his unsalaried, and often unsung, observers.

"Without the daily records of these cooperative observers," Reichelderfer said, "our knowledge of the climate of the United States would be meager."

The data from the cooperative observers, scattered all over the country, helps weather forecasting. As the records are built up over the years, they also help answer such far-reaching scientific questions as: "Is our climate changing, and if so, how?"

Each of the observers receives from the Weather Bureau a rain gauge and a small shelter with a maximum and minimum thermometer. Every day in the year the observers log the readings. They all file monthly reports.

Beyond that, they often become the local weatherman for the area and spend much time answering inquiries about the coldest February and the wettest August in local history.

Mt. Savage 4-H Discusses Loss From Forest Fires

MT. SAVAGE—Brook Bodkin, senior forest supervisor for the State Department of Forest and Parks, discussed the forest fire dangers at a meeting of the Round About 4-H Club of here Wednesday night at the home of Charles Geary.

Mr. Bodkin also showed a film entitled "The Careless Crime," which emphasized the damage that can result from one carelessly tossed cigaret.

Woman Delivers Her Own Child

LONACONING — A fifth child was born to a Lonaconing couple yesterday, the delivery being made while the mother was unattended by a physician at her home on Gills Hill in that community.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Nicol at about 5 a. m., with Mrs. Nicol waiting until daylight before sending her oldest child, a six-year-old son, to a neighbor's from where her husband was called at work.

Mr. Nicol arrived home at 7:30 a. m. and then called for an ambulance to take his wife and baby to Miners Hospital in Frostburg. Attaches report mother and child 'doing fine.'

The father is employed as a night watchman at the VFW home in Lonaconing. The baby is the second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nicol's five children.

Kiwanians Hear Talk On Nancy Hanks

KEYSER — A feature of the meeting Wednesday evening of the Keyser Kiwanis Club, was a talk by Harry Stegmaier, on the early life of Nancy Hanks, a native of the nearby area, who became the wife of Abraham Lincoln.

A large delegation of Kiwanians of the Cumberland club attended. The Cumberland club was the sponsor of the Keyser club.

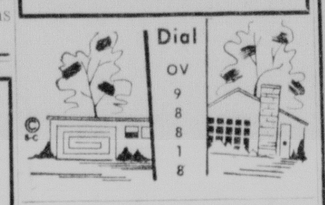

The talk by Mr. Stegmaier was well received, because of his long interest in the life of Abraham Lincoln and the woman who had spent much of her young life in the mountains west of Keyser.

Other Cumberland Kiwanian visitors were Dr. Richard E. Bolyard, president; Albert D. Darby Jr., secretary and former president; Lloyd Fox, Jack McClure, Martin Schwartz, Clarence Lippel, Dr. Albert C. Cook, Roy C. Lottig, Charles F. Helmrich, George Buchanan, and Larry Brown. Other vistors were Capt. Tom McBride and William Armstrong.

Club Meets

FROSTBURG — The Get-To-Gether Club of Mountain Chapter No. 15, Order of Eastern Star will meet today at the Masonic Temple. Mrs. Richard Johnson, Mrs. Edgar Bennett, and Mrs. Thomas B. Powell will be hostesses.

W. Va. Gasoline Tax Bill Goes To Final Vote Today

By BILL BARRETT
United Press International

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—A bill to increase West Virginia's gasoline tax one cent a gallon was advanced to a final vote Friday by the House of Delegates after being amended to give secondary roads a bigger share of overall gasoline tax revenue.

The bill, to raise an additional $4,500,000 a year for use in matching federal Interstate highway grants, will have to be returned to the Senate for concurrence in the amendment if it wins House approval as expected.

Only one amendment was offered as the measure got its second reading Thursday. Sponsored by Del. Richard Whetsell (R-Preston) it would earmark two - sevenths of all gas tax revenue for secondary roads rather than the present one-fifth.

If the gas tax hike is approved, that would provide about $9,000,000 for rural roads out of a $32,000,000 total, compared with $5,500,000 from the present revenue of about $28,000,000.

Moved up to a final vote with the gas tax bill was a Senate-approved companion measure to boost driver's license fees from $1 for four years to $5 and raise $80,000. It was amended to provide that the renewal charge for persons who allowed their license to expire would be $6 instead of $10.

License Bill Delayed

But a third bill in the $7,700,000 highway tax package — to increase motor vehicle registration fees by $2,400,000 a year — was held over at the amendment stage until Friday.

In addition to various technical amendments which Majority leader T. E. Myles said were needed, another half - dozen amendments in the proposed new rates also will be considered. A major floor fight was expected over some of them.

The State Senate, meanwhile, delayed a vote on a bill to raise $3,000,000 through a tax on property transfers recorded with county clerks.

Senate President Ralph J. Bean said that in addition to a number of technical amendments pending, some senators expressed to him their feeling that the 1 per cent rate is too high. It may be revised downward before a vote on passage — pending since Wednesday — is taken.

The Senate passed only one minor bill but got involved in a partisan dispute over a bill to strip the State Police superintendent of his power to make personnel changes without approval of a seven-member board of officers.

It was advanced to passage stage Friday after a series of Republican - sponsored amendments were defeated and one sponsored by Democratic Majority Leader Clarence E. Martin, to cut the superintendent's salary from $8,000 a year to $7,000 was adopted.

Would Reimburse Cities

Also moved up to a Senate vote Friday were bills to require the Road Commission to draw up specifications for both asphalt and concrete on projects costing over $3,000, and to pay the cost of relocating municipally - owned utilities when movement is required by a road project.

Approved by the House and sent to the Senate were bills to:

—Increase maximum damage awards in wrongful death lawsuits from $20,000 to $50,000 where monetary loss can be proved, and from $10,000 to $15,000 in other cases. Passed 57-40.

—Eliminate the trade-in allowance credit in computing the 2 per cent privilege tax on motor vehicle purchases made outside the state. It would raise an estimated $20,000. Passage was by a 90-6 margin.

—Impose a $10 fine on persons who fail to surrender a revoked or suspended driver's license, payable upon reinstatement. Passed 94-2. A companion bill applying to revoke or suspended registration plates was held over for technical amendments. Both passed the Senate earlier.

Also delayed until Friday was a House vote on an omnibus bill providing salary increases for various officials in some 35 counties.

Advanced to passage stage was a Senate-approved bill to raise the annual charge to county courts for indigent patients in state mental hospitals from $100 to $150.

The House will meet at 1 p. m. Friday, one hour earlier than usual, and the Senate at noon to clear the way for weekend adjournment.

Keyser Sailors Are Assigned To USS Princeton

KEYSER—Vaughn F. Roberts, boatswain's mate second class, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Roberts of Keyser, and husband of the former Miss Margaret L. Rogers of Keyser; and Thomas S. Walsh, seaman, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. N. L. Walsh of 23 South Water Street, Keyser, are aboard the anti-submarine aircraft carrier USS Princeton.

They took part in an anti-submarine warfare exercise from February 16-19, off the coast of Southern California.

"Skynet," formed of vessels of the U. S. First Fleet and several units of the Naval Reserve, was divided into two teams: the "Blue" defenses and the "Purple" aggressors.

Demonstration Is Arranged

PIEDMONT — Mrs. Theda Cole, home service representative, will demonstrate oven meals at the monthly meeting of the Westernport Homemakers Club today at 7:30 p. m. at the Potomac Light and Power Company, Ashfield Street.

A short meeting will be held according to Mrs. Ernest Wilson, president. Refreshments will be served.

Rizer To Lead Weekly Seminar At FSTC

FROSTBURG — The weekly seminar at Frostburg State Teachers College will be held today and will be led by Richard T. Rizer, assistant superintendent of schools for Allegany County.

Mr. Rizer will be assisted by Jack Petry, supervisor of secondary education; Miss Betty Flake, supervisor of elementary education, and Homer Higgins, supervisor of personnel, all of the Allegany County Board of Education.

The topic for the meeting will be "The Interaction of Superintendent, Principal, Supervisor, Teacher, Pupil and Parents."

During the first hour Mr. Rizer will address the entire group of seniors on the subject. During the second hour, small group discussions will be led by the representatives from the Allegany County Board and the directors of practice at the college. Mrs. Grace S. Kopp, John M. Dunn and Robert W. Jones.

On March 6, Baltimore County, represented by the superintendent of schools E. Guy Stapleton, and members of his staff will be in charge of the seminar instruction. The topic for that meeting will be "Resource Agencies in a Given Community Contributing to Education of Youth."

The P.M.'s Mission To The Kremlin

Three years is a long time to wait to pay back a call. Yet Prime Minister Macmillan's present jaunt to Russia is called, officially, a return visit for Khrushchev and Bulganin's (K & B's) journey to England in the spring of 1956.

K. had deposed Georgi M. Malenkov as boss 14 months before, and B., though still premier, was on his way to the ashcan. The British government was still headed by Anthony Eden, with Harold Macmillan the chancellor of the exchequer.

The visitors arrived April 18 aboard a Soviet cruiser, on which they were also to depart. K. announced that they came amicably to expand British-Soviet trade as one means of improving all British-Soviet relations. His first deputy, Anastas I. Mikoyan, similarly visited the U.S. last January ostensibly to further U.S.-Soviet trade.

Although the Prime Minister and the Queen gave dinners (they could do no less) for their high-ranking visitors, the British people showed little enthusiasm for them. K. complained of a sidewalk onlooker throwing a fist at him. Just so, Mikoyan would complain in this country of hostile demonstrators against him.

At Oxford and Edinburgh universities K & B drew more boos than cheers. Only a small audience watched them lay a wreath on the grave of Karl Marx in London.

They got nasty questions from Labor Party leaders (whom they termed "provocative"), just as AFL-CIO leaders were to give rough treatment to Mikoyan. Their visit drove no wedge in British-American amity, and Macmillan's present visit is expected to drive none in the British-American stand on Berlin, particularly after Khrushchev's militant speech the other day, which apparently has destroyed, for the moment, at least, any hopes of sincere and meaningful negotiations about Berlin.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Problems Of Education

The enrollment in the public schools of the United States for 1958-59 is 34,641,627 which is a large population for any purpose. To teach the children 1,395,940 teachers will be employed, some of whom will be adequately educated for the job; others of whom will be employed without regard to education and training. The average salaries will be low, about $4,935 a year, which is less than the average for a truck driver. The cost of maintaining this system will be about $14,000,000,000, all paid out of taxes. (Ignore the hours of work as specious.)

This is an enormous operation and requires expert handling both on the educational and business side. Usually the educational control is delegated to a superintendent of schools who is assisted by district superintendents. These men are generally trained in school administration and may or may not be inspired persons. The school boards are either elected or appointed, are generally political and sometimes are of real service, but often involve themselves in the perquisites of building sites, building contracts, various forms of insurance and all sorts of other unnecessary increases in costs to the public.

The school board or board of education as it is sometimes called, is a valuable institution when it represents a parents' and taxpayers' control over the pedantry and dogmatism of the educator and when it stands between the public and grafting officials who regard schools as another source of private revenue. When the school board fails to do that, it becomes not only useless but another municipal waste.

The number of school boards has been decreasing in the United States and where they disappear, policy is fixed by the hired help, the superintendents and their assistants of whom in the 1958-59 period there will be 13,429 in the United States. All superintendents are professionals who are usually expected to hold college degrees up to the Ph. D. Each school is headed by a principal who is expected to have been trained in school administration. These persons are, of course, not of uniform ability or dedication.

Unfortunately, because the pay is low, teachers are hard to get and hard to keep. This leads to the employment of substitutes and temporary teachers who are not expected to be adequately educated and trained. Wherever it is permitted for "emergency teachers" to do the work of trained teachers, the children are bound to suffer. In some areas, a housewife or an ex-teacher who has not done this work for years, may be employed as an "emergency teacher." Teachers with M.A.'s or Ph.D.'s prefer college and high school jobs to elementary school teaching. Naturally the pay is better and the children perhaps more challenging. But socially, the most important school years are the first elementary school years, say through grades 1 to 4, during which the child must learn to love school and love books and, for that matter, respect teachers.

As respect for the teacher, from grade one to the senior year of college, is an important concomitant of education, this psychological factor may not be disregarded. Teachers, then, to whom a job is a job and teaching a tiresome and irksome one, can do great and lasting harm to the children whom they teach. Teaching is an art and many who become teachers do not possess natural aptitude for it. As most teachers now are women, many leave to get married and to have babies. Some of them will return later when their children are grown, but unless they take additional training, many will find that they have lost the knack and that the smart kid in the back row will become a menace to them and to the class.

Unfortunately, top graduates of colleges, both male and female, are so desired by private industry and even by government bureaus, that they do not consider teaching at all. A beginner in many engineering and scientific fields can start at $10,000 a year in private industry. Such a person usually does not go in for teaching, except in colleges and universities where his reputation as a consultant will be enhanced.

The problem that is faced then is to make teaching jobs more attractive and to cut all graft out of school systems so that there is more money for teachers. A school system that turns out graduates who cannot calculate and cannot write their mother tongue is a failure by any measurement.

Bar Association Recognizes Communist Menace

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — Seldom in American history has there been such a scathing criticism of the decisions of the Supreme Court of the United States as has just come from the American Bar Association.

This has nothing to do with the decisions of the court on segregation or integration. Nor do the members of the bar — who by overwhelming vote approved at the Chicago convention this week a committee report on the subject of Supreme Court decisions —come from any one section of the country.

The action taken is a formal disapproval of several decisions of the Supreme Court not only in matters of law but in the misuse of the judicial power itself. The report, comprising about 20,000 words, does not criticize the Supreme Court as an institution nor recommend any limitation of its powers, but does say that Congress should at once, in the proper way, endeavor to correct the ill effects of the decisions. The report declares:

"Many cases have been decided in such a manner as to encourage an increase in Communist activity in the United States through invalidation of state sedition statutes, and limitation of state and federal investigating powers in the field of subversion although these cases might readily have been disposed of without so broadly limiting national and state security efforts.

"The paralysis of our internal security grows largely from construction and interpretation centering around technicalities emanating from our judicial process which the Communists seek to destroy, yet, use as a refuge to masquerade their diabolical objectives.

"This trend was treated fully in the Conference of State Chief Justices last year when they called upon the United States Supreme Court to exercise the power of judicial self-restraint. The dissenting opinions of certain Supreme Court justices have been crystal clear in charting the effect of the failure of the majority to recognize the underground forces that are at work and to appreciate how these decisions affect our internal security."

The Bar Association's report says it is the duty of members of the bar "to defend the institutions of the judiciary from unfair and unjust attacks" and that proposals to limit the court's jurisdiction should not be approved. But at the same time the committee report, as adopted by the convention, says that, where remedial legislation can be enacted by Congress to deal with Communists and other subversives, this should be given prompt attention. The report cites a long list of Supreme Court decisions in the internal-security field and points out exactly how they can be overcome by action of Congress.

Also, a chapter is devoted to munism." The report says: "It i. just as false to measure the strength of Communism in the United States by comparing the small number of party members with the large number of non-"Current Fallacies about Com-Communists, as it would be to measure the seaworthiness of a ship by comparing the area of its holes with the area of its hull.

A few strategically placed holes can sink the largest ship."

Adding that the "danger and the menace of Communism are worse than ever," the report calls on the members of the bar to alert the nation on the menace of international Communism.

As one reads the report, there comes a feeling that its writers tried to be as tactful as possible in their references to the present membership of the Supreme Court but nevertheless reveal again and again their dismay at the abuse of power by the highest court.

"Our internal security," says the report, "has been weakened by a lackadaisical attitude on the part of the public and technicalities raised in judicial decisions which too frequently in the public mind have had the effect of putting on trial the machinery of the judicial process and free the subversive to go forth and further undermine our nation."

The indifference of the public may be due to the job performed by some of the opponents of the late Senator McCarthy of Wisconsin. Unfortunately, the period in which he struggled to direct attention to the Communist menace now is brushed off as merely one of "hysteria," and there is no effort nowadays to separate what was valid in the crusade from that hich was due to overzealousness and emotionalism.

Since the famous battle took place in the Senate in 1954, moreover, it has been an open secret in Washington that the Democratic Party leaders in both Houses have been under pressure from its so called "liberal" elements to soft-pedal the inquiries into Communism. Though two committees still do some work in this field, they are restrained by word from higher up in the party whenever they really want to expose some palpable manifestation of Communist effort inside the United States. Some prominent American citizens, for example, who have been openly siding with the Soviets against their own government in certain controversies have never been called as witnesses by the committees of either the House or the Senate to explain their activities or their connections with the Communist propaganda machine. Maybe the American Bar Association report will awaken American public opinion and help to overcome the timidity of the Democratic Party leadership on these subjects.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

WASHINGTON—With thoughts of a successor to John Foster Dulles as Secretary of State much on the minds of Washington officialdom, there is more and more discussion of the proposition that President Eisenhower choose a Democrat for the post.

Some Democrats are openly proposing that such an appointment be made to demonstrate to Russia and the Communist world that United States foreign policy is non-partisan and has the support of all Americans. The same idea appeals to some prominent Republicans, and for an additional reason.

A Democrat as a Cabinet member, they argue, would do much to stem Capitol Hill unrest over some Republican administration policies which require legislative implementation, particularly the defense and foreign aid programs.

So far, the name most prominently mentioned is Adlai Stevenson, the unsuccessful Democratic Presidential nominee in 1952 and 1956. Stevenson has been vocal, and sometimes critical, of administration foreign policy. He recently traveled to Russia where he was cordially received by Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev and the Kremlin hierarchy.

Cabinet appointments from the opposition party are not new or unheard of. The late Franklin D. Roosevelt appointed Republicans as Secretary of War and Secretary of the Navy in the critical pre-World War II era.

Mamie's Reducing Trip May Cost Taxpayers Thousands Of Dollars

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—Last year when Mrs. Eisenhower went to Elizabeth Arden's Arizona slimming ranch, the President made headlines by taking a 2,945-mile detour in the Columbine to drop his wife, her sister, Mrs. Gordon Moore, and Mrs. Ellis Slater, wife of the Seagrams distillery executive, at Phoenix.

This year with talk of budget balancing in the air, Ike was careful to send Mamie by train. However, if you examine carefully the small army of secretaries, aides, bodyguards and signalmen who also went to Arizona plus various preparations, the taxpayers will find that the reducing trip of the popular First Lady will cost them several thousand.

"Operation Mamie" was commanded by Col. Robert Schulz, Ike's military aide, who deployed squads of White House functionaries, secret servicemen and local police to protect the likable lady from her admiring public. Over two dozen men, counting those along the way, were mobilized for Mamie's personal guard.

During her two-day stopover in San Antonio, a private line to the White House was installed in her $60-a-day hotel suite, and an Army sergeant was dispatched all the way from Washington to man the switchboard. The same convenient telephone service was provided for her in Phoenix.

The taxpayers were spared the expense, however, of the private Pullman cars which trundled her across country. Instead of the 16 first-class fares which a private car costs, Mamie paid only for herself and her sister, Mrs. Moore. Of course, the taxpayers paid for the transportation of her functionaries who did not travel in private cars.

The railroads got around the law, which requires them to charge 16 fares, by claiming the private cars were headed in Mamie's direction anyway. A Southern Railway vice president, Fred Smith, "just happened" to be traveling by private car to New Orleans. There by strange coincidence a Southern Pacific executive also "happened" to be waiting in another private car going to Phoenix. By another strange coincidence, he "happened" to have business in San Antonio for the two days that Mamie wanted to stay there en route.

Naturally, favors of this kind usually call for reciprocal favors, which was why the Railroad Act was passed in the first place forbidding free transportation to Congressmen and public officials. At one time the railroad lobby got what it wanted out of Washington by handing out free passes. And by accepting the railroads' hospitality, the First Lady may find herself in the middle of a future railroad strike. For, while sh was crossing the country, the railroads called for a presidential commission to study railroad problems—a calculated maneuver to bring Ike into the threatening labor dispute.

The Railroad Brotherhoods were quick to note that the overtures to Ike came while Mamie was traveling in private Pullman cars largely at the railroad's expense.

Economy Doesn't Begin At Home

Ike's economy edict for budget balancing did not apply to his good-will trip to Mexico. Significantly, the President ordered the government's per diem expense allowance raised from $9 to $23 a day just for the period when the White House staff was to stay in the swank hotels of Acapulco.

On February 11 an order went out from Budget Director Maurice Stans "changing the maximum per diem rate for Acapulo, Mexico, from $9 to $23. This amendment shall be effective until February 22, 1959, after which date the rate of $9 shall apply again." The White House party left Acapulco to return to Washington on February 21.

Almost every government official who travels must of necessity spend more than the $9 allotted for government travel. They wish they got the same special allowance Ike gave his staff at Acapulco.

Battle Of Bricklayers

The Bricklayers' union has now offered $1,000 to anyone who can show that the bricklayers are "featherbedding" on their daily laying of bricks. This was the union's answer to the U. S. Chamber of Commerce in its hassle with contractor William F. Nelson ove. the chamber's charge that the union is restricting its workers to laying 500 bricks day.

"This is to inform you," the union has written the chamber, "that this union does not have and has never had any policy of restriction such as your newsletter so categorically stated. In fact, it was stated by the union some years ago that a cashier's' check for $1,000 would be presented to anyone who could provide evidence of such a policy on the part of either the International Union or one of its subordinate unions. This money has never been claimed; more, it is yours to claim at this time if you can support the statement you made in your publication on January 2."

Earlier Nelson had protested against the U. S. Chamber's charge, pointing out that bricklayers working for him laid 2,800 bricks a day on the Taft Memorial, erected to honor the memory of the late Sen. Robert Taft, a Chamber of Commerce hero.

The union's letter continues: "We have been advised that you have yourself subsequently stated that you based your remarks on a poll which was made by the National Association of Home Builders. An investigation of this comment made by you in a letter to Mr. William F. Nelson indicates that the poll to which you refer was made 12 years ago, in 1947; that the criticism of bricklayer productivity on which you based your remarks was not a conclusion of the poll as a whole, but rather a comment which was taken out of context and apparently was an isolated remark attributable to a single and unidentifiable individual.

"The information on which you based your attack upon this union of craftsmen is made even more meaningless by the fact fewer than half of the bricklayers who were employed by NAHB members at the time the poll was taken were members of this or any other union.

"It is our further understanding that because of the incomplete, out-of-date and easily misleading nature of the information, you were asked by the National Association of Home Builders to refrain from quoting from the report in question.

"I am sure you realize that in making a statement which is untrue and which reflects discredit upon and tends to damage the reputation of the Bricklayers, Masons and Plasterers International Union of America and its members throughout the nation, you have assumed a serious responsibility. It is suggested that you avail yourself of your earliest opportunity to inform your membership that you were in error.'"

The letter was signed by John J. Murphy, Secretary of the International Union.

There are millions of windows in New York. A story stands behind every one . . .

The Warwick Hotel runs high in setbacks. It is the home of successful actors. On the north side of the 25th floor, the drapes peel back from the windows. A pair of large dark eyes look out on New York, a misty mountain of sawtooth buildings. The eyes study the pale morning sun, the cold dead arms of the trees in Central Park, the anthill of taxicabs below.

The eyes belong to Marguerite Claire Lucille Piazza Kritz McDonald Condon, a person of considerable beauty. Her anatomy arrests the eyes on every speeding curve. She is known to the world as a singer: Marguerite Piazza. To Gregory Kritz, 12; James McDonald, 7; Shirley Condon, 4, and Billy Condon, 20 months of age, she is "Mom."

This woman, now in her middle thirties, should, according to all the books on child psychology, be insufferable. She was an only child. She was brought up by a widowed mother whose singing froustrations were built into the child and aimed with deadly accuracy at the Metropolitan Opera House.

Miss Piazza grew up in Catholic New Orleans. Her father was an engineer. He was killed when she was three. Her grandparents had been wholesale grocers in Sicily. They had money. The girl had an overly proper upbringing. She was taught, guarded, protected by the grande dames of the family. She went from Our Lady of Good Counsel School to Loyola University, studying music all the way.

When Marguerite was graduated, the young lady's mother asked Father Edward Murphy of Xavier University for advice. What to do? Where to go? Who to see? Father Murphy gave Mrs. Piazza a letter to actor-producer Eddie Dowling. Marguerite was 19. She had a lyric soprano voice of fine quality and a pretty face framed in deep bronze hair.

Dowling sent the girl to an agent. The agent sent her to Chicago. There she sang the lead in "The Merry Widow." It was as easy as that. Marguerite was paid $250 a week. Mother was at every performance. Mother lived and breathed for her darling. Mother made the decisions.

There was a radio show on WOR and other engagements. Mother didn't know that a child is like a coiled spring. The harder you hold it down, the higher it will jump when you let go. In 1946, Marguerite married her singing teacher, Karl Kritz. It was done outside her church and it was annulled later. No one, of course, wanted to annul baby Gregory.

Inch by inch, mother and daughter battled toward opera. Marguerite Piazza made it. A day came when Rudolph Bing invited her to join the Metropolitan Opera Company. She sang Rosalinda in "Die Fledermaus." Once, she displayed temperament. Louis Hasselmanns, the great conductor spoke gently: "Take your personality," he said, "like your coat and hang it in your dressing room. When you come to this place, you are only the person whose part you are playing."

In 1949, Max Liebman, producer, put her on Sid Caesar's "Show of Shows." She remained for five seasons. Miss Piazza had barely started her television work when she met James Graves McDonald, a farm machine distributor from Memphis. They married. A son Jimmy was born. Mr. McDonald had one heart attack. Marguerite was alone again.

Well, not exactly. She had a mother and two little boys. The next year—1952—the National Broadcasting Company appointed Miss Piazza as its representative at the Cotton Carnival in Memphis. Her official escort was William James Condon, a gallant about a dozen years older than she.

They married in six weeks. Since then, Shirley and Billy have been added to the roster of beautiful children. Mr. Condon is vice president of the American Snuff Company. His wife is in New York to make records and to sing at nightclubs.

She now earns $200,000 a year. She doesn't like to talk about it. Marguerite Piazza talks moodily and longingly about her mother—who died a year ago. Few people can understand how much they meant to each other.

There are millions of windows in New York. A story stands behind every one . . .

Protecting Infants From Whooping Cough

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Whooping cough during infancy is serious and occasionaly proves fatal. This explains why immunization is recommended during the first few months of life. Booster shots are given thereafter to assure safe passage through childhood.

The protective injections offer varying degrees of immunity. In some instances the child is protected completely, whereas in others there is just enough immunity to modify the disease.

Should whooping cough develop it may be so mild as to escape detection. This is fine for the victim but if a susceptible person is exposed to the youngster, he may come down with a full-blown case.

Coughing begins one or two weeks after exposure. It resembles that of an ordinary cold at first but progresses and the mucus thickens, requiring more effort to bring it up. The typical whoop arises later when the youngster takes a deep breath between paroxysms of hard coughing spells. When the child is not whooping he may appear very normal.

The nutritional aspect of this disease in a severe form is likely to be a problem. Eating stimulates the cough reflex and whooping usually is followed by vomiting. When this occurs it is advisable to feed smaller meals of bland, easily digested foods many times throughout the day.

Medicines that relax, such as the tranquilizers, often reduce nausea and voimiting. Cough remedies are powerless to control hacking. The inhalation of steam or the areosol, Alevaire, helps liquefy the stringy, tenacious mucus.

The antibiotics are of questionable value unless started early. This is not always practicable because the disease rarely is diagnosed in the early stages. Gamma globulin is helpful, especially as a preventive or modifier for infants and frail children who are exposed and likely to get the disease.

RUMBLE SEAT

J. H. writes: I have a sedantary job where I sat for hours at a time. Could this cause excessive rumbling of the stomach? It is so loud people across the room hear it.

REPLY

No. Some rumble louder than others, depending upon when and what they eat.

GOITER RECURRENCE

J. C. writes: Can goiter return? I had done taken out 18 years ago and now have another lump on my neck .

REPLY

Yes, provided some of the thyroid tissue was left in when the goiter was removed. However, there are other causes of neck lumps besides enlarged thyroid.

DEFEATS SLEEP

R. T. writes: Do insane persons go without sleep for a long time?

REPLY

Some mental patients are so agitated they go for unbelievable periods without sleep.

BANANAS

M. E. D. writes: Are bananas constipating?

REPLY

No. This notion stems from the fact that certain types of diarrhea are treated by banana therapy. Fruits usually have a laxative action.

DROOLING BOY

Mrs. T. writes: I know it is natural for babies to drool but our four-year-old still does it. Is this serious?

REPLY

Perhaps not but the manifestation is worth investigating, especially if the tongue is large or dental difficulties exist.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

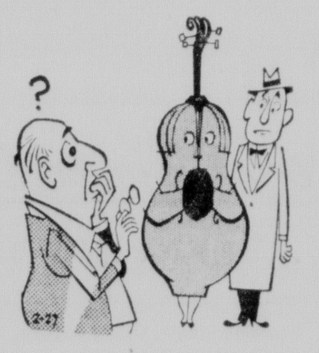

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

Well, sir, that overworked Park Avenue analyst we've been reading so much about had still another odd visitor last week. This one complained, "My wife thinks she's a bull fiddle." "Bring her around," sighed the analyst wearily, "and I'll try to cure her."

"Who wants her cured?" snapped the visitor. "I want you to tune her!"

The late Hugh Walpole told in one of his novels how the phrase "Mind your P's and Q's" became popular. In English countryside pubs, the barmaid would chalk up on a blackboard the number of pints and quarts of beer that thirsty dart players consumed in the course of an evening. At closing time, patrons had to settle for the "P's and Q's" tabulated against their names.

Employes of a big sardine plant struck for higher pay recently. Pickets' signs proclaimed angrily, "We've been canned, too!"

The P.M.'s Mission To The Kremlin

Three years is a long time to wait to pay back a call. Yet Prime Minister Macmillan's present jaunt to Russia is called, officially, a return visit for Khrushchev and Bulganin's (K & B's) journey to England in the spring of 1956.

K. had deposed Georgi M. Malenkov as boss 14 months before, and B., though still premier, was on his way to the ashcan. The British government was still headed by Anthony Eden, with Harold Macmillan the chancellor of the exchequer.

The visitors arrived April 18 aboard a Soviet cruiser, on which they were also to depart. K. announced that they came amicably to expand British-Soviet trade as one means of improving all British-Soviet relations. His first deputy, Anastas I. Mikoyan, similarly visited the U.S. last January ostensibly to further U.S.-Soviet trade.

Although the Prime Minister and the Queen gave dinners (they could do no less) for their high-ranking visitors, the British people showed little enthusiasm for them. K. complained of a sidewalk onlooker throwing a fist at him. Just so, Mikoyan would complain in this country of hostile demonstrators against him.

At Oxford and Edinburgh universities K & B drew more boos than cheers. Only a small audience watched them lay a wreath on the grave of Karl Marx in London.

They got nasty questions from Labor Party leaders (whom they termed "provocative"), just as AFL-CIO leaders were to give rough treatment to Mikoyan. Their visit drove no wedge in British-American amity, and Macmillan's present visit is expected to drive none in the British-American stand on Berlin, particularly after Khrushchev's militant speech the other day, which apparently has destroyed, for the moment, at least, any hopes of sincere and meaningful negotiations about Berlin.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Problems Of Education

The enrollment in the public schools of the United States for 1958-59 is 34,641,627 which is a large population for any purpose. To teach the children 1,395,940 teachers will be employed, some of whom will be adequately educated for the job; others of whom will be employed without regard to education and training. The average salaries will be low, about $4,935 a year, which is less than the average for a truck driver. The cost of maintaining this system will be about $14,000,000,000, all paid out of taxes. (Ignore the hours of work as specious.)

This is an enormous operation and requires expert handling both on the educational and business side. Usually the educational control is delegated to a superintendent of schools who is assisted by district superintendents. These men are generally trained in school administration and may or may not be inspired persons. The school boards are either elected or appointed, are generally political and sometimes are of real service, but often involve themselves in the perquisites of building sites, building contracts, various forms of insurance and all sorts of other unnecessary increases in costs to the public.

The school board or board of education as it is sometimes called, is a valuable institution when it represents a parents' and taxpayers' control over the pedantry and dogmatism of the educator and when it stands between the public and grafting officials who regard schools as another source of private revenue. When the school board fails to do that, it becomes not only useless but another municipal waste.

The number of school boards has been decreasing in the United States and where they disappear, policy is fixed by the hired help, the superintendents and their assistants of whom in the 1958-59 period there will be 13,429 in the United States. All superintendents are professionals who are usually expected to hold college degrees up to the Ph. D. Each school is headed by a principal who is expected to have been trained in school administration. These persons are, of course, not of uniform ability or dedication.

Unfortunately, because the pay is low, teachers are hard to get and hard to keep. This leads to the employment of substitutes and temporary teachers who are not expected to be adequately educated and trained. Wherever it is permitted for "emergency teachers" to do the work of trained teachers, the children are bound to suffer. In some areas, a housewife or an ex-teacher who has not done this work for years, may be employed as an "emergency teacher." Teachers with M.A.'s or Ph.D.'s prefer college and high school jobs to elementary school teaching. Naturally the pay is better and the children perhaps more challenging. But socially, the most important school years are the first elementary school years, say through grades 1 to 4, during which the child must learn to love school and love books and, for that matter, respect teachers.

As respect for the teacher, from grade one to the senior year of college, is an important concomitant of education, this psychological factor may not be disregarded. Teachers, then, to whom a job is a job and teaching a tiresome and irksome one, can do great and lasting harm to the children whom they teach. Teaching is an art and many who become teachers do not possess natural aptitude for it. As most teachers now are women, many leave to get married and to have babies. Some of them will return later when their children are grown, but unless they take additional training, many will find that they have lost the knack and that the smart kid in the back row will become a menace to them and to the class.

Unfortunately, top graduates of colleges, both male and female, are so desired by private industry and even by government bureaus, that they do not consider teaching at all. A beginner in many engineering and scientific fields can start at $10,000 a year in private industry. Such a person usually does not go in for teaching, except in colleges and universities where his reputation as a consultant will be enhanced.

The problem that is faced then is to make teaching jobs more attractive and to cut all graft out of school systems so that there is more money for teachers. A school system that turns out graduates who cannot calculate and cannot write their mother tongue is a failure by any measurement.

Bar Association Recognizes Communist Menace

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — Seldom in American history has there been such a scathing criticism of the decisions of the Supreme Court of the United States as has just come from the American Bar Association.

This has nothing to do with the decisions of the court on segregation or integration. Nor do the members of the bar — who by overwhelming vote approved at the Chicago convention this week a committee report on the subject of Supreme Court decisions —come from any one section of the country.

The action taken is a formal disapproval of several decisions of the Supreme Court not only in matters of law but in the misuse of the judicial power itself. The report, comprising about 20,000 words, does not criticize the Supreme Court as an institution nor recommend any limitation of its powers, but does say that Congress should at once, in the proper way, endeavor to correct the ill effects of the decisions. The report declares:

"Many cases have been decided in such a manner as to encourage an increase in Communist activity in the United States through invalidation of state sedition statutes, and limitation of state and federal investigating powers in the field of subversion although these cases might readily have been disposed of without so broadly limiting national and state security efforts.

"The paralysis of our internal security grows largely from construction and interpretation centering around technicalities emanating from our judicial process which the Communists seek to destroy, yet, use as a refuge to masquerade their diabolical objectives.

"This trend was treated fully in the Conference of State Chief Justices last year when they called upon the United States Supreme Court to exercise the power of judicial self-restraint. The dissenting opinions of certain Supreme Court justices have been crystal clear in charting the effect of the failure of the majority to recognize the underground forces that are at work and to appreciate how these decisions affect our internal security."

The Bar Association's report says it is the duty of members of the bar "to defend the institutions of the judiciary from unfair and unjust attacks" and that proposals to limit the court's jurisdiction should not be approved. But at the same time the committee report, as adopted by the convention, says that, where remedial legislation can be enacted by Congress to deal with Communists and other subversives, this should be given prompt attention. The report cites a long list of Supreme Court decisions in the internal-security field and points out exactly how they can be overcome by action of Congress.

Also, a chapter is devoted to munism." The report says: "It i. just as false to measure the strength of Communism in the United States by comparing the small number of party members with the large number of non-"Current Fallacies about Com-Communists, as it would be to measure the seaworthiness of a ship by comparing the area of its holes with the area of its hull.

By Bennett Cerf

Well, sir, that overworked Park Avenue analyst we've been reading so much about had still another odd visitor last week. This one complained, "My wife thinks she's a bull fiddle." "Bring her around," sighed the analyst wearily, "and I'll try to cure her."

"Who wants her cured?" snapped the visitor. "I want you to tune her!"

The late Hugh Walpole told in one of his novels how the phrase "Mind your P's and Q's" became popular. In English countryside pubs, the barmaid would chalk up on a blackboard the number of pints and quarts of beer that thirsty dart players consumed in the course of an evening. At closing time, patrons had to settle for the "P's and Q's" tabulated against their names.

Employes of a big sardine plant struck for higher pay recently. Pickets' signs proclaimed angrily, "We've been canned, too!"

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—Last year when Mrs. Eisenhower went to Elizabeth Arden's Arizona slimming ranch, the President made headlines by taking a 2,945-mile detour in the Columbine to drop his wife, her sister, Mrs. Gordon Moore, and Mrs. Ellis Slater, wife of the Seagrams distillery executive, at Phoenix.

This year with talk of budget balancing in the air, Ike was careful to send Mamie by train. However, if you examine carefully the small army of secretaries, aides, bodyguards and signalmen who also went to Arizona plus various preparations, the taxpayers will find that the reducing trip of the popular First Lady will cost them several thousand.

"Operation Mamie" was commanded by Col. Robert Schulz, Ike's military aide, who deployed squads of White House functionaries, secret servicemen and local police to protect the likable lady from her admiring public. Over two dozen men, counting those along the way, were mobilized for Mamie's personal guard.

During her two-day stopover in San Antonio, a private line to the White House was installed in her $60-a-day hotel suite, and an Army sergeant was dispatched all the way from Washington to man the switchboard. The same convenient telephone service was provided for her in Phoenix.

The taxpayers were spared the expense, however, of the private Pullman cars which trundled her across country. Instead of the 16 first-class fares which a private car costs, Mamie paid only for herself and her sister, Mrs. Moore. Of course, the taxpayers paid for the transportation of her functionaries who did not travel in private cars.

The railroads got around the law, which requires them to charge 16 fares, by claiming the private cars were headed in Mamie's direction anyway. A Southern Railway vice president, Fred Smith, "just happened" to be traveling by private car to New Orleans. There by strange coincidence a Southern Pacific executive also "happened" to be waiting in another private car going to Phoenix. By another strange coincidence, he "happened" to have business in San Antonio for the two days that Mamie wanted to stay there en route.

Naturally, favors of this kind usually call for reciprocal favors, which was why the Railroad Act was passed in the first place forbidding free transportation to Congressmen and public officials. At one time the railroad lobby got what it wanted out of Washington by handing out free passes. And by accepting the railroads' hospitality, the First Lady may find herself in the middle of a future railroad strike. For, while she was crossing the country, the railroads called for a presidential commission to study railroad problems—a calculated maneuver to bring Ike into the threatening labor dispute.

The Railroad Brotherhoods were quick to note that the overtures to Ike came while Mamie was traveling in private Pullman cars largely at the railroad's expense.

Economy Doesn't Begin At Home

Ike's economy edict for budget balancing did not apply to his good-will trip to Mexico. Significantly, the President ordered the government's per diem expense allowance raised from $9 to $23 a day just for the period when the White House staff was to stay in the swank hotels of Acapulco.

On February 11 an order went out from Budget Director Maurice Stans "changing the maximum per diem rate for Acapulo, Mexico, from $9 to $23. This amendment shall be effective until February 22, 1959, after which date the rate of $9 shall apply again." The White House party left Acapulco to return to Washington on February 21.

Almost every government official who travels must of necessity spend more than the $9 allotted for government travel. They wish they got the same special allowance Ike gave his staff at Acapulco.

Battle Of Bricklayers

The Bricklayers' union has now offered $1,000 to anyone who can show that the bricklayers are "featherbedding" on their daily laying of bricks. This was the union's answer to the U. S. Chamber of Commerce in its hassle with contractor William F. Nelson ove. the chamber's charge that the union is restricting its workers to laying 500 bricks day.

"This is to inform you," the union has written the chamber, "that this union does not have and has never had any policy of restriction such as your newsletter so categorically stated. In fact, it was stated by the union some years ago that a cashier's' check for $1,000 would be presented to anyone who could provide evidence of such a policy on the part of either the International Union or one of its subordinate unions. This money has never been claimed; more, it is yours to claim at this time if you can support the statement you made in your publication on January 2."

Earlier Nelson had protested against the U. S. Chamber's charge, pointing out that bricklayers working for him laid 2,800 bricks a day on the Taft Memorial, erected to honor the memory of the late Sen. Robert Taft, a Chamber of Commerce hero.

The union's letter continues: "We have been advised that you have yourself subsequently stated that you based your remarks on a poll which was made by the National Association of Home Builders. An investigation of this comment made by you in a letter to Mr. William F. Nelson indicates that the poll to which you refer was made 12 years ago, in 1947, that the criticism of bricklayer productivity on which you based your remarks was not a conclusion of the poll as a whole, but rather a comment which was taken out of context and apparently was an isolated remark attributable to a single and unidentifiable individual.

"The information on which you based your attack upon this union of craftsmen is made even more meaningless by the fact fewer than half of the bricklayers who were employed by NAHB members at the time the poll was taken were members of this or any other union.

"It is our further understanding that because of the incomplete, out-of-date and easily misleading nature of the information, you were asked by the National Association of Home Builders to refrain from quoting from the report in question.

"I am sure you realize that in making a statement which is untrue and which reflects discredit upon and tends to damage the reputation of the Bricklayers, Masons and Plasterers International Union of America and its members throughout the nation, you have assumed a serious responsibility. It is suggested that you avail yourself of your earliest opportunity to inform your membership that you were in error."

The letter was signed by John J. Murphy, Secretary of the International Union.

There are millions of windows in New York. A story stands behind every one . . .

The Warwick Hotel runs high in setbacks. It is the home of successful actors. On the north side of the 25th floor, the drapes peel back from the windows. A pair of large dark eyes look out on New York, a misty mountain of sawtooth buildings. The eyes study the pale morning sun, the cold dead arms of the trees in Central Park, the anthill of taxicabs below.

The eyes belong to Marguerite Claire Lucille Piazza Kritz McDonald Condon, a person of considerable beauty. Her anatomy arrests the eyes on every speeding curve. She is known to the world as a singer: Marguerite Piazza. To Gregory Kritz, 12; James McDonald, 7; Shirley Condon, 4, and Billy Condon, 20 months of age, she is "Mom."

This woman, now in her middle thirties, should, according to all the books on child psychology, be insufferable. She was an only child. She was brought up by a widowed mother whose singing froustrations were built into the child and aimed with deadly accuracy at the Metropolitan Opera House.

Miss Piazza grew up in Catholic New Orleans. Her father was an engineer. He was killed when she was three. Her grandparents had been wholesale grocers in Sicily. They had money. The girl had an overly proper upbringing. She was taught, guarded, protected by the grande dames of the family. She went from Our Lady of Good Counsel School to Loyola University, studying music all the way.

When Marguerite was graduated, the young lady's mother asked Father Edward Murphy of Xavier University for advice. What to do? Where to go? Who to see? Father Murphy gave Mrs. Piazza a letter to actor-producer Eddie Dowling. Marguerite was 19. She had a lyric soprano voice of fine quality and a pretty face framed in deep bronze hair.

Dowling sent the girl to an agent. The agent sent her to Chicago. There she sang the lead in "The Merry Widow." It was as easy as that. Marguerite was paid $250 a week. Mother was at every performance. Mother lived and breathed for her darling. Mother made the decisions.

There was a radio show on WOR and other engagements. Mother didn't know that a child is like a coiled spring. The harder you hold it down, the higher it will jump when you let go. In 1946, Marguerite married her singing teacher, Karl Kritz. It was done outside her church and it was annulled later. No one, of course, wanted to annul baby Gregory.

Inch by inch, mother and daughter battled toward opera. Marguerite Piazza made it. A day came when Rudolph Bing invited her to join the Metropolitan Opera Company. She sang Rosalinda in "Die Fledermaus." Once, she displayed temperament. Louis Hasselmanns, the great conductor spoke gently: "Take your personality," he said, "like your coat and hang it in your dressing room. When you come to this place, you are only the person whose part you are playing."

In 1949, Max Liebman, producer, put her on Sid Caesar's "Show of Shows." She remained for five seasons. Miss Piazza had barely started her television work when she met James Graves McDonald, a farm machine distributor from Memphis. They married. A son Jimmy was born. Mr. McDonald had one heart attack. Marguerite was alone again.

Well, not exactly. She had a mother and two little boys. The next year—1952—the National Broadcasting Company appointed Miss Piazza as its representative at the Cotton Carnival in Memphis. Her official escort was William James Condon, a gallant about a dozen years older than she.

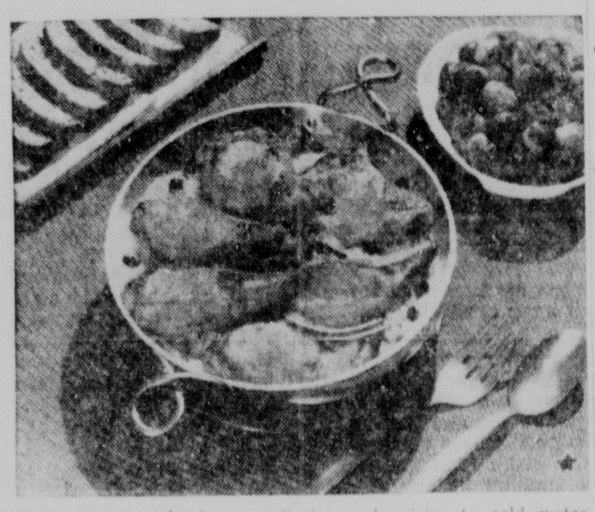

They married in six weeks. Since then, Shirley and Billy have been added to the roster of beautiful children. Mr. Condon is vice president of the American Snuff Company. His wife is in New York to make records and to sing at nightclubs.

She now earns $200,000 a year. She doesn't like to talk about it. Marguerite Piazza talks moodily and longingly about her mother—who died a year ago. Few people can understand how much they meant to each other.

There are millions of windows in New York. A story stands behind every one . . .

Portrait Of Pork

Pork chops and rice aren't what you'd call a new combination but prepared in this manner you'll have to admit it's an innovation. Pork chops atop a rice pudding casserole will attract all eyes . . . from the youngest to the oldest.

The chops should be browned on all sides in lard and then seasoned with salt and pepper before being placed atop the rice raisin mixture.

Chops-Rice Pudding Casserole

6 loin or rib pork chops, cut ¾ to 1 inch thick
2 tablespoons lard
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1 cup rice
½ cup raisins
3 cups cold water
¼ teaspoon cinnamon
3 to 4 tablespoons sugar
1 teaspoon salt
1½ cups milk

Brown chops in lard. Pour off drippings. Season chops with 1 teaspoon salt and pepper. Add rice and raisins to cold water. Bring to a boil, stir, cover and simmer 15 to 18 minutes or until rice is tender and liquid is absorbed. Stir cinnamon, sugar, salt, and milk into rice-raisin mixture. Pour into an 8x12-inch greased baking dish. Place seasoned chops on rice mixture. Cover and bake in a moderate over (350° F.) 30 minutes. Uncover and continue baking 15 minutes. Yield: 6 servings.

Cottage-Fried Potatoes

2 or 3 tablespoons cooking fat or oil
2 cups sliced cooked potatoes
Salt
Pepper

Heat fat or oil in a fry pan and add the potatoes. Season with salt and pepper.

Fry until potatoes are brown, turning them as they cook.

Coupons Are Huge Business

NEW YORK — Some ten billion coupons worth about one billion dollars are being offered annually to American homemakers by grocery manufacturers as extra food and grocery money, Paul S. Willis, president of Grocery Manufacturers of America, Inc., revealed here.

"Coupons are popular with consumers because they add substantially to the amount of money available to the homemaker for buying her groceries," Mr. Willis said. "They are also popular with retailers because they build store traffic. And for the manufacturer they represent an effective way to introduce new or improved products. They also present certain problems which the food industry is working to solve. One of these arises when retailers permit customers to turn in coupons without buying the products specified.

"This means a financial loss to the manufacturer," he continued. "It also creates a morale problem for store management because laxity in one operation can lead to laxity in others, even if the intent is honest. In addition, the customer knows that this practice is wrong and she may lose faith in the store for permitting it."

Problems related to the handling of coupons are also under continuing study by the manufacturers. Several commercial banks have recently established clearing houses for coupons and manufacturers of electronic business machines have created a system of punch card coupons and machines to handle them quickly at distributor warehouses and in manufacturers' offices.

Skillet Candied Yams

(Makes 4 Servings)

¼ cup butter or margarine
4 medium-sized Louisiana yams, pared and sliced lengthwise ¼-inch thick
¼ cup sugar
1½ teaspoons cinnamon

Melt butter or margarine over low heat. Add yam slices. Combine sugar and cinnamon. Sprinkle half the sugar and cinnamon over yam slices. Cook over low heat until browned; turn yams and sprinkle with remaining sugar and cinnamon. Cover and cook, turning occasionally, until tender, about 30-40 minutes.

THE LITTLE WOMAN

"Before you start planning on being too sick to go to work, you should know my bridge club is meeting here today."

King's Lamb In Potato Cups

5 cups hot, seasoned mashed potatoes
Quilted heavyweight foil
1 10½ oz. can condensed mushroom soup
5 tablespoons milk
2 tablespoons sherry
2 cups ½-inch cubes cooked lamb
1 10-oz. package frozen peas
2 tablespoons finely cut parsley
2 tablespoons finely cut onion
2 tablespoons finely cut pimiento
Salt and pepper
Curry powder

Spoon potatoes onto four 9-inch squares of heavyweight quilted foil. Shape potatoes into nests, then bring foil up around sides, folding edges back to form cups. Blend together in saucepan soup, milk and sherry. Add remaining ingredients, seasoning to taste with salt, pepper and curry powder. Bring to the boiling point over medium heat, stirring frequently. Place potato cups in quilted foil on a cookie sheet. Spoon hot lamb mixture into cups and bake in a moderate oven (375°F) about 25 minutes, or until potatoes are lightly browned.

Deviled Crab

1 pound crab meat
2 tablespoons chopped onion
3 tablespoons butter or other fat, melted
2 tablespoons flour
¾ cup milk
½ teaspoon salt
Dash pepper
½ teaspoon powdered mustard
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
½ teaspoon sage
Dash cayenne pepper
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 egg, beaten
1 tablspoon chopped parsley
1 tablespoon butter or other fat, melted
¼ cup dry bread crumbs

Remove any shell or cartilage from crab meat. Cook onion in butter until tender. Blend in flour. Add milk gradually and cook until thick, stirring constantly. Add seasonings and lemon juice. Stir a little of the hot sauce into egg; add to remaining sauce, stirring constantly. Add parsley and crab meat. Place in 6 well-greased, individual shells or 5-ounce custard cups. Combine butter and crumbs; sprinkle over top of each shell. Bake in a moderate oven, 350°F., for 15 to 20 minutes or until brown. Serves 6.

One-quarter teaspoon of baking soda plus one teaspoon of cream of tartar is the approximate substitution for one teaspoon of baking powder.

Cajun Yam Stuffed Peppers

(Makes 4 Servings)

4 medium-sized green peppers
6 medium-sized Louisiana yams, cooked, peeled and mashed, or 2 cans (1-pound) Louisiana yams, drained and mashed
2 cups finely chopped cooked ham
1 teaspoon Worchestershire sauce
1 cup finely chopped onions
¼ teaspoon pepper

Cut tops from green peppers. Remove seeds and membrane. Cover and cook in small amount of boiling salted water over medium heat 10 minutes. Combine remaining ingredients; mix well. Fill peppers with yam mixture. Arrange in greased shallow baking pan. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) 1 hour.

Louisiana Yam And Ham Swiss Pie

(Makes 6 Servings)

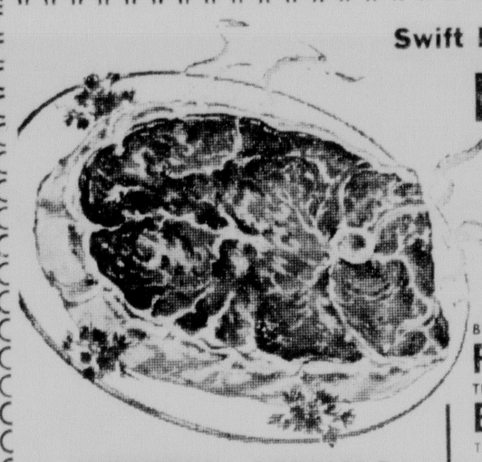

¼ pound sliced cooked ham
½ pound sliced Swiss cheese
1 10-inch unbaked pastry shell
1¼ cups mashed cooked Louisiana yams, or 1 can, (1-pound) Louisiana yams, drained and mashed
4 eggs, beaten
2 cups light cream
¼ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper

Arrange ham and cheese in over-lapping slices in pastry shell. Combine remaining ingredients; blend. Pour into pastry shell. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) 50 minutes, or until knife inserted in center comes out clean.

Spanish Sherry Popular Among Cosmopolitans

Spanish sherries sell best in the two states that make imitations of the famous wine, New York and California, according to a year-end poll of American importers. The dry fino and nutty amontillado types are showing the most gains, although the sweet oloroso types, commonly called cream or brown sherries, continue to outsell all other types.

Aging cream up to 48 hours increases its foam volume and stability when it is whipped.

1 cup finely chopped onions
¼ teaspoon pepper

Cut tops from green peppers. Remove seeds and membrane. Cover and cook in small amount of boiling salted water over medium heat 10 minutes. Combine remaining ingredients; mix well. Fill peppers with yam mixture. Arrange in greased shallow baking pan. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) 1 hour.

Louisiana Yam And Ham Swiss Pie

(Makes 6 Servings)

¼ pound sliced cooked ham
½ pound sliced Swiss cheese
1 10-inch unbaked pastry shell
1¼ cups mashed cooked Louisiana yams, or 1 can, (1-pound) Louisiana yams, drained and mashed
4 eggs, beaten
2 cups light cream
¼ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper

Arrange ham and cheese in over-lapping slices in pastry shell. Combine remaining ingredients; blend. Pour into pastry shell. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) 50 minutes, or until knife inserted in center comes out clean.

Spanish Sherry Popular Among Cosmopolitans

Spanish sherries sell best in the two states that make imitations of the famous wine, New York and California, according to a year-end poll of American importers. The dry fino and nutty amontillado types are showing the most gains, although the sweet oloroso types, commonly called cream or brown sherries, continue to outsell all other types.

Aging cream up to 48 hours increases its foam volume and stability when it is whipped.

Pizza Platter Party

Platter spinning—and eating—are favorite pastimes of teen-agers. A "cool" platter that packs a punch with "cats" or "squares" is a "pizza party pick-up."

The pickup foods are easy for any high school gourmet to whip into shape. Peanut butter pizza pies and miniature hot dogs on cocktail picks edge the platter, centered with whole roasted peanuts that are fun to crack and eat. (Heat lightly in oven just before serving.) Soft bottled drinks, chilled in an ice bucket, add a touch of champagne glamour. Milk is enticing in a cool pitcher and pottery mugs. Peanut butter cookies, also easy to make, served in an old fashioned cookie jar are fine fare for pizza parties. A large bowl of peanuts and dry cereal "crunch-munch-ies" and pretzel sticks, heated in peanut oil and seasoned to taste, rounds out a party menu that will make our young hostess—"but the absolute end."

All Mom has to do is say "okay"; the kids can do the whole job themselves and they'll be so proud. Here's the how-to for a pizza platter party, in the groove, food-wise:

Hash Browned Yams

(Makes 4 Servings)

½ cup vegetable oil
4 medium-sized Louisiana yams, pared and diced
1 large onion, sliced
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper

Heat oil. Add remaining ingredients and cook, covered, over low heat, stirring ocasionally, 30 minutes.

Shrimp-Grapefruit Salad

1 grapefruit, sectioned
Salad greens
Mayonnaise or salad dressing

Prepare 6 individual salads by arranging alternate rows of shrimp and grapefruit sections on salad greens. Garnish with mayonnaise. Serves 6.

Peanut Butter Pizza

4 English muffins, Melted butter or peanut oil
½ cup chunk style peanut butter
½ cup tomato paste
¼ lb. sliced American cheese or 1 cup grated cheese
Salt

Cut muffins in halves; place halves, cut side up on broiler rack and roast under broiler until golden brown. Remove from broiler and brush toasted side with peanut oil or melted butter; spread each half with 1 tablespoon peanut butter and 1 tablespoon tomato paste. Sprinkle lightly with salt and top each with either a thin slice of cheese or shredded cheese. Place on broiler rack, about 3 inches from heat and broil until cheese is melted and heated through. Just before serving, top with dab of peanut butter mixed with tomato paste. Serve piping hot. Makes eight individual pizza pies.

Pizza Pepper-Uppers: For additional flavor you may add small sausage cakes, mushrooms, sardines or anchovies, various kinds of cheese, pepperoni, or prosciutto.

Potato-Cheese Surprise

2 cups seasoned mashed potatoes
1 egg, well beaten
½ teaspoon finely chopped onion
½ cup shredded cheese
4 tomato slices
¼ cup dry breadcrumbs
2 tablespoons melted butter or margarine
½ teaspoon salt

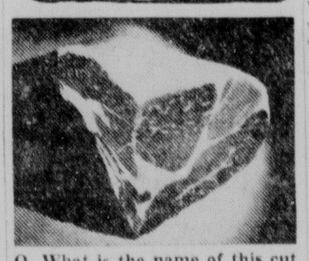

Combine potatoes, egg, salt, and onion. Mix well.

Shape into 4 patties and place on a greased baking pan. Make a depression in each patty and fill with cheese. Cover with a slice of tomato.

Mix breadcrumbs with the fat and salt and sprinlke over tomato. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 30 minutes.

4 servings.

Q. What is the name of this cut of meat?

A. Beef Standing Rump Pot-Roast.

Q. Where does it come from and how is it identified?

A. It comes from the rump section of the carcass. The meat cut is triangular in shape; consists of several layers of meat interspersed with fat and the outer surface has a thin fat covering.

Q. How is it prepared?

A. By either roasting (high quality) or braising. In roasting, the meat is cooked to the desired degree of doneness in a 300° F. oven. In braising, the meat is first browned, a small amount of liquid is added, the meat is covered tightly and cooked slowly until done allowing 3 to 4 hours for cooking.

Potato Griddle Scones

1½ cups sifted flour
1 teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons baking powder
2 tablespoons shortening
⅔ cup cold seasoned mashed potatoes
1 egg, beaten
2 to 4 tablespoons milk

Sift together the flour, salt, and baking powder.

Cut in the shortening until the mixture is granular. Blend in the potatoes.

Combine egg and 2 tablespoons milk, and add to the flour-and-potato mixture. Mix slightly. Add more milk if needed to make the dough hold together.

Turn onto a lightly floured board and roll out to about ⅜ inch in thickness. Cut into 2-inch squares.

Place on a hot, very lightly greased griddle or fry pan and cook slowly, 7 or 8 minutes on each side. Turn only once.

May be served with creamed tuna, creamed chipped beef, or other creamed fish or meat.

Cranshire Relish

Sharp and spick . . . that's Cranshire Relish to serve with frankfurters or a platter of cold meats.

1 can (1-lb.) jellied cranberry sauce
½ teaspoon seasoned salt
2 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce
1 teaspoon instant minced onion
Dash of red pepper

Beat jellied cranberry sauce until smooth and velvety. Stir in remaining ingredients. Heat and serve over meat. Or serve cold in relish dish.

Senate Cloakroom

by Sen. J. Glenn Beall

Is it true what they say?—Some of our citizens are asking: "Is the truth about Russia somewhere about midway between what they say and what we say?" The answer to that question is an emphatic "No!"

Available evidence bears out the postulate that virtually all reports and statistics from the Soviets are exaggerated. An example of their propaganda is found in a statistical table just published by the Kremlin—for Western consumption and for the Russian public—which attempts to prove that in 1965 every Russian will consume twice as many calories per day as he does now. The natural question is: Are the Russians half-starved now? If they are eating enough now, would not the consumption of twice as many calories cause the populace to die of overeating?

In a new 10-page commentary, our State Department has challenged Russian statistics aimed at supporting extravagant claims of economic gains. The Department says that the people of the Free World who do not have the time to distill the figures and statistical boasts, issuing from the Kremlin, should "remember that Soviet statistics are not always what they seem, and that many of the boasts are quickly forgotten after their initial headline seeking impact."

On the other hand, it is a well-known fact that we Americans lean over backwards to keep our reports in line with the facts. It sometimes seems that we are afraid to put our best foot forward. We can believe confidently and without reservation in the reports of our State Department.

Indian Head Million-Dollar Contract—The Navy has just awarded a 1-million-dollar contract for architectural and engineering services at the U. S. Naval Propellant Plant at Indian Head, Maryland. The contract calls for the preparation of designs and specifications for structures and equipment which will provide facilities for pilot line assembly and loading of double-base propellant motors (for possible use in the Polaris ballistic missiles). This motor is being developed at the Allegany Ballistics Laboratory, Cumberland, Maryland, which is operated for the Navy's Bureau of Ordnance by the Hercules Powder Company. The total cost of the new program at Indian Head, including equipment, is expected to be approximately 8 million dollars.

Some of the propellant ingredients required by the Cumberland laboratory are now being produced at Indian Head.

Lincoln Day Dinners—Nearly all of our Republican county organizations in Maryland celebrated the 150th birthday of Abraham Lincoln this year with the usual Lincoln Day dinner meetings. The list of speakers for Maryland included: Republican National Chairman Meade Alcorn; Republican Leader of the U. S. House of Representatives Charles Halleck; U. S. Senator Andrew Schoeppel of Kansas, Chairman of the Minority Committee on Committees and former Chairman of the Republican Senatorial Campaign Committee; U. S. Seantor Kenneth Keating of New York, who, though a Republican, gained his seat in the Senate in the recent Democratic landslide; and other nationally prominent Republicans.

Lithuanian Independence Day—Monday of this past week was the 41st anniversary of the independence of the gallant little nation of Lithuania, free for only 22 years and then swallowed up by the USSR, and, in recognition, I inserted a statement in the Congressional Record about Lithuania's rightful place in the family of free nations, and about her inspiring resistance and unconquered spirit. We can never rest until freedom is restored to all people now living in Communist captivity.

Area Redevelopment Hearings—A subcommittee of our Senate Committee on Banking and Currency has scheduled hearings the latter part of this week on the Area Redevelopment Bill which I co-sponsored.

Character of Population Changing—As the population keeps expanding, the character of the population is changing year by year, a new Census Bureau report tells us. For what it is worth, here are the two outstanding changes since 1950:

Color: The nonwhite population has been growing faster than the white population. In eight years, the number of nonwhites jumped from 15.8 million to 19.3 million, a gain of 22 per cent. The white population in the same period increased from 135.3 million to 154.8 million, a gain of about 14 per cent.

Sex: Women outnumber men by an increasing margin. There were about 600,000 more women than men in 1950. Now, there are 1,700,000 more women than men.

Weather—Two items of interest this past week concern weather:

(1) The successful launching of a "weather satellite," to circle the earth approximately every two hours, sending back weather data;

(2) The testimony of National Science Foundation Associate Director Robert Brode before a Congressional committee to the effect that weather control on a vast scale—if possible at all—would be extremely difficult and would not be achieved in the near future.

Senate Cloakroom

by Sen. J. Glenn Beall

Is it true what they say?—Some of our citizens are asking: "Is the truth about Russia somewhere about midway between what they say and what we say?" The answer to that question is an emphatic "No!"

Available evidence bears out the postulate that virtually all reports and statistics from the Soviets are exaggerated. An example of their propaganda is found in a statistical table just published by the Kremlin—for Western consumption and for the Russian public—which attempts to prove that in 1965 every Russian will consume twice as many calories per day as he does now. The natural question is: Are the Russians half-starved now? If they are eating enough now, would not the consumption of twice as many calories cause the populace to die of overeating?

In a new 10-page commentary, our State Department has challenged Russian statistics aimed at supporting extravagant claims of economic gains. The Department says that the people of the Free World who do not have the time to distill the figures and statistical boasts, issuing from the Kremlin, should "remember that Soviet statistics are not always what they seem, and that many of the boasts are quickly forgotten after their initial headline seeking impact."

On the other hand, it is a well-known fact that we Americans lean over backwards to keep our reports in line with the facts. It sometimes seems that we are afraid to put our best foot forward. We can believe confidently and without reservation in the reports of our State Department.

Indian Head Million-Dollar Contract—The Navy has just awarded a 1-million-dollar contract for architectural and engineering services at the U. S. Naval Propellant Plant at Indian Head, Maryland. The contract calls for the preparation of designs and specifications for structures and equipment which will provide facilities for pilot line assembly and loading of double-base propellant motors (for possible use in the Polaris ballistic missiles). This motor is being developed at the Allegany Ballistics Laboratory, Cumberland, Maryland, which is operated for the Navy's Bureau of Ordnance by the Hercules Powder Company. The total cost of the new program at Indian Head, including equipment, is expected to be approximately 8 million dollars.

Some of the propellant ingredients required by the Cumberland laboratory are now being produced at Indian Head.

Lincoln Day Dinners—Nearly all of our Republican county organizations in Maryland celebrated the 150th birthday of Abraham Lincoln this year with the usual Lincoln Day dinner meetings. The list of speakers for Maryland included: Republican National Chairman Meade Alcorn; Republican Leader of the U. S. House of Representatives Charles Halleck; U. S. Senator Andrew Schoeppel of Kansas, Chairman of the Minority Committee on Committees and former Chairman of the Republican Senatorial Campaign Committee; U. S. Seantor Kenneth Keating of New York, who, though a Republican, gained his seat in the Senate in the recent Democratic landslide; and other nationally prominent Republicans.

Lithuanian Independence Day—Monday of this past week was the 41st anniversary of the independence of the gallant little nation of Lithuania, free for only 22 years and then swallowed up by the USSR, and, in recognition, I inserted a statement in the Congressional Record about Lithuania's rightful place in the family of free nations, and about her inspiring resistance and unconquered spirit. We can never rest until freedom is restored to all people now living in Communist captivity.

Area Redevelopment Hearings—A subcommittee of our Senate Committee on Banking and Currency has scheduled hearings the latter part of this week on the Area Redevelopment Bill which I co-sponsored.

Character of Population Changing—As the population keeps expanding, the character of the population is changing year by year, a new Census Bureau report tells us. For what it is worth, here are the two outstanding changes since 1950:

Color: The nonwhite population has been growing faster than the white population. In eight years, the number of nonwhites jumped from 15.8 million to 19.3 million, a gain of 22 per cent. The white population in the same period increased from 135.3 million to 154.8 million, a gain of about 14 per cent.

Sex: Women outnumber men by an increasing margin. There were about 600,000 more women than men in 1950. Now, there are 1,700,000 more women than men.

Weather—Two items of interest this past week concern weather:

(1) The successful launching of a "weather satellite," to circle the earth approximately every two hours, sending back weather data;

(2) The testimony of National Science Foundation Associate Director Robert Brode before a Congressional committee to the effect that weather control on a vast scale—if possible at all—would be extremely difficult and would not be achieved in the near future.

1 package cheese twists
1 lb. salted peanuts
1 (6-oz.) package pretzel sticks
1 (6-oz.) package crisp rice cereal
1 (12-oz.) package bite-size shredded wheat squares
1 (7-oz.) package doughnut shaped oat cereal
1½ cups peanut oil
1 teaspoon hot sauce
4 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce
1 tablespoon garlic salt
1 tablespoon celery salt
1 tablespoon onion salt

Break pretzel sticks into small pieces. Mix all dry ingredients—pretzels, peanuts and cereals, in large roaster pan. Combine seasonings, add peanut oil, hot sauce and Worcestershire sauce. Pour over dry ingredients and stir well. Put in 225 degree oven, uncovered, for two hours, stirring thoroughly occasionally (every ½ hour). Remove from oven, let cool and drain if necessary. Store in glass jars with lids in cool place until needed. Makes about 6 quarts. Will keep well. And you'll have a hard time keeping Dad and other grown-up kids out of these taste bud tantalizers.

Louisiana Yam Fritters

(Makes 4-6 Servings)
2 cups biscuit mix
⅛ teaspoon allspice
⅛ teaspoon nutmeg
1 egg, beaten
⅔ cup milk
1¼ cups diced, cooked Louisiana yams, or, 1 can (1-pound) Louisiana yams, drained and diced
Vegetable oil

Combine biscuit mix, allspice, nutmeg, egg and milk, mix lightly. Fold in yams. Drop by spoonfuls into hot deep oil (375 degrees). Cook 2-4 minutes, or until lightly browned on all sides. Drain on absorbent paper.

Roast Potatoes

Pare medium-size potatoes and place them around meat in roasting pan 1 to 1½ hours before the meat is done. Turn the potatoes occasionally and baste them with meat drippings.

Cheese Puff Tuna Dish

Your family will relish this hearty Lenten meal — Cheese Puff Tuna Casserole served with buttered green beans and apple raisin salad.

Golden Cheese Puffs, made from drop biscuit dough and pimiento cheese spread, top this satisfying Cheese Puff Tuna Casserole.

This quick and easy main dish combines zesty celery-mushroom sauce, tuna and flaky cheese biscuits. Drop biscuits are an exciting and nourishing addition to many casseroles. Baked with enriched flour, they supply food iron and three essential B-vitamins needed daily for growth and good health.

CHEESE PUFF TUNA CASSEROLE

3 tablespoons butter or margarine
½ cup chopped celery
¼ cup enriched flour*
1 teaspoon salt
1¼ cups condensed cream of mushroom soup (10½-ounce can)
¾ cup milk
1 cup drained, flaked tuna (7-ounce can)
1 tablespoon lemon juice
Cheese Puffs

Melt butter or margarine in saucepan. Add celery and cook 2 minutes, stirring frequently. Blend in flour and salt. Stir in mushroom soup and milk gradually. Cook until thickened, stirring constantly. Stir in tuna and lemon juice. Pour into greased 8-inch square baking dish. Drop Cheese Puffs on top. Bake in hot oven (425°F.) about 25 minutes.

Cheese Puffs

1 cup sifted enriched flour*
1½ teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon shortening
¼ cup pimiento cheese spread
⅓ to ½ cup milk

Sift together flour, baking powder and salt. Cut or rub in shortening and cheese spread until mixture is crumbly. Add milk, mixing until flour is moistened. Drop by spoonfuls on tuna mixture.

Makes 4 servings.

*If using self-rising flour, omit baking powder and salt.

Potato Pancakes

2 eggs, beaten
¼ cup milk
2 cups grated, ground, or shredded raw potato
1 tablespoon grated onion
3 tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon salt
Pepper

Combine beaten eggs and milk in mixing bowl. Grate, grind, or shred potatoes and add to egg-milk mixture as soon as each cupful is prepared. Use only the pulp of the potato, not the liquid.

Add onion, flour, salt, and pepper. Mix well.

Drop the mixture by tablespoonfuls onto a hot lightly greased griddle or fry pan. Stir the mixture before dropping each pancake.

Cook the cakes slowly until they are well browned and crisp on the bottom. Turn and brown the other side. If cooked too fast the pancakes will scorch before they are cooked through.

Serve immediately as a meat accompaniment or with applesauce or apple butter.

Potato-Meat Scallop

¾ pound ground beef
1 teaspoon finely chopped onion
1½ teaspoons salt
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
1 tablespoon flour
1½ cups milk
2 cups thinly sliced raw potatoes

Brown the beef and onion. Add salt.

Melt the fat and blend in flour. Add the milk and cook until thickened, stirring constantly.

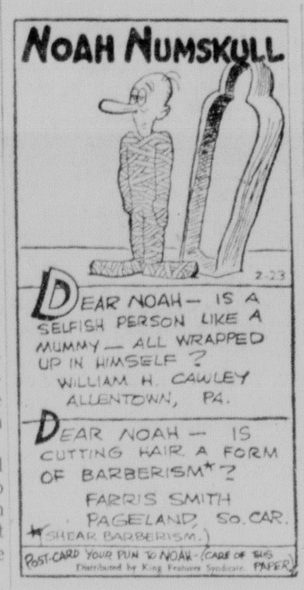

Place alternate layers of sliced potatoes, beef, and sauce in a greased baking dish.

Cover and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for 50 to 60 minutes. If desired, remove cover and brown under broiler about 5 minutes.

4 servings.

Variation: Use 2 cups diced raw ham in place of the beef. Reduce salt to ½ teaspoon. It is not necessary to brown the ham.

New Foods Tested; Some Now On Market

Potato flakes, a dehydrated mashed potato now in flake form are new on the market — and sweet potato flakes may be next in sight. New frozen concentrated juices that homemakers may be seeing soon are opple, cherry and berry juices.

These and other new fruit and vegetable products were unveiled in a talk given at the recent ninth annual Food Processors Workshop conducted by the University of Maryland Horticulture Department. R. K. Eskew of the Eastern Utilization Research Laboratory, U. S. Department of Agriculture, Philadelphia, discussed the new developments.

For potato chip lovers, Eskew suggested new vegetable variations. Beet, carrot and parsnip chips make excellent snack items, he said, especially the parsnip chips, which have a wonderfully different flavor.

People who like pink grapefruit will soon be able to buy canned pink grapefruit juice, Eskew predicted. Up until recently, pink grapefruit juice when canned turned out not pink, but brownish. Now a finely disintegrated pulp of the grapefruit itself is added to the juice, giving it the pleasing pink color.

Shelled walnuts that do not darken or become rancid are another new development. The kernels are coated with a very thin layer of an approved anti-oxidant—so that Mrs. Homemaker can use the conveniently packaged walnuts up to four times as long.

More "convenience" foods, such as mixes, and better packaging of foods were also predicted by speakers at the University of Maryland workshop.

High temperatures and prolonged heating will usually thin a sauce made with potato or arrowroot starch.

Shelled walnuts that do not darken or become rancid are another new development. The kernels are coated with a very thin layer of an approved anti-oxidant—so that Mrs. Homemaker can use the conveniently packaged walnuts up to four times as long.

More "convenience" foods, such as mixes, and better packaging of foods were also predicted by speakers at the University of Maryland workshop.

High temperatures and prolonged heating will usually thin a sauce made with potato or arrowroot starch.

Jellied Cranberry Turkey Loaf For Spring Menus

Nowadays plump roast turkeys are as popular as springtime menus as they are on Thanksgiving menus. The Department of Agriculture says turkeys are a good buy for spring. Plan on one for next Sunday's dinner and do remember the cranberry sauce!

Here's a delightful salad for leftover turkey . . . a menu headliner for luncheon, supper or dinner. The bottom layer is filled with turkey, crunchy pieces of celery and smooth mayonnaise. On top canned whole cranberry sauce sparkles and gives a flavorful tang to the meat.

Make in fancy mold or in a loaf pan for easy cutting into squares . . . serve with hot rolls and plenty of steaming cups of coffee.

Jellied Cranberry Turkey Loaf

Cranberry layer:
- 1 envelope unflavored gelatine
- ¼ cup cold water
- 1 con (1-lb.) whole cranberry sauce
- 1 can (9 oz.) crushed pineapple
- ½ cup broken walnuts
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice

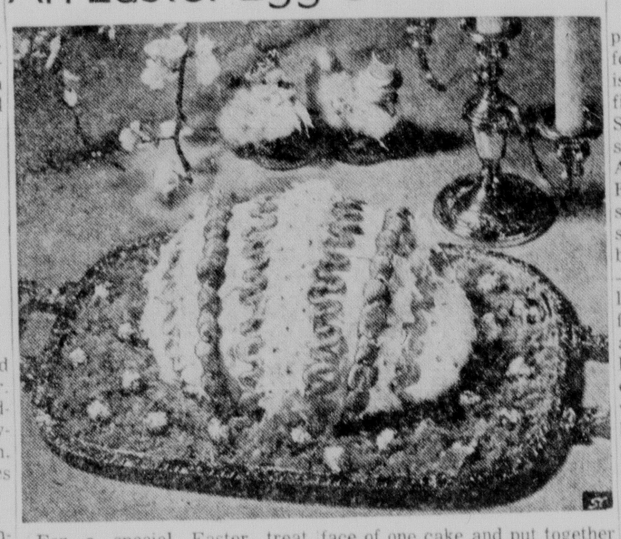

Soften gelatine in cold water, dissolve over hot water. Add remaining ingredients. Turn into a 10x6x1½ inch loaf pan. Chill until firm.

Turkey layer.
- 1 envelope (1 tablespoon) unflavored gelatine
- ¾ cup cold water
- ¾ cup mayonnaise
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice
- Grated rind of ½ lemon
- ½ teaspoon diced leftover cooked turkey
- ½ cup diced celery

Soften gelatine in ¼ cup cold water; dissolve over hot water. Combine with remaining ingredients. Spoon over cranberry layer; chill thoroughly until firm. Turn out on crisp greens. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

When buying greens, remember that the greener the leaves the higher the food value. Greens that have coarse stems and dry or yellowish leaves are not a good buy, say University of Maryland Extension nutrition specialists.

Easter Egg Cake
- 1 package lemon chip angel food mix
- Frosting
- Easter egg garnishes

Prepare cake mix according to package directions. Pour batter into two ungreased 1½-quart ovenproof bowls. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) about 50 minutes. Cool upside down in bowls, resting edges on two cans.

Remove cakes from bowls and trim off top crusts. Prepare fluffy frosting. Frost the trimmed sur-

Peanut Butter Cookies

- 1 cup crunchy style peanut butter
- ½ cup brown sugar
- ½ cup white sugar
- ½ cup softened shortening
- ¼ teaspoon soda
- 1½ teaspoons baking powder
- 1½ cups all purpose flour
- 1 egg
- ½ teaspoon
- 2 teaspoons grated orange rind (optional)
- ½ teaspoon vanilla

Cream shortening and peanut butter with sugars, add egg and beat well. Mix and sift dry ingredients and add to creamed mixture with vanilla and grated orange rind. Blend well. Dough is quite stiff. Roll dough in small balls between palms of hands. Place on greased cookie sheet and press at right angles with a fork that has been dipped in cold water. Bake about 15 minutes at 350 degrees. Makes about 4 dozen small cookies.

Yams And Ham With Caraway

(Makes 6-8 Servings)
- 1 7-pound ham
- 6 medium sized Louisiana yams, pared and quartered
- 1 cup melted butter or margarine
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon caraway seeds

Place ham on rack in shallow roasting pan. Bake in slow oven (325 degrees) 2½ hours. Drain off drippings. Arrange yams around ham. Combine remaining ingredients; mix well. Pour butter or margarine mixture over ham and yams. Bake 1 hour, or until meat thermometer registers (150-155 degrees). Baste ham and yams with butter or margarine mixture frequently during baking period.

Here's the key to better breakfasts. Plan ahead using this menu pattern: fruit or juice; an egg, if possible; whole grain or restored cereal; enriched or whole grain bread; butter or fortified margarine; and milk. You'll be nutrition-wise if you shop with this pattern in mind. Finally, breakfast should be fun. Each day give a different menu item a bright, new twist. For instance, treat your family to hot, fragrant quick breads and coffee cakes made with enriched flour.

Congressional Viewpoint

by Sen. John M. Butler

George Washington publicly proclaimed the necessity of ships for our foreign trade in 1790. It is a memorable fact that the first Congress of the United States enacted vigorous provisions for the protection of the American merchant marine From these beginnings has sprung our merchant navy whose sinews through the years have been alternately strong or weak — a curious phenomenon which like the chameleon has changed from proper public support to, at times, callous indifference. From these beginnings has evolved a national maritime policy whose objectives President Herbert Hoover expressed this way in 1923: " we must have our own ships for the protection of our foreign trade we must have them as an auxiliary to our national defense." Expanded trade and commerce, no less than security and survival, are inseparably linked with a great merchant marine.

From London in 1944 General Eisenhower said: "We were caught flatfooted in both world wars because we relied too much upon foreign owned and operated shipping . . . America's industrial prosperity and military security both demand that we maintain a privately operated merchant marine adequate in size and of modern design to insure that our lines of supply for either peace or war will be safe." More recently, General Twining, Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, observed that in a general war the U. S. merchant fleet "might well be the one source of strength of the Free World which would pluck victory from chaos."

Yet, there are still those who are most vocal in their lament that in the event of an emergency "the United States obviously could not rely on its own ships to meet more than a tiny fraction of its needs." These critics denounce the need for a merchant navy and base their argument on a single word — subsidy. However, it is regrettable, but true, that foreign commerce must today be conducted in a world not of natural competition but of subsidized competition.

Authorities have calculated that by taking into account recapture provisions and ship sales, peculiar only to maritime subsidies, these programs during the last 17 years have cost our Government an average of approximately $57 million annually. Other experts contend that the annual tax income from the investment in these cooperative programs actually results in a net profit to the Federal Government. Against the background of the wholly subsidized operations of our armed forces, this merchant marine partnership between private enterprise and the Government is a sound arrangement, a wise investment of the taxpayers' funds.

Spoon Bread Suits February Appetites

Like corn bread and corn meal dishes? Then you'll like spoon bread, that hearty southern bread that is so soft it can be served with a spoon.

Janet Coblentz, extension nutrition specialist of the University of Maryland, suggests that in buying corn meal to make spoon bread and other dishes using corn meal, you make sure the meal is enriched. Enrichment adds three B vitamins as well as iron and calcium but does not change taste, cooking quality or appearance.

Another tip to add food value—use milk rather than water in making spoon bread and use enough eggs to rate well in protein.

Spoon Bread (For 4 or 5)
- 4 cups milk
- 1 cup enriched corn meal
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 1¾ teaspoons salt
- 4 eggs, well beaten

Mix milk and corn meal. Scald and cook in top of double boiler until the consistency of thin mush (about 5 minutes). Add the butter and salt. Fold well beaten eggs slowly into mixture. Pour into a greased 1½ quart baking dish. Bake in oven at 400 degrees F. or 45 minutes. Serve at once from dish in which baked. When served, it is usually preferred buttered or with gravy.

Browned Hash
- 1½ cups diced cooked meat
- 2 cups diced cooked patotoes
- 1 finely chopped onion
- Cooking fat or oil
- Broth or milk
- Seasoning to taste

The meat, potatoes, and onion may be chopped by hand or put through the food chopper, depending on the texture desired.

Heat fat or oil in fry pan and add onion. Cook onion until golden brown.

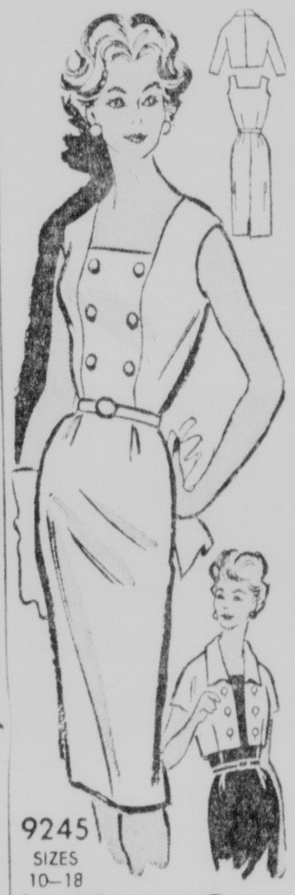

Mix meat, potatoes, and onion thoroughly. Moisten with a little broth or milk, and season to taste.

Spread mixture in an even layer in a lightly greased fry pan. Cook slowly until browned on the bottom. If desired, turn and brown on the other side.

$5,000 Sought To Distribute Surplus Food

Gov. Underwood Urged To Act

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Gov. Cecil H. Underwood has been asked for $5,000 from his contingent fund for gasoline and other expenses in connection with distribution of surplus food to West Virginia needy during the remainder of this fiscal year.

Thomas R. Egbert, director of the State Department of Public Assistance, said Thursday additional expenses were incurred when the commodity distribution division recently decided to increase warehouse stocks from 15 days to one month.

Egbert pointed out also that the 5 per cent spending cut ordered by the State Board of Public Works reduced by some $17,000 the surplus foods division's funds.

The Legislature already has a request from Egbert for a $58,000 deficiency appropriation beginning April 1 to bring the surplus foods distribution program up to federal requirements.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture has threatened to cut off surplus food allocations to West Virginia after June 30 unless the program is revised.

Non-Jury Term Bill Is Adopted

The Senate yesterday adopted and sent to Governor Tawes for signing a bill to make the January term of Allegany County Court a non-jury session.

It is House Bill 202, sponsored by the Allegany County Delegation.

A bill to eliminate Cumberland's $2,500 contribution toward the expenses of the Allegany County Juvenile Court passed the Senate yesterday and was sent to the House, according to Senator Charles M. See, sponsor of SR 329.

Library Week Photograph Contest Open In Arec

Local camera enthusiasts are being given an opportunity to receive recognition for their picture taking ability by entering the National Library Week photographic contest open to residents of Maryland.

Miss Mary G. Walsh, librarian at the Cumberland Free Public Library, said entry forms are available at the library.

The closing date for the contest is Tuesday, March 17, and all entries must be in the hands of The Baltimore Camera Club by that time. No prints will be accepted after that time.

Three grand prizes will be awarded for the prints receiving the three highest honors: first prize, a $100 savings bond; second prize, a $50 savings bond and third prize, a $25 savings bond.

The next 20 selections will be awarded merit ribbons by the Baltimore Camera Club Inc. The theme of the contest is "Books, Reading, Library Facilities and Services."

The subject matter of each print must necessarily represent or be closely related to one or more of these thematic ideas.

Judging will be held in the Baltimore Camera Club rooms, The Enoch Pratt Free Library or other suitable place.

Miss Walsh said the contest is being held here in conjunction with National Library Week in April. She said additional information may be obtained at the library.

Cresaptown Church Youth Night Planned

Saturday will be Youth Night at the annual Missionary Conference being held at the Calvary Baptist Church of Cresaptown. The young people will be in charge of the service and will present several musical numbers.

The speaker will be Rev. Ellis Gaston, Jr., missionary to the Navajo Indians of Southwestern United States. Following the service the young folk will entertain their guests at a special fellowship hour.

The conference will close on Sunday with two messages, at 10:35 and 7:30 by Reverend Mr. Gaston. There are now nearly 100,000 Navajo Indians living on a reservation similar in area to the State of West Virginia and covering portions of the states of Utath, Arizona, and Colorado. Many of them live in northwestern New Mexico also.

Clothing Collection Truck Here Monday

A Church World Service truck from New Windsor will be in Cumberland on Monday to collect clothes.

Local collection depots are the First Presbyterian Church, Washington Street, and the Living Stone Church of the Brethren, West Second and North Cedar Streets.

In addition to good, wearable clothing, such items as bedding, shoes, and yard goods are needed to meet the needs of refugees, many of whom have fled from Communist countries.

Contributors of goods to Church World Service are requested to help pay the cost of packing and shipping the materials — about eight cents per pound.

Two Area Men Enlist In Army

M/Sgt. Virgil Smith, local Army recruiter, said yesterday that the quota for enlistments in March is limited and that men contemplating joining the Army should make application as early as possible.

Two men were enlisted this week. Donald Gene Middleton, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Middleton of 15 South Waverly Terrace, enlisted for three years for assignment to a career in utilities. He is a graduate of Fort Hill High School.

Carl Morgan Robbins, 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl C. Robbins, Bedford Road, enlisted for three years for a career in radio and carrier equipment repair. He also graduated from Fort Hill and attended Potomac State College for two years.

Men Of Beth Jacob To Hear Foley Talk

Congressman John R. Foley will address the men of Beth Jacob Synagogue at noon Sunday during their monthly brunch meeting.

Harry Kauffman will introduce the guest speaker. Invocation will be delivered by Rabbi Bertram Cohen. The committee in charge of arrangements includes Harry Stein, chairman; George Waingold, Edward Pallick, Robert Goldfine, Sol Glickman, Martin Kornblatt and William Stein.

Gonder Co-Sponsors Conservation Plan

Senator Bernard I. Gonder, of Garrett County, is a co-sponsor of a bill introduced in the Legislature yesterday to set up a program of flood prevention and conservation of water supplies throughout Maryland.

The bill would authorize each county and Baltimore City to set up a public watershed association to regulate the disposal of water.

Other sponsors are Senators James (D-Harford), Snyder, (D-Washington) and Weant (D-Carroll County).

The secret ballot method of voting originated in Australia.

Forest Fire Law Enforcement Will Be Strict

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The State Conservation Commission promised Thursday strict enforcement of forest fire laws during the three - month statutory spring season starting March 1.

During the forest fire season, no trash burning is permitted between 5 a.m. and 5 p.m. without permission. The commission said during the 1958 spring fire season 24 per cent of 435 fires were caused by illegal burnings.

The fires burned a total of 18,339 acres of timberland for a loss of $101,668.

The Sikhs, turbaned natives of India, still follow precepts handed down by Govind Singh in 1699—they never cut hair or beard, wear a special comb in the hair and carry a sword or dagger.

MAYTAG automatic WASHER with Bleach Dispenser ends bleach problems!

No waiting or diluting. Maytag does both jobs for you. Just add concentrated bleach through dispenser opening; bleach remains in dispenser until washer has filled and washing action starts, and is automatically diluted before being introduced into the wash water. After washing action starts, bleach is added slowly to provide uniform bleaching action. Only Maytag provides this automatic delay and pre-dilution.

No bleach damage to clothes. By providing automatic dilution and properly timed injection, Maytag prevents heavy concentrations of bleach from coming in contact with clothes. Gone forever are the holes in clothes, the weakened fibres, the uneven bleaching associated with strong liquid bleaches.

No half-hearted detergents. Modern detergents contain brightening agents which are destroyed by liquid bleach when bleach and detergents are added to wash water at the same time. By delaying the introduction of bleach until after the washing action has started, Maytag preserves the full effectiveness of your detergent and clothes come out sparkling clean, white, and color bright, wash after wash after wash.

Oldtown High Wins County Class C Basketball Title

Kellough's Team Beats Flintstone

Goes To District Tourney As Result Of 62-54 Triumph

Coach Ronnie Kellough's Oldtown High School quint won the Class C basketball championship of Allegany County last night by defeating the Flintstone High School Aggies in a playoff game at Fort Hill High School by the score of 62-54.

The game was necessitated after the schools had split even in their home-and-home series during the regular season. Flintstone won the first game, 65-49, and Oldtown copped the second contest, 46-44.

By winning last night, Oldtown earned the right to represent Allegany County in the District One tournament at North Hagerstown High School next weekend. Oldtown will play Hancock in the district finale in the Hub City Saturday, March 7.

Oldtown jumped off to a 12-8 lead in the first period, held a 26-25 edge at the halfway mark, and led by the score of 41-37 at the end of the third period.

Ronnie Deffinbaugh, Oldtown center, was the game's leading scorer with 27 points. He collected 10 field goals and meshed 7 of 12 shots at the foul line. Bernard Stansberry collected 14 points for the winners.

Reed Clingerman, Flintstone guard, racked up 17 points and Bobby Rinker was runner-up with 15.

Four players exited on fouls. Oldtown lost Stansberry and Deffinbaugh while McPhail and Clingerman fouled out for Flintstone. The four were ejected in the final period. Box score:

Ritchey Sparks St. Paul's To Win Over St. Philip's

Posts 31 In 50-32 Tilt; Trinity And 1st Methodist Win

Bill Ritchey slammed in 14 field goals and scored a total of 31 points yesterday as St. Paul's Lutheran quint upset runner-up St. Philip's in a National Division contest of the Sunday School Basketball League on the Central YMCA court. The score was 50-32.

The win gave St. Paul's a 9-7 record while the loss was the second in 16 starts for the flu-weakened St. Philip's quint.

Ritchey Ups Total To 333

Ritchey, the top scorer in the Sunday School League, upped his total to 333 in 14 games for a 23-8 average.

Bobby Stephens paced St. Philip's scorers with eight goals and 19 tallies.

Trinity Methodist (9-7) whipped First E. U. B. (8-8) in the other National Division game by the score of 43-34.

Pete Mechem headed the winners with 22 tallies while Roger Nesbitt was high for First E.U.B. with 17 markers.

A field goal by Bobby Bishop in the closing seconds gave First Methodist a 31-30 decision over Kingsley Methodist in an American Division contest.

First Methodist is 8-9 and Kingsley has won 7 and lost 10.

Games Next Week Await Decision Of Conference Today

Robert E. Pence, supervisor of physical education, anounced last night that he will attend a meeting in Hagerstown today at 1 p.m., at which time a definite decision will be reached regarding games scheduled next week in Allegany and Washington counties.

A state ruling provides that no games shall be played by high school teams involved in district or state tournaments during tournament week.

Herb Steiner, executive secretary of the state association, however, gave North Hagerstown High School, a Class A district tournament entry, permission to play St. Maria Goretti High School in the Hub City Monday night.

The LaSalle-Allegany game, scheduled tonight, was postponed at the request of Coach Chester Payne of Allegany High, because of his flu-ridden squad and the contest was reset for Monday night.

Fort Hill and Mt. Savage have a postponed W.M.I. League game and these schools also will like to play it off next week.

Whether the state ruling will be rescinded or carried out to the letter will be decided at today's session.

If Fort Hill or Allegany lose Saturday night's game here for the Class A title they'll be free to play next week but the winner can't play next week under present state rules.

U.S. And Czech Players Fight

Latter Team Takes Hockey Match, 8-3

VIENNA (AP)—A fist fight between American and Czech hockey players Thursday night marred an international game in Prague which the U.S. national team lost 8-3, Prague Radio said.

According to the radio the fight started in the third period when Tom Williams of Duluth, Minn., mixed it up with Starsi of the Czech all-star team. Soon the two were surrounded by players from both sides.

The radio said Williams was sent out of the game for the final 10 minutes. The U.S. was behind 6-3 at the time.

Wesleyan Captures Basketball Playoff

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—West Virginia Wesleyan came to life in the last half Thursday night to thump Morris Harvey 91-66 to capture the District 28 NAIA basketball playoff.

Wesleyan now will represent West Virginia in the National NAIA tournament March 9-14 at Kansas City. It won the first game of the best-of-three series 90-77 Tuesday at Buckhannon.

Johnny Pott Paces Baton Rouge Golf

Leads Qualifiers With Score Of 71

BATON ROUGE, La. (UPI) — Johnny Pott of Shreveport, La., fired the only sub - par round Thursday as he paced a field of 67 pros and amateurs who qualified for berths in the $15,000 Baton Rouge Open golf tournament.

Pott, who began his golfing career at nearby Louisiana State University, fired a 1-under-par 71 over the 6,478-yard Baton Rouge Country Club course.

Scores generally ran high over the soggy course with one 78 qualifying. Twelve others shooting the 78s were eliminated in a sudden-death playoff.

Eight players shot 72s to trail Pott. No top-ranking professionals were eliminated from the tournament in the qualifying rounds.

The qualifying rounds were played under partly cloudy skies, but the rain that had delayed qualifying two days had ceased. Standing water had drained from the course, but fairways and the greens were still soggy and participants complained the course was playing long.

A field of 108 pros and 26 amateurs began teeing off at 9:15. Of those 67 will qualify for berths in Friday's opening round of the 72-hole medal play tournament.

Most of the pros on the PGA winter tour were exempted from qualifying, including defending champion Ken Venturi of Daly City, Calif.

Venturi, along with Dow Finsterwald, Ernie Vossler, Gene Littler, Shelley Mayfield, Wesley Ellis, Doug Ford, and a host of other pros, made good use of the practice greens and tees as the qualifying progressed.

Championship play will start Friday and continue through Sunday, with a double pace 36 holes scheduled for the final day to make up for the delay caused by the rains.

Louisville Five, St. Mary's Get NCAA Berths

Fifth, Sixth Teams To Enter Tourney

By United Press International

St. Mary's, a California school which dethroned San Francisco as champion of the West Coast Athletic Conference, and Louisville, an independent with a 14-10 record, gained berths Thursday in the NCAA basketball tournament.

St. Mary's (16-4) won the West Coast Athletic Conference championship Tuesday night by defeating College of the Pacific in overtime 58-57. The triumph earned St. Mary's an automatic berth in the NCAA regional tournament at San Francisco March 13.

St. Mary's will meet the winner of a first-round game between the champions of the Border and Rocky Mountain conferences, both yet undetermined. It will be the first appearance in the NCAA tournament by St. Mary's.

Louisville, which won the National Invitation Tournament in 1956, accepted an "at - large" berth in the NCAA competition. It will compete in the first-round regional at Lexington, Ky., meeting either Eastern Kentucky or the still - undetermined champion of the Mid-American Conference. Marquette also is in this regional. The exact dates (March 9, 10 or 11) and pairings will be announced later.

St. Mary's and Louisville were the fifth and sixth teams to enter the tournament. Marquette, Texas Christian, Kansas State and Eastern Kentucky already were in the field.

Louisville's won - lost record is not impressive but it has played a stiff schedule. The team has beaten Marquette, Eastern Kentucky, Bradley, Kansas, Alabama and Georgia Tech. Louisville also has lost to Bradley and Marquette plus such other powers as St. Louis and North Carolina State.

Boston Marathon Set April 20

BOSTON (UPI) — The annual Boston AA Marathon will be held Monday, April 20, this year instead of the usual April 19 date, it was announced Thursday. The 26 - mile 385 - yard classic was moved back a day since April 19, Patriots' Day, falls on a Sunday.

BACK HOME—Former star player at Brown university where his father was coach for 14 years, John J. McLaughry (above), returns to Brown as head football coach. McLaughry, who coached at Amherst for nine years, is the son of the famed Tuss McLaughry.

Cameraman Is Scolded By Mantle

Yankee Holdout Refuses To Pose

DALLAS, Tex. (UPI) — Yankee holdout Mickey Mantle scolded a United Press International photographer and refused to pose for pictures on a Dallas golf course Thursday.

The home run slugger, who became a holdout with the beginning of spring training, was approached at the ninth green of Lakewood Country Club golf course by Roddy Mims, UPI photographer.

Mims said that at first Mantle showed signs of friendliness, but when the photographer introduced himself as being from UPI, Mantle scowled.

Mims said he was surprised by the outfielder's actions and asked him if there was something wrong between Mantle and news reporters.

"If there is anything I can do to straighten things out, I'd be glad to do so," Mims told him.

"I'm just mad at the whole bunch of you guys," the baseball star answered.

He turned, teed up his ball and as he swung, Mims shot the picture.

Mantle turned to the photographer and snapped: "Just remember that if you ever want me to pose for a picture again."

Mantle has refused to sign his contract with the New York Yankees and his sudden change in attitude toward newsmen may be the result of a war of nerves the player is engaged in with the Yankee front office.

Oldtown High Wins County Class C Basketball Title

Kellough's Team Beats Flintstone

Goes To District Tourney As Result Of 62-54 Triumph

Coach Ronnie Kellough's Oldtown High School quint won the Class C basketball championship of Allegany County last night by defeating the Flintstone High School Aggies in a playoff game at Fort Hill High School by the score of 62-54.

The game was necessitated after the schools had split even in their home-and-home series during the regular season. Flintstone won the first game, 65-49, and Oldtown copped the second contest, 46-44.

By winning last night, Oldtown earned the right to represent Allegany County in the District One tournament at North Hagerstown High School next weekend. Oldtown will play Hancock in the district finale in the Hub City Saturday, March 7.

Oldtown jumped off to a 12-8 lead in the first period, held a 26-25 edge at the halfway mark, and led by the score of 41-37 at the end of the third period.

Ronnie Deffinbaugh, Oldtown center, was the game's leading scorer with 27 points. He collected 10 field goals and meshed 7 of 12 shots at the foul line. Bernard Stansberry collected 14 points for the winners.

Reed Clingerman, Flintstone guard, racked up 17 points and Bobby Rinker was runner-up with 15.

Four players exited on fouls. Oldtown lost Stansberry and Deffinbaugh while McPhail and Clingerman fouled out for Flintstone. The four were ejected in the final period. Box score:

U.S. And Czech Players Fight

Latter Team Takes Hockey Match, 8-3

VIENNA (AP)—A fist fight between American and Czech hockey players Thursday night marred an international game in Prague which the U.S. national team lost 8-3, Prague Radio said.

According to the radio the fight started in the third period when Tom Williams of Duluth, Minn., mixed it up with Starsi of the Czech all-star team. Soon the two were surrounded by players from both sides.

The radio said Williams was sent out of the game for the final 10 minutes. The U.S. was behind 6-3 at the time.

Johnny Pott Paces Baton Rouge Golf

Leads Qualifiers With Score Of 71

BATON ROUGE, La. (UPI) — Johnny Pott of Shreveport, La., fired the only sub-par round Thursday as he paced a field of 67 pros and amateurs who qualified for berths in the $15,000 Baton Rouge Open golf tournament.

Pott, who began his golfing career at nearby Louisiana State University, fired a 1-under-par 71 over the 6,478-yard Baton Rouge Country Club course.

Scores generally ran high over the soggy course with one 78 qualifying. Twelve others shooting the 78s were eliminated in a sudden-death playoff.

Eight players shot 72s to trail Pott. No top-ranking professionals were eliminated from the tournament in the qualifying rounds.

The qualifying rounds were played under partly cloudy skies, but the rain that had delayed qualifying two days had ceased. Standing water had drained from the course, but fairways and the greens were still soggy and participants complained the course was playing long.

A field of 108 pros and 26 amateurs began teeing off at 9:15. Of those 67 will qualify for berths in Friday's opening round of the 72-hole medal play tournament.

Most of the pros on the PGA winter tour were exempted from qualifying, including defending champion Ken Venturi of Daly City, Calif.

Venturi, along with Dow Finsterwald, Ernie Vossler, Gene Littler, Shelley Mayfield, Wesley Ellis, Doug Ford, and a host of other pros, made good use of the practice greens and tees as the qualifying progressed.

Championship play will start Friday and continue through Sunday, with a double pace 36 holes scheduled for the final day to make up for the delay caused by the rains.

Louisville Five, St. Mary's Get NCAA Berths

Fifth, Sixth Teams To Enter Tourney

By United Press International

St. Mary's, a California school which dethroned San Francisco as champion of the West Coast Athletic Conference, and Louisville, an independent with a 14-10 record, gained berths Thursday in the NCAA basketball tournament.

St. Mary's (16-4) won the West Coast Athletic Conference championship Tuesday night by defeating College of the Pacific in overtime 58-57. The triumph earned St. Mary's an automatic berth in the NCAA regional tournament at San Francisco March 13.

St. Mary's will meet the winner of a first-round game between the champions of the Border and Rocky Mountain conferences, both yet undetermined. It will be the first appearance in the NCAA tournament by St. Mary's.

Louisville, which won the National Invitation Tournament in 1956, accepted an "at-large" berth in the NCAA competition. It will compete in the first-round regional at Lexington, Ky., meeting either Eastern Kentucky or the still-undetermined champion of the Mid-American Conference. Marquette also is in this regional. The exact dates (March 9, 10 or 11) and pairings will be announced later.

St. Mary's and Louisville were the fifth and sixth teams to enter the tournament. Marquette, Texas Christian, Kansas State and Eastern Kentucky already were in the field.

Louisville's won-lost record is not impressive but it has played a stiff schedule. The team has beaten Marquette, Eastern Kentucky, Bradley, Kansas, Alabama and Georgia Tech. Louisville also has lost to Bradley and Marquette plus such other powers as St. Louis and North Carolina State.

Boston Marathon Set April 20

BOSTON (UPI) — The annual Boston AA Marathon will be held Monday, April 20, this year instead of the usual April 19 date, it was announced Thursday. The 26-mile 385-yard classic was moved back a day since April 19, Patriots' Day, falls on a Sunday.

BACK HOME—Former star player at Brown university where his father was coach for 14 years, John J. McLaughry (above), returns to Brown as head football coach. McLaughry, who coached at Amherst for nine years, is the son of the famed Tuss McLaughry.

Cameraman Is Scolded By Mantle

Yankee Holdout Refuses To Pose

DALLAS, Tex. (UPI) — Yankee holdout Mickey Mantle scolded a United Press International photographer and refused to pose for pictures on a Dallas golf course Thursday.

The home run slugger, who became a holdout with the beginning of spring training, was approached at the ninth green of Lakewood Country Club golf course by Roddy Mims, UPI photographer.

Mims said that at first Mantle showed signs of friendliness, but when the photographer introduced himself as being from UPI, Mantle scowled.

Mims said he was surprised by the outfielder's actions and asked him if there was something wrong between Mantle and news reporters.

"If there is anything I can do to straighten things out, I'd be glad to do so," Mims told him.

"I'm just mad at the whole bunch of you guys," the baseball star answered.

He turned, teed up his ball and as he swung, Mims shot the picture.

Mantle turned to the photographer and snapped: "Just remember that if you ever want me to pose for a picture again."

Mantle has refused to sign his contract with the New York Yankees and his sudden change in attitude toward newsmen may be the result of a war of nerves the player is engaged in with the Yankee front office.

West Virginia Routs Davidson In Tournament, 100-65

Mountaineers Set Record At Richmond

Score 40 Goals; Battle William And Mary Today

By FRED BONAVITA
United Press International

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI) — West Virginia's Mountaineers oiled up their famous fast break and ran roughshod over Davidson 100 - 65 Thursday in the first round of the Southern Conference tournament.

That advanced them to Friday's semifinals at 7:30 p. m., against William & Mary which trounced Richmond 87-69 in the tourney opener.

The Mountaineers, strong favorites to cop a fifth straight conference championship, rolled to their 48th straight league win behind All-America candidate Jerry West —who hit on nine of 10 shots— and his rapid-running teammates.

The West Vriginia total snapped by three points the previous single-game scoring record for the tourney, set by Washington & Lee in 1955. Its 40 field goals also was a record.

The lightning - quick Mountaineers built up a 15-1 lead in the first five minutes, led 56-22 at halftime and increased the margin to 40 points at 64-24 with 16:23 to go.

Played Half Of Game

Davidson's only bright spot came on a 10-point spree, with guard Semi Mintz hitting eight, which only served to slice the huge cushion to 30 at 64-34.

West and fellow stars Bob Smith and Bucky Bolyard, left the game shortly after intermission. And Mountaineer Coach Fred Schaus threw in his third string with nine minutes to go. All 12 Mountaineer players scored at least three points apiece.

Second-string guard Lee Patrone out-scored West in the balanced Mountaineer effort as he rang up 22 markers. West scored 18 in his 22 minutes of play.

Mintz and forward Dave Hollingsworth scored 18 points each to share the Davidson honors.

Bolyard Shines

Bolyard and forward Willie Akers scored 12 points each and Smith had eight.

The 5-foot-11 Bolyard, with vision in only one eye, out - rebounded most of his taller opponents and repeatedly sent down - the-floor passes on Mountaineer fast breaks.

The goal which broke the conference record came with 32 seconds to go by guard Nick Visnic, Wheeling sophomore.

Jose Torres Stops Wright In Fifth

NEW YORK (UPI)—Jose Torres, unbeaten young Puerto Rican middleweight, floored Eddie Wright of Philadelphia three times Thursday night and scored a technical knockout in the fifth round at Sunnyside Garden for his 10th straight victory as a professional.

Torres, managed by Cus D'Amato—pilot of world heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson—scored his sixth straight knockout and his eighth in his 10 victories.

Referee Mark Conn stopped the bout at 2:10 of the fifth round when Wright was on the floor for the second time in that session. He had also been on the canvas in the fourth round.

Torres, 22, weighed 163 pounds; Wright, 23, scaled 161 ½ as he suffered his first kayo and sixth defeat in 12 professional bouts.

St. Michael's Cops Title In Catholic Youth Loop

SS. Peter & Paul Bows In Season's Final Game, 38-35

St. Michael's of Frostburg won the championship of the Catholic Youth Basketball League last night by defeating SS. Peter and Paul in the final game of the second half race at SS. Peter & Paul gym by the score of 38-35.

The win gave Coach Father Regis Larkin's quint a second half record of 10-0 and extended their winning streak to 16 games. The Frostburg team won first half honors by defeating SS. Peter and Paul in a playoff game after the race had ended in a tie.

SS. Peter and Paul led at the quarters in last night's game, 10-8, 19-12 and 26-24, but Frank DeLuca's goal knotted the count at 33-33 in the final period and it was his shooting that put the Mountain City team ahead to stay.

DeLuca scored 14 points to pace the victors. None of the members of the losing team scored in double figures.

In other league games staged last night, St. Mary's defeated St. Patrick's on the Oldtown Road court, 51-35, and St. Ambrose, of Cresaptown, beat St. Peter's of Westernport, at SS. Peter & Paul gym by the score of 45-29.

Bobby Ruppenkamp was high scorer for St. Mary's with 26 points and Lantz headed St. Patrick's with 21.

Keyser, Paw Paw Open Tournaments Tonight

Four Schools Vie In Each Sectional

Sectional basketball tournaments are scheduled to get under way tonight at Keyser and Paw Paw.

At Potomac State College, Keyser, the Section 13-A event, directed by Melvin M. Heiskell, principal of Ridgeley High School, will bring together four teams with Fort Ashby (13-8) meeting Piedmont (12-6) at 7:30 o'clock while Ridgeley (10-11) will oppose Elk Garden (2-18) in the nightcap affair.

The championship game is set for Saturday at 9 p. m., and will be preceded by the consolation tilt at 7:30.

Floyd "Pete" Elliott and John Diamond will officiate.

Fort Ashby and Piedmont did not meet during the regular season. Ridgeley split even with Elk Garden, winning the first game, 72-57, and losing the second, 61-47.

The Section 15-A four-school tourney opens tonight under the direction of Tom Small, principal of Paw Paw High School.

In the first game at 7 o'clock, Berkeley Springs (9-11) will do battle with Capon Bridge (12-9) while in the second tilt Paw Paw (15-6) will tangle with the West Virginia School for the Deaf (6-12).

Joe Stanislawczyk and Joe Hartle will officiate.

The championship contest is set for 8:30 Saturday night. The consolation game will get under way at 7.

Hot Stove Loop Re-elects All 1958 Officers

The Cumberland Hot Stove Baseball League, pleased with a successful season in 1958, re-elected its entire slate of officers at a meeting last night in City Hall.

Officers of the eight-team circuit are George F. Flynn, president; Earl M. Nonnenmann, vice president, and H. Frank Hinze, secretary-treasurer.

The eight teams in the league are the Rotary Club, Kiwanis Club, Cumberland Optimist Club, Bedford Road Optimist Club, Junior Association of Commerce, Lions Club, Bnai B'rith and B.P.O. Elks.

The next meeting of the league will be held the latter part of March.

Hafer's And PBC Capture Openers

Hafer House Furniture defeated Robinson's Plumbers, 61-58, in the opening game of their best-of-three series for the Men's Rec League championship last night at Carver School.

In the other half of the twin bill, the Police Boys Club topped Diamond Bowling, 68-44, in the first game of their best-of-three series for the championship of the High School Rec League.

Ace Armstrong Is Favorite In Bout At Garden

Seeks 17th In Row Over Scortichini

NEW YORK (AP)—Undefeated Gene (Ace) Armstrong Thursday was a 2-1 favorite to rack up his 17th straight victory at the expense of Italo Scortichini, Italy's middleweight champion, Friday night.

The two 160-pounders clash in a televised 10-rounder (NBC, 10 p.m., EST) at Madison Square Garden.

It will be the second fight of the year for the 27-year-old contender from Elizabeth, N.J. He is ranked fifth by the NBA on his 16-0 record. Scortichini is unranked.

The wiry Jerseyite has found it tough to get matches with the other upper echelon middleweights. In his only fights last year, he soundly whipped Charley Joseph and Rory Calhoun.

Scortichini campaigned in the states from 1953 through 1956. Now 29, he compiled a so-so record in the ring but made a solid personal hit in the bankroll department. Now he's back for another helping.

A pro 11 years, Scortichini's record is 41-22-7 including 15 knockouts.

Scoring will be by the rounds system. A supplementary point system also will be used to help break draws.

West Virginia Routs Davidson In Tournament, 100-65

Mountaineers Set Record At Richmond

Score 40 Goals; Battle William And Mary Today

By FRED BONAVITA
United Press International

That advanced them to Friday's semifinals at 7:30 p. m., against William & Mary which trounced Richmond 87-69 in the tourney opener.

The Mountaineers, strong favorites to cop a fifth straight conference championship, rolled to their 48th straight league win behind All-America candidate Jerry West —who hit on nine of 10 shots— and his rapid-running teammates.

The West Vriginia total snapped by three points the previous single-game scoring record for the tourney, set by Washington & Lee in 1955. Its 40 field goals also was a record.

The lightning - quick Mountaineers built up a 15-1 lead in the first five minutes, led 56-22 at halftime and increased the margin to 40 points at 64-24 with 16:23 to go.

Played Half Of Game

Davidson's only bright spot came on a 10-point spree, with guard Semi Mintz hitting eight, which only served to slice the huge cushion to 30 at 64-34.

West and fellow stars Bob Smith and Bucky Bolyard, left the game shortly after intermission. And Mountaineer Coach Fred Schaus threw in his third string with nine minutes to go. All 12 Mountaineer players scored at least three points apiece.

Second-string guard Lee Patrone out-scored West in the balanced Mountaineer effort as he rang up 22 markers. West scored 18 in his 22 minutes of play.

Mintz and forward Dave Hollingsworth scored 18 points each to share the Davidson honors.

Bolyard Shines

Bolyard and forward Willie Akers scored 12 points each and Smith had eight.

The 5-foot-11 Bolyard, with vision in only one eye, out - rebounded most of his taller opponents and repeatedly sent down - the-floor passes on Mountaineer fast breaks.

The goal which broke the conference record came with 32 seconds to go by guard Nick Visnic, Wheeling sophomore.

Jose Torres Stops Wright In Fifth

NEW YORK (UPI)—Jose Torres, unbeaten young Puerto Rican middleweight, floored Eddie Wright of Philadelphia three times Thursday night and scored a technical knockout in the fifth round at Sunnyside Garden for his 10th straight victory as a professional.

Torres, managed by Cus D'Amato—pilot of world heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson—scored his sixth straight knockout and his eighth in his 10 victories.

Referee Mark Conn stopped the bout at 2:10 of the fifth round when Wright was on the floor for the second time in that session. He had also been on the canvas in the fourth round.

Torres, 22, weighed 163 pounds; Wright, 23, scaled 161 ½ as he suffered his first kayo and sixth defeat in 12 professional bouts.

St. Michael's Cops Title In Catholic Youth Loop

SS. Peter & Paul Bows In Season's Final Game, 38-35

St. Michael's of Frostburg won the championship of the Catholic Youth Basketball League last night by defeating SS. Peter and Paul in the final game of the second half race at SS. Peter & Paul gym by the score of 38-35.

The win gave Coach Father Regis Larkin's quint a second half record of 10-0 and extended their winning streak to 16 games. The Frostburg team won first half honors by defeating SS. Peter and Paul in a playoff game after the race had ended in a tie.

SS. Peter and Paul led at the quarters in last night's game, 10-8, 19-12 and 26-24, but Frank DeLuca's goal knotted the count at 33-33 in the final period and it was his shooting that put the Mountain City team ahead to stay.

DeLuca scored 14 points to pace the victors. None of the members of the losing team scored in double figures.

In other league games staged last night, St. Mary's defeated St. Patrick's on the Oldtown Road court, 51-35, and St. Ambrose, of Cresaptown, beat St. Peter's of Westernport, at SS. Peter & Paul gym by the score of 45-29.

Bobby Ruppenkamp was high scorer for St. Mary's with 26 points and Lantz headed St. Patrick's with 21.

Keyser, Paw Paw Open Tournaments Tonight

Four Schools Vie In Each Sectional

Sectional basketball tournaments are scheduled to get under way tonight at Keyser and Paw Paw.

At Potomac State College, Keyser, the Section 13-A event, directed by Melvin M. Heiskell, principal of Ridgeley High School, will bring together four teams with Fort Ashby (13-8) meeting Piedmont (12-6) at 7:30 o'clock while Ridgeley (10-11) will oppose Elk Garden (2-18) in the nightcap affair.

The championship game is set for Saturday at 9 p. m., and will be preceded by the consolation tilt at 7:30.

Floyd "Pete" Elliott and John Diamond will officiate.

Fort Ashby and Piedmont did not meet during the regular season. Ridgeley split even with Elk Garden, winning the first game, 72-57, and losing the second, 61-47.

The Section 15-A four-school tourney opens tonight under the direction of Tom Small, principal of Paw Paw High School.

In the first game at 7 o'clock, Berkeley Springs (9-11) will do battle with Capon Bridge (12-9) while in the second tilt Paw Paw (15-6) will tangle with the West Virginia School for the Deaf (6-15).

Joe Stanislawczyk and Joe Hartle will officiate.

The championship contest is set for 8:30 Saturday night. The consolation game will get under way at 7.

Ace Armstrong Is Favorite In Bout At Garden

Seeks 17th In Row Over Scortichini

NEW YORK (AP)—Undefeated Gene (Ace) Armstrong Thursday was a 2-1 favorite to rack up his 17th straight victory at the expense of Italo Scortichini, Italy's middleweight champion, Friday night.

The two 160-pounders clash in a televised 10-rounder (NBC, 10 p.m., EST) at Madison Square Garden.

It will be the second fight of the year for the 27-year-old contender from Elizabeth, N.J. He is ranked fifth by the NBA on his 16-0 record. Scortichini is unranked.

The wiry Jerseyite has found it tough to get matches with the other upper echelon middleweights. In his only fights last year, he soundly whipped Charley Joseph and Rory Calhoun.

Scortichini campaigned in the states from 1953 through 1956. Now 29, he compiled a so-so record in the ring but made a solid personal hit in the bankroll department. Now he's back for another helping.

A pro 11 years, Scortichini's record is 41-22-7 including 15 knockouts.

Scoring will be by the rounds system. A supplementary point system also will be used to help break draws.

Romney High's Bill Maphis Rewrites P.V.C. Record Book

Pioneer Ace's 29.9 Average Is New High

Made 509 Points; Milavec's .827 Is Best At Foul Line

Bill Maphis, Romney High School junior, playing his third straight season as a regular for the Pioneers, rewrote the record book of the Potomac Valley Conference this season when he collected 509 points in 17 games for an average of 29.9.

His 509 total wiped out the previous high of 472 in 17 games credited to Jim Vetter of Moorefield High School in 1958 and his 29.9 average erased a record that had been on the books since 1951. The previous high average was 29.0 and was hung up by Carl Hartman of Ridgeley in 12 games eight years ago.

Scored 198 Field Goals

Maphis' 198 field goals is also a new high for the P.V.C. His 52 points in one game was ten short of the record 62 credited to Hartman in 1951. Bill rang up 30 or more points in ten games.

Runner-up to Maphis in the averages was Bill Scott of Ridgeley who garnered 311 points in 12 games for a 25.9. Bill Price, of Fort Ashby, finished third with 21.6, Jerold Milavec, of Elk Garden, was fourth with 21.4 and Joe Taylor of Piedmont finished in fifth place with 20.8.

Milavec Tops In Fouls

Elk Garden's Jerold Milavec romped off with the conference foul shooting championship by turning in an average of .827. He sank 81 of 98 charity throws to pace all the individuals. Bill Price, of Fort Ashby, (78-98) was the runner-up with .796 and Maphis was third with .758. The Romney player hooped 113 of 149 free throws.

Other leading foul shooters were Junior Householder, of Paw Paw with .757 for 28-37; A. D. Hott, Romney .717 for 33-46; "Sonny" Taylor, Petersburg .707 for 24-34 and Richard Bennett, Franklin with .704 for 38-54.

214 Players Participated

A total of 214 players participated in the 112 contests played by the 17 teams in the league.

The 100-point mark was exceeded in three games during the campaign. Romney defeated the West Virginia School for the Deaf, 108-35 and 102-47 while Franklin drubbed Mathias, 105-51.

Keyser bagged the title for the first time since 1952 with a 13-1 record. Franklin was runner-up with 11-1 and Romney third with 12-2.

$500,000 Approved For Pan-Am Games

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Foreign Affairs Committee unanimously approved a bill on Thursday to authorize a $500,000 appropriation for the Pan American Games in Chicago this fall.

Committee Chairman Thomas E Morgan (D-Pa.) said he would try to push the measure through the House as fast as possible "because time is essential."

The bill must still win approval in the Senate. It died there last year because of strong opposition from Sen. Frank J. Lausche (D-Ohio).

Karl Korte Wins Aboard Noble Drake

Beats Frank Again In Bowie Feature

BOWIE, Md., Feb. 26 (AP) — Noble Drake continued a skein of longshot winners at Bowie race course today by winning the featured Chestertown Purse for a $19.80 payoff.

The Charles Eaton five-year-old caught the tired leaders in the final furlong and Jockey Karl Korte got him across the finish line one-half length in front of Joe Nechamkin's Frank Again.

Mrs. Walter Edgar's Dared To was a length and a half back.

The winner's time for the seven furlongs was 1.26 3/5.

Noble Drake paid $9.40 to place and $5.20 to show; Frank Again paid $10.40 and $5.80 and Dared To, $3.60.

Grey Rip, favorite in the seven-horse field, was hemmed in along the rail the final eighth of a mile and didn't have a chance to show his usual late speed.

Air Borough, an outsider, bothered Grey Rip before finishing fourth and stewards disqualified the former.

Detroit Lions Profit $170,000

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Lions made a profit of about $170,000 in 1958, the Detroit Football Co. reported Thursday, the second best in history financially for the National Football League team and the best in gate receipts.

The company's record profit year of 1954 included some tax benefits that added up to a $200,000 profit.

Bell Hospitalized

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Commissioner Bert Bell of the National Football League was admitted to Lankenau Hospital Wednesday night for treatment of bronchitis. His condition Thursday was reported as good. Bell has been in ill health for several years.

Romney High's Bill Maphis Rewrites P.V.C. Record Book

Made 509 Points; Milavec's .827 Is Best At Foul Line

Bill Maphis, Romney High School junior, playing his third straight season as a regular for the Pioneers, rewrote the record book of the Potomac Valley Conference this season when he collected 509 points in 17 games for an average of 29.9.

His 509 total wiped out the previous high of 472 in 17 games credited to Jim Vetter of Moorefield High School in 1958 and his 29.9 average erased a record that had been on the books since 1951. The previous high average was 29.0 and was hung up by Carl Hartman of Ridgeley in 12 games eight years ago.

Scored 198 Field Goals

Maphis' 198 field goals is also a new high for the P.V.C. His 52 points in one game was ten short of the record 62 credited to Hartman in 1951. Bill rang up 30 or more points in ten games.

Runner-up to Maphis in the averages was Bill Scott of Ridgeley who garnered 311 points in 12 games for a 25.9. Bill Price, of Fort Ashby, finished third with 21.6, Jerold Milavec, of Elk Garden, was fourth with 21.4 and Joe Taylor of Piedmont finished in fifth place with 20.8.

Milavec Tops In Fouls

Elk Garden's Jerold Milavec romped off with the conference foul shooting championship by turning in an average of .827. He sank 81 of 98 charity throws to pace all the individuals. Bill Price, of Fort Ashby, (78-98) was the runner-up with .796 and Maphis was third with .758. The Romney player hooped 113 of 149 free throws.

Other leading foul shooters were Junior Householder, of Paw Paw with .757 for 28-37; A. D. Hott, Romney .717 for 33-46; "Sonny" Taylor, Petersburg .707 for 24-34 and Richard Bennett, Franklin with .704 for 38-54.

214 Players Participated

A total of 214 players participated in the 112 contests played by the 17 teams in the league.

The 100-point mark was exceeded in three games during the campaign. Romney defeated the West Virginia School for the Deaf, 108-35 and 102-47 while Franklin drubbed Mathias, 105-51.

Keyser bagged the title for the first time since 1952 with a 13-1 record. Franklin was runner-up with 11-1 and Romney third with 12-2.

$500,000 Approved For Pan-Am Games

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Foreign Affairs Committee unanimously approved a bill on Thursday to authorize a $500,000 appropriation for the Pan American Games in Chicago this fall.

Committee Chairman Thomas E Morgan (D-Pa.) said he would try to push the measure through the House as fast as possible "because time is essential."

The bill must still win approval in the Senate. It died there last year because of strong opposition from Sen. Frank J. Lausche (D-Ohio).

BOWIE, Md., Feb. 26 (AP) — Noble Drake continued a skein of longshot winners at Bowie race course today by winning the featured Chestertown Purse for a $19.80 payoff.

The Charles Eaton five-year-old caught the tired leaders in the final furlong and Jockey Karl Korte got him across the finish line one-half length in front of Joe Nechamkin's Frank Again.

Mrs. Walter Edgar's Dared To was a length and a half back.

The winner's time for the seven furlongs was 1.26 3/5.

Noble Drake paid $9.40 to place and $5.20 to show; Frank Again paid $10.40 and $5.80 and Dared To, $3.60.

Grey Rip, favorite in the seven-horse field, was hemmed in along the rail the final eighth of a mile and didn't have a chance to show his usual late speed.

Air Borough, an outsider, bothered Grey Rip before finishing fourth and stewards disqualified the former.

Detroit Lions Profit $170,000

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Lions made a profit of about $170,000 in 1958, the Detroit Football Co. reported Thursday, the second best in history financially for the National Football League team and the best in gate receipts.

The company's record profit year of 1954 included some tax benefits that added up to a $200,000 profit.

Bell Hospitalized

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Commissioner Bert Bell of the National Football League was admitted to Lankenau Hospital Wednesday night for treatment of bronchitis. His condition Thursday was reported as good. Bell has been in ill health for several years.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD — Six years ago when Sam Goldwyn Jr., visited Hannibal, Mo., home of Mark Twain, he made up his mind that one day he would do the Huckleberry Finn story.

The time has come now and Sammy told me today that in "The Adventures of Huckleberry Finn" he plans to get the Mark Twain feeling. He'll film the picture almost in its entirety this summer on the Mississippi. Sammy has great good luck in that years ago, before "My Fair Lady" and "Gigi," Alan Lerner wrote a beautiful score for "Huckleberry Finn" which was never utilized by MGM and it's been turned over to young Sam. Sol Siegel is announcing that this is young Goldwyn's first for MGM.

Dean Martin wasn't as disappointed as his friends that he didn't receive an academy nomination in the "best performance" category. He felt the role in "Some Came Running" came too easy for him to be of Oscar stature, but he frankly admitted he has hopes for an award in "Rio Bravo."

"Just to be mentioned as a possibility for a nomination in 'Some Came Running' was flattering enough for me," said Dean.

He said that while he's doing "Career" for Hal Wallis he and Wallis are talking a deal for Dean to star in "Fatal Journey," a submarine drama about World War II which will be made next year.

Good to hear anyone as happy as Tommy Sands sounded when he long-distanced me from New York to say that he leaves March 14 for Australia with a new night-club act specially written by Lou Spencer.

"I'll be in Australia for 12 days with the sharks," said Tommy. "I hope when I finish there I can return to the Actors Studio. I feel I learned a lot studying with Lee Strasberg in the last two months. However, I may make a picture."

I learned later that Tommy has an offer both from MGM and from Hecht-Hill-Lancaster.

The distaste I felt when I first heard the story of Al Capone was to be filmed was dispelled when I saw the completed movie, "Al Capone." The Allied Artists picture has been handled with such force and integrity that it can be considered nothing less than a great moral lesson against the exploits of the No. 1 racketeer and gangster. It comes as an awful shock to realize that the "organization" methods Capone brought to crime are still in operation today!

In line with my newspaper job I interviewed Capone years ago in Chicago. In fact, I saw him twice and on both occasions he was trying to get me to get the Chicago American to give his dog races as much space as the horse races. The paper wasn't intimidated and refused. In real (not screen) life Al was married and he worshipped his son — (not shown in the film). Rod Steiger, who plays Capone, and bears an uncanny likeness to the Chicago underworld lord, gives a vivid and viciously remarkable performance.

Francis X. Bushman is as proud as punch over his grandson, Pat Conway, son of Virginia Bushman and the late Jack Conway. All his life Pat wanted to act, but both his parents were "again' " it. But Francis X. told the boy if he really wanted to be an actor, to pay no attention and to go ahead and work at it.

Pat first appeared at the Pasadena Playhouse, and then the Old Vic in London. Now he opens March 13 as the star of "Tombstone Territory," a Western TV series for ZIV.

Duke Ellington, grand old man of jazz, and I hope he'll pardon me for calling him an "old" man, has signed to write the score and to play a part in "Anatomy of a Murder." Otto Preminger plans to have him play the piano for Jimmy Stewart, the lawyer who likes to sing.

Duke went abroad and stayed there for a long time. It was he who really introduced sophisticated jazz, and he's one of the world's most popular musicians.

She is ageless, who moves and sits like a queen.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Be Graceful

The ageless sort of a woman has a graceful walk and a lithe body. But she can't collect all her charm credits unless she knows how to sit.

How do you sit? Do you bounce and flounce in and out of a chair . . . or heave and hoist? Or, do you have graceful control? You might be surprised if you caught a reflection of yourself in a three-way mirror.

How do you carry yourself? Are you a picture of grace in motion? Or, do you plunge forward in an awkward, head-on slouch?

One of the most difficult things most women have to learn is how to walk and sit gracefully and attractively. This holds true in everyday life as on the stage or screen. Posture is an integral part of glamour, and that means grace of movement in walking and sitting.

Some are born graceful and some have to acquire grace. If you watch a crowd of women sitting down in a streetcar, subway or bus you'll understand what we mean. A few will sit with their knees apart, others their toes turned in. Either pose or both would make a beautiful woman look ugly . . . Others will sprawl and slump sideways. Still others will slump forward—sitting on a part of the backbone with stomachs out and shoulders drooped forward

On the other side of the picture are those who sit gracefully and with seemingly little effort. Their legs are crossed at the ankles or at the knees.

When you're sitting in a chair, it is usually best to sit sidewise, with knees together and feet crossed at the ankle — one in front of the other.

Remember your posture when you walk, and swing your legs from the hip sockets. This will help to develop a free stride rather than a mincing or hobbling step. Since walking is one of the best exercises for all parts of the body, you are improving your health as well as your appearance every time you take a step.

Television and Radio

by John Crosby

Much More Than An Adapter

A. E. Hotchner is the official dramatizer—he doesn't like the word adapter—of the works of Ernest Hemingway for television, a post of imposing if somewhat frightening grandeur. A longtime buddy, drinking companion, and admirer of the Nobel Prize winner, Hotchner takes the job seriously but not so solemnly that it scares the hell out of him.

"He's going to trust me until our first disaster," said Hotchner, a red-headed freckle-faced, amiable imp who might very well have been the model for Howdy Doody. So far Hotchner has staved off disaster brilliantly through seven dramatizations of Hemingway tales — "The Battler," "The Nun," "The Radio," "Fifty Grand," "Nick Adams," "Capitol of the World," and "The Gambler." I didn't see 'em all but the ones I did were brilliant, notably "The World of Nick Adams" on "Seven Lively Arts," "Fifty Grand" on "Kraft," and "The Battler" on "Playwrights 56."

Hotchner has a profound understanding of the man and his work. I think he knows what Hemingway is aiming at and is not so awed by him that he can't get the work done. How, I asked him, did Hemingway feel about having his work changed? "Very lenient," said Hotchner. "He doesn't demand anything. He doesn't above all, feel the writer has to cherish every word.

"Hemingway doesn't even read the scripts. He waits until someone shows him a kinescope. Right now, he's in Ketchum, Idaho, in a log house in a town of some 800 finishing a novel. This show ("For Whom the Bell Tolls" in two parts on "Playhouse 90" now in rehearsal for presentation March 12 and 19) will be the first time he's ever seen one of his stories actually on television."

While Hemingway has liked all of his stories which Hotch has dramatized on TV, he has generally loathed what the movies have done to his work. " 'The Killers' is the only movie Hemingway liked. That was written for the screen by John Huston who understands Hemingway. You have to understand all of it—not just one story or one novel. It helps to know the man as much as you can. Huston, I'm sure, has read almost everything Hemingway has written."

Hotchner grinned: "Hemingway hated the movie version of 'The Sun Also Rises'. He said to me that any movie in which Errol Flynn emerges as the best actor is a disaster." He brooded a moment and then added: "I suppose what I'm trying to say is that when you're dramatizing Hemingway you don't write it the way Noel Coward would write it."

As a dramatizer, he many times feels called on to change the action or content or the time sequence of the original. The idea is a preserve the spirit. "One of my secret satisfactions is reading a review praising me for something Hemingway didn't write. In 'Fifty Grand' one reviewer said something to the effect that the description of the fighter talking to his wife before the fight is as great on the TV screen as it was on the printed page. Well, it wasn't on the printed page. I made it up."

Hotchner does originals, too. Last year on Playhouse 90, he wrote "The Last Clear Chance," and excellent courtroom drama starring Paul Muni and Luther Adler which was repeated during the summer. The legal aspects came easy because Hotchner is a lawyer who has abandoned the practice of law for the typewriter.

Right now he's working on another "Playhouse 90" script called "The Last Four Days of Mussolini." The documentary thing is real big this year and this is a logical successor to "The Plot to Kill Stalin" and "Seven Against the Wall," which was a documentary on the St. Valentine's Day massacre in Chicago.

"Doing a documentary type of thing is entirely different from doing anything else. You have to get rid of all your prejudices and create out of the facts, the fiction of drama. I like working with Fred Coe (producer of many of Playhouse 90's best shows). When Coe produces, the author has the same status as a playwright on Broadway. You're committed to the show from the beginning to the end. Not all shows are like that. U. S. Steel, for example, just buys your script and says goodbye to you."

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
2♥	Double	Pass	3♣
3♥	4♦	4♥	Pass

Opening lead: King of ♦.

Declarer brought home his contract today by virtue of a play that might be termed the "semi-strip."

Purists might carp at South's demand opening, but we shall not point the finger of scorn at him. West doubled to encourage his partner to show a reasonable spade suit, holding the diamond suit in reserve if East bid clubs. North's free bid of four hearts was tempered by his failure to take positive action on the previous round.

West opened the king of diamonds and continued the suit. Declarer ruffed and drew trumps in two rounds. A one trick set appeared inevitable since the bidding precluded even the vaguest chance that East held the ace of spades.

However, declarer set about to determine what holding would permit the contract to be fulfilled. He visualized West with the A-Q-J of spades alone and considered going over to the king of clubs, ruffing out the last diamond, then cashing the ace of clubs hoping to clear West's hand of that suit, then a low spade out of his hand on the supposition that West would have to win with the jack and be compelled to lead either a diamond or a spade.

Suddenly it dawned on him that if West had only two clubs, the contract could be brought home irrespective of the spots in spades under the ace. He therefore cashed the ace of clubs and went over to the king and returned the jack of diamonds, discarding the five of spades from his own hand. West was in and found it impossible to avoid the loss of a trick on his next lead. A diamond lead would provide declarer with a ruff and a discard while a spade lead would establish South's king.

Adventist Churches Plan Day Of Fasting

A day of fasting and prayer will be observed Saturday, by members of the Cumberland and Frostburg churches of the Seventh-Day Adventist denomination.

Otis L. Parish, pastor of the churches, says the local congregations are joining other Adventist churches of West Virginia in observing "Evangelism Day" as part of "Operation Thrust," a state-wide simultaneous evangelistic project sponsored by the West Virginia Conference of Adventists.

Members will contribute to a fund this coming Saturday to help support a major evangelistic campaign which will begin March 28.

The five-month project, which began in January with a revival series in the local churches, will reach its climax in May when baptisms will be held in every church. The summer program of the conference includes the annual Bible conference and camp meeting at Parkersburg, state headquarters of the denomination.

Statewide director of the project is Arthur J. Patzer, of Parkersburg, president of the West Virginia Conference of Adventists.

A "WARNING BELL"

LONDON (UPI)—Dr. Geoffrey Fisher, archbishop of Canterbury, considers outbreaks of anti-Semitism in West Germany a "warning bell" for the world. He said "there is not only a problem of anti-Semitism but of anti-Christianity to be dealt with." He spoke after the annual meeting of the Council of Christians and Jews in London heard a report about the formation of Nazi organizations in West Germany.

Firemen Of LaVale Will Hear Foley

Rep. John R. Foley (D-6th Md.) will be the principal speaker at the 26th annual dinner of the LaVale Volunteer Fire Department Saturday at 6:30 p. m. in the LaVale Fire Hall.

Toastmaster at the event for the fire company members and various county officials will be Myer Abramson, Cumberland.

One of the highlights will be the presentation of the "Fireman of the Year Award" to the member who shows the most untiring and outstanding efforts in behalf of the LaVale unit.

Fire Chief James H. Loar will present his annual report of fire calls and activities for 1958.

Life membership cards will be issued to two active firemen who have served 20 years with the department.

All life members will be issued new cards, according to Thomas L. Smith, president.

Big Snow Reported

TOKYO (UPI)—The Communist New China News Agency said Thursday Peiping was covered with more than 10 inches of snow in the heaviest snowfall in 80 years.

Youths Who Fired Tracers Released

BALTIMORE (AP) — Federal officials have released two youths who they said admitted firing tracer bullets into the sky the night of Feb. 17.

A Capitol Airlines Viscount airliner was approaching Friendship Airport at the time of the shooting. The pilot said the tracer bullets passed the nose and wing of the plane.

FBI agents said Wednesday the two youths, an 18-year-old Elkridge gas station attendant and a 17-year-old companion, admitted firing into the sky near Dorsey, Anne Arundel County.

Leon H. A. Pierson, U.S. attorney, said the youths were released because there was no evidence they intended to fire at the plane.

GI COURT MARTIALED

BERLIN (UPI) — A U.S. Army courtmartial Thursday sentenced Pfc. George Lee, 20, of San Francisco, to dishonorable discharge and six months at hard labor after he pleaded guilty to charges of desertion. Lee, a Chinese-American, was charged with leaving his engineer unit in West Germany last May 10 to enter the East German Zone. He returned to the Western Zone last October.

PLANE DROPS ENGINE

LONDON (UPI)—Investigators from the U. S. Civil Aeronautics Board and the Boeing Airplane Co. arrived Thursday to inspect the 707 Jetliner that lost an engine in flight over France Wednesday. The two-ton engine was wrenched off when the Pan American plane, with only crewmen on a training flight aboard, was being put through maneuvers by pilot John Ryan, of Hicksville, N. Y. The engine plunged into a field near Chartres, France. It was retrieved and returned to Paris for examination.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD — Six years ago when Sam Goldwyn Jr., visited Hannibal, Mo., home of Mark Twain, he made up his mind that one day he would do the Huckleberry Finn story.

The time has come now and Sammy told me today that in "The Adventures of Huckleberry Finn" he plans to get the Mark Twain feeling. He'll film the picture almost in its entirety this summer on the Mississippi. Sammy has great good luck in that years ago, before "My Fair Lady" and "Gigi," Alan Lerner wrote a beautiful score for "Huckleberry Finn" which was never utilized by MGM and it's been turned over to young Sam. Sol Siegel is announcing that this is young Goldwyn's first for MGM.

Dean Martin wasn't as disappointed as his friends that he didn't receive an academy nomination in the "best performance" category. He felt the role in "Some Came Running" came too easy for him to be of Oscar stature, but he frankly admitted he has hopes for an award in "Rio Bravo."

"Just to be mentioned as a possibility for a nomination in 'Some Came Running' was flattering enough for me," said Dean.

He said that while he's doing "Career" for Hal Wallis he and Wallis are talking a deal for Dean to star in "Fatal Journey," a submarine drama about World War II which will be made next year.

Good to hear anyone as happy as Tommy Sands sounded when he long-distanced me from New York to say that he leaves March 14 for Australia with a new night-club act specially written by Lou Spencer.

"I'll be in Australia for 12 days with the sharks," said Tommy. "I hope when I finish there I can return to the Actors Studio. I feel I learned a lot studying with Lee Strasberg in the last two months. However, I may make a picture."

I learned later that Tommy has an offer both from MGM and from Hecht-Hill-Lancaster.

The distaste I felt when I first heard the story of Al Capone was to be filmed was dispelled when I saw the completed movie, "Al Capone." The Allied Artists picture has been handled with such force and integrity that it can be considered nothing less than a great moral lesson against the exploits of the No. 1 racketeer and gangster. It comes as an awful shock to realize that the "organization" methods Capone brought to crime are still in operation today!

In line with my newspaper job I interviewed Capone years ago in Chicago. In fact, I saw him twice and on both occasions he was trying to get me to get the Chicago American to give his dog races as much space as the horse races. The paper wasn't intimidated and refused. In real (not screen) life Al was married and he worshipped his son — (not shown in the film). Rod Steiger, who plays Capone, and bears an uncanny likeness to the Chicago underworld lord, gives a vivid and viciously remarkable performance.

Francis X. Bushman is as proud as punch over his grandson, Pat Conway, son of Virginia Bushman and the late Jack Conway. All his life Pat wanted to act, but both his parents were "again' " it. But Francis X. told the boy if he really wanted to be an actor, to pay no attention and to go ahead and work at it.

Pat first appeared at the Pasadena Playhouse, and then the Old Vic in London. Now he opens March 13 as the star of "Tombstone Territory," a Western TV series for ZIV.

Duke Ellington, grand old man of jazz, and I hope he'll pardon me for calling him an "old" man, has signed to write the score and to play a part in "Anatomy of a Murder." Otto Preminger plans to have him play the piano for Jimmy Stewart, the lawyer who likes to sing.

Duke went abroad and stayed there for a long time. It was he who really introduced sophisticated jazz, and he's one of the world's most popular musicians.

She is ageless, who moves and sits like a queen.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Be Graceful

The ageless sort of a woman has a graceful walk and a lithe body. But she can't collect all her charm credits unless she knows how to sit.

How do you sit? Do you bounce and flounce in and out of a chair . . . or heave and hoist? Or, do you have graceful control? You might be surprised if you caught a reflection of yourself in a three-way mirror.

How do you carry yourself? Are you a picture of grace in motion? Or, do you plunge forward in an awkward, head-on slouch?

One of the most difficult things most women have to learn is how to walk and sit gracefully and attractively. This holds true in everyday life as on the stage or screen. Posture is an integral part of glamour, and that means grace of movement in walking and sitting.

Some are born graceful and some have to acquire grace. If you watch a crowd of women sitting down in a streetcar, subway or bus you'll understand what we mean. A few will sit with their knees apart, others their toes turned in. Either pose or both would make a beautiful woman look ugly . . . Others will sprawl and slump sideways. Still others will slump forward—sitting on a part of the backbone with stomachs out and shoulders drooped forward

On the other side of the picture are those who sit gracefully and with seemingly little effort. Their legs are crossed at the ankles or at the knees.

When you're sitting in a chair, it is usually best to sit sidewise, with knees together and feet crossed at the ankle — one in front of the other.

Remember your posture when you walk, and swing your legs from the hip sockets. This will help to develop a free stride rather than a mincing or hobbling step. Since walking is one of the best exercises for all parts of the body, you are improving your health as well as your appearance every time you take a step.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
2 ♥	Double	Pass	3 ♣
3 ♥	4 ♦	4 ♥	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead: King of ♦.

Declarer brought home his contract today by virtue of a play that might be termed the "semi-strip."

Purists might carp at South's demand opening, but we shall not point the finger of scorn at him. West doubled to encourage his partner to show a reasonable spade suit, holding the diamond suit in reserve if East bid clubs. North's free bid of four hearts was tempered by his failure to take positive action on the previous round.

West opened the king of diamonds and continued the suit. Declarer ruffed and drew trumps in two rounds. A one trick set appeared inevitable since the bidding precluded even the vaguest chance that East held the ace of spades.

However, declarer set about to determine what holding would permit the contract to be fulfilled. He visualized West with the A-Q-J of spades alone and considered going over to the king of clubs, ruffing out the last diamond, then cashing the ace of clubs hoping to clear West's hand of that suit, then a low spade out of his hand on the supposition that West would have to win with the jack and be compelled to lead either a diamond or a spade.

Suddenly it dawned on him that if West had only two clubs, the contract could be brought home irrespective of the spots in spades under the ace. He therefore cashed the ace of clubs and went over to the king and returned the jack of diamonds, discarding the five of spades from his own hand. West was in and found it impossible to avoid the loss of a trick on his next lead. A diamond lead would provide declarer with a ruff and a discard while a spade lead would establish South's king.

Youths Who Fired Tracers Released

BALTIMORE (AP) — Federal officials have released two youths who they said admitted firing tracer bullets into the sky the night of Feb. 17.

A Capitol Airlines Viscount airliner was approaching Friendship Airport at the time of the shooting. The pilot said the tracer bullets passed the nose and wing of the plane.

FBI agents said Wednesday the two youths, an 18-year-old Elkridge gas station attendant and a 17-year-old companion, admitted firing into the sky near Dorsey, Anne Arundel County.

Leon H. A. Pierson, U.S. attorney, said the youths were released because there was no evidence they intended to fire at the plane.

GI COURT MARTIALED

BERLIN (UPI) — A U.S. Army courtmartial Thursday sentenced Pfc. George Lee, 20, of San Francisco, to dishonorable discharge and six months at hard labor after he pleaded guilty to charges of desertion. Lee, a Chinese-American, was charged with leaving his engineer unit in West Germany last May 10 to enter the East German Zone. He returned to the Western Zone last October.

PLANE DROPS ENGINE

LONDON (UPI)—Investigators from the U. S. Civil Aeronautics Board and the Boeing Airplane Co. arrived Thursday to inspect the 707 Jetliner that lost an engine in flight over France Wednesday. The two-ton engine was wrenched off when the Pan American plane, with only crewmen on a training flight aboard, was being put through maneuvers by pilot John Ryan, of Hicksville, N. Y. The engine plunged into a field near Chartres, France. It was retrieved and returned to Paris for examination.

Adventist Churches Plan Day Of Fasting

A day of fasting and prayer will be observed Saturday, by members of the Cumberland and Frostburg churches of the Seventh-Day Adventist denomination.

Otis L. Parish, pastor of the churches, says the local congregations are joining other Adventist churches of West Virginia in observing "Evangelism Day" as part of "Operation Thrust," a state-wide simultaneous evangelistic project sponsored by the West Virginia Conference of Adventists.

Members will contribute to a fund this coming Saturday to help support a major evangelistic campaign which will begin March 28.

The five-month project, which began in January with a revival series in the local churches, will reach its climax in May when baptisms will be held in every church. The summer program of the conference includes the annual Bible conference and camp meeting at Parkersburg, state headquarters of the denomination.

Statewide director of the project is Arthur J. Patzer, of Parkersburg, president of the West Virginia Conference of Adventists.

A "WARNING BELL"

LONDON (UPI)—Dr. Geoffrey Fisher, archbishop of Canterbury, considers outbreaks of anti-Semitism in West Germany a "warning bell" for the world. He said "there is not only a problem of anti-Semitism but of anti-Christianity to be dealt with." He spoke after the annual meeting of the Council of Christians and Jews in London heard a report about the formation of Nazi organizations in West Germany.

Television and Radio

Much More Than An Adapter

A. E. Hotchner is the official dramatizer—he doesn't like the word adapter—of the works of Ernest Hemingway for television, a post of imposing if somewhat frightening grandeur. A longtime buddy, drinking companion, and admirer of the Nobel Prize winner, Hotchner takes the job seriously but not so solemnly that it scares the hell out of him.

"He's going to trust me until our first disaster," said Hotchner, a red-headed freckle-faced, amiable imp who might very well have been the model for Howdy Doody. So far Hotchner has staved off disaster brilliantly through seven dramatizations of Hemingway tales — "The Battler," "The Nun," "The Radio," "Fifty Grand," "Nick Adams," "Capitol of the World," and "The Gambler." I didn't see 'em all but the ones I did were brilliant, notably "The World of Nick Adams" on "Seven Lively Arts," "Fifty Grand" on "Kraft," and "The Battler" on "Playwrights 56."

Hotchner has a profound understanding of the man and his work. I think he knows what Hemingway is aiming at and is not so awed by him that he can't get the work done. How, I asked him, did Hemingway feel about having his work changed? "Very lenient," said Hotchner. "He doesn't demand anything. He doesn't above all, feel the writer has to cherish every word.

"Hemingway doesn't even read the scripts. He waits until someone shows him a kinescope. Right now, he's in Ketchum, Idaho, in a log house in a town of some 800 finishing a novel. This show ("For Whom the Bell Tolls" in two parts on "Playhouse 90" now in rehearsal for presentation March 12 and 19) will be the first time he's ever seen one of his stories actually on television."

While Hemingway has liked all of his stories which Hotch has dramatized on TV, he has generally loathed what the movies have done to his work. " 'The Killers' is the only movie Hemingway liked. That was written for the screen by John Huston who understands Hemingway. You have to understand all of it—not just one story or one novel. It helps to know the man as much as you can. Huston, I'm sure, has read almost everything Hemingway has written."

Hotchner grinned: "Hemingway hated the movie version of 'The Sun Also Rises'. He said to me that any movie in which Errol Flynn emerges as the best actor is a disaster." He brooded a moment and then added: "I suppose what I'm trying to say is that when you're dramatizing Hemingway you don't write it the way Noel Coward would write it."

As a dramatizer, he many times feels called on to change the action or content or the time sequence of the original. The idea is a preserve the spirit. "One of my secret satisfactions is reading a review praising me for something Hemingway didn't write. In 'Fifty Grand' one reviewer said something to the effect that the description of the fighter talking to his wife before the fight is as great on the TV screen as it was on the printed page. Well, it wasn't on the printed page. I made it up."

Hotchner does originals, too. Last year on Playhouse 90, he wrote "The Last Clear Chance," and excellent courtroom drama starring Paul Muni and Luther Adler which was repeated during the summer. The legal aspects came easy because Hotchner is a lawyer who has abandoned the practice of law for the typewriter.

Right now he's working on another "Playhouse 90" script called "The Last Four Days of Mussolini." The documentary thing is real big this year and this is a logical successor to "The Plot to Kill Stalin" and "Seven Against the Wall," which was a documentary on the St. Valentine's Day massacre in Chicago.

"Doing a documentary type of thing is entirely different from doing anything else. You have to get rid of all your prejudices and create out of the facts, the fiction of drama. I like working with Fred Coe (producer of many of Playhouse 90's best shows). When Coe produces, the author has the same status as a playwright on Broadway. You're committed to the show from the beginning to the end. Not all shows are like that. U. S. Steel, for example, just buys your script and says goodbye to you."

Card of Thanks

We wish to thank the many relatives, friends and neighbors for their cards, floral tributes and acts of kindness expressed at the death of our husband and father, David E. Robinson. We especially wish to thank Rev. William Anderson for his comforting words and those who loaned cars for the funeral.
MRS. IRENE ROBINSON AND FAMILY.

We wish to take this means of thanking our friends and neighbors for the kindness shown at the death of our father and brother, Mr. Henry McKee. We kindly thank Rev. Burnette, the Eagles, those who sent floral tributes, donated the use of their cars for the funeral, those who sent sympathy cards and anyone else who in any manner assisted.
SONS, DAUGHTER, BROTHERS AND SISTERS.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear husband and father, Charles (Bert) Lowery, who passed away 6 years ago today, Feb. 27, 1953.
Sunshine passes, shadows fall,
Love's remembrance outlasts all,
And though the years be many or few,
They are filled with remembrance, dear, of you.
Sadly missed by Mrs. Hazel Lowery and Children.

58 BUICK
4-DR. WAGON

We have in stock this local 1-owner wagon that a former business man kept in tip-top condition. This wagon has been driven less than 14,000 miles and was used only as a family car. The equipment includes Flight-pitch Dynaflow automatic transmission, Power Steering, Power Brakes, Air Poise Suspension, Radio, Heater, Defroster, Signal Lights, Back-up lights, Side Mirrors, White Sidewall Tires and all of the small accessories. The finish looks like new and is of a light blue color. The interior is a 2-tone of black and white custom made leather that can be washed. This is Buick's Best Wagon called the "Caballero." You will have to see and drive this beauty to appreciate the wonderful buy it is at our low, low price of

Card of Thanks

We wish to thank the many relatives, friends and neighbors for their cards, floral tributes and acts of kindness expressed at the death of our husband and father, David E. Robinson. We especially wish to thank Rev. William Anderson for his comforting words and those who loaned cars for the funeral.
MRS. IRENE ROBINSON AND FAMILY.

We wish to take this means of thanking our friends and neighbors for the kindness shown at the death of our father and brother, Mr. Henry McKee. We kindly thank Rev. Burnette, the Eagles, those who sent floral tributes, donated the use of their cars for the funeral, those who sent sympathy cards and anyone else who in any manner assisted.
SONS, DAUGHTER, BROTHERS AND SISTERS.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear husband and father, Charles (Bert) Lowery, who passed away 6 years ago today, Feb. 27, 1953.
Sunshine passes, shadows fall,
Love's remembrance outlasts all.
And though the years be many or few,
They are filled with remembrance, dear, of you.
Sadly missed by Mrs. Hazel Lowery and Children.

CHRYSLER
58 BUICK 4-DR. WAGON

We have in stock this local 1-owner wagon that a former business man kept in tip-top condition. This wagon has been driven less than 14,000 miles and was used only as a family car. The equipment includes Flight-pitch Dynaflow automatic transmission, Power Steering, Power Brakes, Air Poise Suspension, Radio, Heater, Defroster, Signal Lights, Back-up lights, Side Mirrors, White Sidewall Tires and all of the small accessories. The finish looks like new and is of a light blue color. The interior is a 2-tone of black and white custom made leather that can be washed. This is Buick's Best Wagon called the "Caballero." You will have to see and drive this beauty to appreciate the wonderful buy it is at our low, low price of

Man May Learn Today If He Has Uranium Strike

ELKRIDGE, Md. (AP)—Frank Giampaoli, who is trying to find out whether he's struck uranium paydirt on his farm, took on an air of mystery Thursday.

"Some people are coming in tomorrow, but I can't tell you who they are," Giampaoli said.

"Are they government people?"

He wouldn't say. He said only that he expects them to determine finally whether the radioactive stuff on his farm is commercially valuable.

He indicated too, guards may be posted on his 117-acre farm off the busy Baltimore - Washington Blvd. after the arrival of the mysterious guests. The curious, and others, have been swarming over his place.

A sample of the grayish-green rock has been tested at the State Bureau of Mines. It was found definitely to be radioactive.

But spokesmen there said further tests are needed to determine the quality and size of the deposit.

Giampaoli said samples taken from 25 feet down were "prettier" than the stuff found nearer the surface. These may be checked by the Atomic Energy Commission.

Giampaoli is getting all sorts of offers.

He said he's turning down all offers to buy his place and he's holding off on mining offers pending a final check on the material.

What if the grayish-green rock turns out to be loaded with uranium and the Giampaolis become rich?

Mrs. Giampaoli, sitting in her 7-room bungalow, said they'd probably remain on the farm, 13 miles southwest of Baltimore. At any rate, they have no plans for travel or wild spending.

The hill where the ore was discovered was purchased from neighbors in 1939. Giampaoli bought it because he wanted to protect the view. Now 69, he's lived on the farm since he was 9.

Whittaker Chambers Studying Russian

WESTMINSTER, Md. (AP) — Whittaker Chambers, the ex-Communist who helped send Alger Hiss to prison, is studying Russian at a special course here.

The twice-weekly classes are taught by Mrs. Helena Kruger, a native of Russia and now interpreter for the Brethren Service Center at nearby New Windsor, Md.

The sessions were arranged by Dr. Joseph E. Bailer, head of the Western Maryland College Department of Education, and are held at the college.

Hiss, former State department adviser, was convicted nine years ago of lying when he denied passing official papers to a communist spy ring.

Chambers lives on a farm near Westminster.

Dance Tomorrow

Sponsor Fish Fry

MIDLAND — American Legion Post No. 169 and the Ladies Auxiliary, will hold a fish fry at the post home, Route 55, from 4 to 8 p.m. each Friday, beginning today.

State Guard Goes Modern March 1

It's being streamlined and its fire power is being beefed up to bring the Army section of the Guard up-to-date.

Maj. Gen. Milton A. Reckord, state adjutant general, announced the plans Thursday.

For Maryland there will be new units of missiles, tanks and airplanes—all part of a nationwide program to modernize the guard.

The reorganization marks the end of the infantry regiment as the principal Army fighting organization.

For Maryland this means the end of the 115th and 175th Infantry Regiments. They will become so-called non-tactical combat arms regiments.

Units of the new regiments will be known as battle groups. They'll have seven companies each.

The 1st and 2nd Battle Groups of the new 115th will have headquarters at Towson and Salisbury, respectively. Their units will be at Catonsville, Frederick, Kensington, Silver Spring, Hyattsville and Eastern Shore towns where present units are located.

The 115th's 1st Medium Tank Battalion—first of its kind for Maryland—will have headquarters and a tank company at Cumberland. Hagerstown will have two other companies, Frostburg and Oakland, one each.

Maryland will get a third artillery battalion with each battalion having two firing batteries, including 155 and 105 howitzers. Pikesville will continue as artillery headquarters with batteries at Bel Air, Greenbelt and Westminster.

Oakland will lose its company of the 121st Engineers but by conversion there will be companies at Laurel and Glen Burnie with headquarters remaining in Ellicott City.

Some of the other changes:

A new combat aviation unit will have some 36 liaison pilots for light planes. The company will be based in Maryland and Virginia.

PSC Gets Hearing On Telephone Transfer Proposal

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP)—A Public Service Commission hearing has been set for March 25 on an application seeking approval of the transfer of certain telephone properties in an area near Romney.

General Telephone Co. of the Southeast, which operates the Romney exchange, wants to purchase properties of the Augusta and Rio Telephone Co., located for the most part in Hampshire County near Romney.

The proposed purchase price is about $8,500. General has asked for authority to put into effect for Augusta and Rio customers the same rates it charges those on its Romney exchange.

Those rates would include a monthly charge of $6.50 for a business firm and $3.90 for a private residential line.

Honors Mother On Birthday

MIDLAND — Mrs. May Kitzmiller, Railroad Street, was tendered with a surprise birthday party Monday evening by her son, Calvin Kitzmiller, recently discharged from the U.S. Army.

A pink and white cake centered the table. Attending were Miss Rosaline McKenzie, Miss Ruth Ann Robertson, both of Barton, Thomas Gray, Joseph Rogish, Melvin Filer, Fred Warnick, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Beeman and Zella Kitzmiller.

OES To Meet

LONACONING—Martha Washington Chapter No. 10, Order of Eastern Star, will meet today at 8 p.m. Mrs. Isabell Moses, worthy matron, and David Williams, worthy patron, will be presiding.

Paris Unveils Natural Line Spring Styles

By NADEANE WALKER

PARIS (AP)—Paris dressmakers finally presented pictures of their new styles to the public Wednesday with a hopeful, "Here it is, and how do you like it?"

By "it" they mean the natural line that you read about nearly a month ago. Photographs were not permitted until now.

Everybody, from Dior to Cardin, Balmain and Heim, fell in line.

For their pains, they may be criticized for lack of originality. But they are reported to have had a successful season with the buyers.

Hemlines are just comfortably below the knee — the couple of inches that insure kneecap coverage even sitting down. Since not many people went in for last season's knee-high hems, this probably means that skirts are just right as they are, without letting down or taking up.

The waist-in-its-place is the biggest news of the season, with a few designers keeping just a hint of the lifted Empire waistline of last year.

There are so many colors in the Paris collections that it's hard to pick the favorites. But greens surprised everybody by their unusual popularity and beige is probably the basic winner.

Retired Frederick Newsman Succumbs

FREDERICK (AP)— Louis E. Twentey, associated with the Frederick News and Post for 29 years, died Thursday after an extended illness. He was 52.

He joined the newspaper firm in 1927 as a clerk and became, in turn, circulation manager, office manager and business manager.

He was forced to retire in 1956 due to illness.

Survivors include his widow, Mrs. Vada Ruth Warrenfeltz Twentey, and two sons, Robert Louis and Edward, at home.

Funeral services will be held Monday.

Man May Learn Today If He Has Uranium Strike

ELKRIDGE, Md. (AP)—Frank Giampaoli, who is trying to find out whether he's struck uranium paydirt on his farm, took on an air of mystery Thursday.

"Some people are coming in tomorrow, but I can't tell you who they are," Giampaoli said.

"Are they government people?"

He wouldn't say. He said only that he expects them to determine finally whether the radioactive stuff on his farm is commercially valuable.

He indicated too, guards may be posted on his 117-acre farm off the busy Baltimore - Washington Blvd. after the arrival of the mysterious guests. The curious, and others, have been swarming over his place.

A sample of the grayish-green rock has been tested at the State Bureau of Mines. It was found definitely to be radioactive.

But spokesmen there said further tests are needed to determine the quality and size of the deposit.

Giampaoli said samples taken from 25 feet down were "prettier" than the stuff found nearer the surface. These may be checked by the Atomic Energy Commission.

Giampaoli is getting all sorts of offers.

He said he's turning down all offers to buy his place and he's holding off on mining offers pending a final check on the material.

What if the grayish-green rock turns out to be loaded with uranium and the Giampaolis become rich?

Mrs. Giampaoli, sitting in her 7-room bungalow, said they'd probably remain on the farm, 13 miles southwest of Baltimore. At any rate, they have no plans for travel or wild spending.

The hill where the ore was discovered was purchased from neighbors in 1939. Giampaoli bought it because he wanted to protect the view. Now 69, he's lived on the farm since he was 9.

Whittaker Chambers Studying Russian

WESTMINSTER, Md. (AP) — Whittaker Chambers, the ex-Communist who helped send Alger Hiss to prison, is studying Russian at a special course here.

Some other 80 nearby residents are enrolled in the free course, including Chambers' son, John.

The twice-weekly classes are taught by Mrs. Helena Kruger, a native of Russia and now interpreter for the Brethren Service Center at nearby New Windsor, Md.

The sessions were arranged by Dr. Joseph E. Bailer, head of the Western Maryland College Department of Education, and are held at the college.

Hiss, former State department adviser, was convicted nine years ago of lying when he denied passing official papers to a communist spy ring.

State Guard Goes Modern March 1

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Maryland National Guard goes modern March 1.

It's being streamlined and its fire power is being beefed up to bring the Army section of the Guard up-to-date.

Maj. Gen. Milton A. Reckord, state adjutant general, announced the plans Thursday.

For Maryland there will be new units of missiles, tanks and airplanes—all part of a nationwide program to modernize the guard.

It's the first major overhaul of the 29th Division since early in World War II. Division units are in Maryland and Virginia.

The reorganization marks the end of the infantry regiment as the principal Army fighting organization.

For Maryland this means the end of the 115th and 175th Infantry Regiments. They will become so-called non-tactical combat arms regiments.

Units of the new regiments will be known as battle groups. They'll have seven companies each.

The 1st Battle Group of the new 175th will have headquarters in Baltimore.

The 1st and 2nd Battle Groups of the new 115th will have headquarters at Towson and Salisbury, respectively. Their units will be at Catonsville, Frederick, Kensington, Silver Spring, Hyattsville and Eastern Shore towns where present units are located.

The 115th's 1st Medium Tank Battalion—first of its kind for ters and a tank company at Cum- Maryland — will have headquarters and a tank company at Cumberland. Hagerstown will have two other companies, Frostburg and Oakland, one each.

Maryland will get a third artillery battalion with each battalion having two firing batteries, including 155 and 105 howitzers. Pikesville will continue as artillery headquarters with batteries at Bel Air, Greenbelt and Westminster.

Oakland will lose its company of the 121st Engineers but by conversion there will be companies at Laurel and Glen Burnie with headquarters remaining in Ellicott City.

Some of the other changes:

Maryland will get an additional Nike missile battalion, the 686th, for the Washington area.

A new combat aviation unit will have some 36 liaison pilots for light planes. The company will be based in Maryland and Virginia.

PSC Gets Hearing On Telephone Transfer Proposal

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP)—A Public Service Commission hearing has been set for March 25 on an application seeking approval of the transfer of certain telephone properties in an area near Romney.

General Telephone Co. of the Southeast, which operates the Romney exchange, wants to purchase properties of the Augusta and Rio Telephone Co., located for the most part in Hampshire County near Romney.

The proposed purchase price is about $8,500. General has asked for authority to put into effect for Augusta and Rio customers the same rates it charges those on its Romney exchange.

Those rates would include a monthly charge of $6.50 for a business firm and $3.90 for a private residential line.

Paris Unveils Natural Line Spring Styles

By NADEANE WALKER

PARIS (AP)—Paris dressmakers finally presented pictures of their new styles to the public Wednesday with a hopeful, "Here it is, and how do you like it?"

By "it" they mean the natural line that you read about nearly a month ago. Photographs were not permitted until now.

Seldom has Paris made such a concerted attempt to please the public with a flattering, wearable silhouette.

Everybody, from Dior to Cardin, Balmain and Heim, fell in line.

For their pains, they may be criticized for lack of originality. But they are reported to have had a successful season with the buyers.

Hemlines are just comfortably below the knee — the couple of inches that insure kneecap coverage even sitting down. Since not many people went in for last season's knee-high hems, this probably means that skirts are just right as they are, without letting down or taking up.

A trademark of the 1959 spring styles is the wide Bertha collar, in variations from a flat encircling band all the way to a deep flounce.

The waist-in-its-place is the biggest news of the season, with a few designers keeping just a hint of the lifted Empire waistline of last year.

There are so many colors in the Paris collections that it's hard to pick the favorites. But greens surprised everybody by their unusual popularity and beige is probably the basic winner.

Retired Frederick Newsman Succumbs

FREDERICK (AP)— Louis E. Twentey, associated with the Frederick News and Post for 29 years, died Thursday after an extended illness. He was 52.

He joined the newspaper firm in 1927 as a clerk and became, in turn, circulation manager, office manager and business manager.

He was forced to retire in 1956 due to illness.

Survivors include his widow, Mrs. Vada Ruth Warrenfeltz Twentey, and two sons, Robert Louis and Edward, at home.

Funeral services will be held Monday.

Electronics Issues Again Star In Irregular Market

NEW YORK (UPI) — Electronics issues, starring for the second day in a row, paced the stock market through an irregular session which climaxed in a last-minute upsurge that put reporting tickers behind.

Gains among the electronics ranged to 11½ points in high-priced International Business Machines at 529½. Zenith added another 4 points to the 14 scored on Wednesday. Litton gained 4⅜. Motorola 3. Texas Instruments, Beckman Instruments, Raytheon, Comptometer Corp., General Telephone, Radio Corp., American Telephone a point to more than 2 points.

General Tire soared 4⅞ points, reflecting a run-up of nearly 11 points in its majority owned subsidiary, Aerojet-General on the American exchange. Buy orders in Aerojet, which reported sharply higher earnings, were so heavy trading in the stock had to be suspended for a time early in the session.

The small-car makers, American Motors and Studebaker, soft recently in anticipation of stiff competition to come from the "Big Three" made good recovery progress, reflecting in part a report by Ward's Automotive showing that the two are taking some of the steam out of the foreign car sales splurge in this country. American ran up 2½ on the day's heaviest turnover. Studebaker gained a point, in third spot on the actives. Jersey Standard made up the top three. It was unchanged on the day.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. each day the code letters are different.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI)—Grains closed mostly steady to firm Thursday on the Chicago Board of Trade.

Wheat closed up ⅝ to 1⅞ cents; corn (old) up ⅜ cent; (new) up ½ to ⅝ cent; oats up ⅛ to off ⅜ cent; rye unchanged to up ⅞ cent; soybeans unchanged to up ¾ cent.

Commission houses reversed themselves before the close and sold the May wheat contract.

In corn, contracts remained firm throughout the day. Trade was active. In the March, there was much liquidation, but offerings found ready buyers. In export business, Spain took 3,600,000 bushels.

Cash oats did an active business. March was in demand, May was sold. Nearby futures were steady, but far off were firm. Cereal houses were the main buyers.

Most traders expect only moderate deliveries of March contracts when notices are posted Friday.

Electronics Issues Again Star In Irregular Market

NEW YORK (UPI) — Electronics issues, starring for the second day in a row, paced the stock market through an irregular session which climaxed in a last-minute upsurge that put reporting tickers behind.

Gains among the electronics ranged to 11½ points in high-priced International Business Machines at 529½. Zenith added another 4 points to the 14 scored on Wednesday. Litton gained 4⅞, Motorola 3; Texas Instruments, Beckman Instruments, Raytheon, Comptometer Corp., General Telephone, Radio Corp., American Telephone a point to more than 2 points.

General Tire soared 4⅞ points, reflecting a run-up of nearly 11 points in its majority owned subsidiary, Aerojet-General on the American exchange. Buy orders in Aerojet, which reported sharply higher earnings, were so heavy trading in the stock had to be suspended for a time early in the session.

The small-car makers, American Motors and Studebaker, soft recently in anticipation of stiff competition to come from the "Big Three" made good recovery progress, reflecting in part a report by Ward's Automotive showing that the two are taking some of the steam out of the foreign car sales splurge in this country. American ran up 2½ on the day's heaviest turnover. Studebaker gained a point, in third spot on the actives. Jersey Standard made up the top three. It was unchanged on the day.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI)—Grains closed mostly steady to firm Thursday on the Chicago Board of Trade.

Wheat closed up ⅝ to 1⅛ cents; corn (old) up ¾ cent; (new) up 1⅛ to 1⅜ cent; oats up ⅛ to off ⅜ cent; rye unchanged to up ⅛ cent; soybeans unchanged to up ⅜ cent.

Commission houses reversed themselves before the close and sold the May wheat contract.

In corn, contracts remained firm throughout the day. Trade was active. In the March, there was much liquidation, but offerings found ready buyers. In export business, Spain took 3,600,000 bushels.

Cash oats did an active business. March was in demand, May was sold. Nearby futures were steady, but far off were firm. Cereal houses were the main buyers.

Most traders expect only moderate deliveries of March contracts when notices are posted Friday.

Lonaconing Man Critically Hurt In Mine Accident

Thomas Ford, 50, Is Hospitalized

A Lonaconing mine foreman was critically injured yesterday afternoon in a coal mine accident at Aaron's Run in Garrett County about three miles west of Westernport.

Thomas Ford, about 50, who recently moved to Lonaconing, was on the critical list at Potomac Valley Hospital in Keyser late last night. Attaches said he sustained possible head injuries.

The accident occurred about 3 p. m. approximately 1,000 feet inside the W. W. Coal Mine, operated by William Brashear of Westernport.

Mr. Brashear said last night that Mr. Ford, who has been employed at the mine for about a year, was operating a four-ton haulage motor. Full details of the accident were not available last night.

About six other miners were working inside the mine at the time of the accident and brought Mr. Ford to the mouth of the mine. He was taken to the hospital in an ambulance of Boal's Funeral Home in Westernport.

The accident occurred when the motor apparently went out of control while Mr. Ford was operating it. He was reported to have been hauling one coal car at the time of the accident.

Mr. Brashear operates a coal yard southeast of Westernport along State Route 135 between that community and McCoole.

See Is Named To Nominations Unit Of Senate

State Senator Charles M. See has been appointed to the Senate Committee on Executive Nominations.

The Allegany County Republican was named to the post after Senator Harry T. Phoebus (R-Somerset) resigned due to his duties as Senate Minority Leader.

The Senator explained that when the Governor's appointments come down to the Assembly they are turned over to the committee.

The committee, he said, acts on the names in executive session and then gives out its findings. He said that if the committee rejects an appointment, the governor must send down another name.

Allegany County appointments to go before the committee include appointees for magistrates, election board members and substitutes and the liquor board.

The Senator said the committee has set up meetings for March 6 and 7 to act on the appointments.

Sen. See is the only Republican on the 11-member committee. He served on the unit from 1956 to 1958 but lost his seat as the 1959 Assembly opened, as only one GOP place was allowed and it went to Sen. Phoebus as minority leader.

When asked to confirm a report that will object to one of the Allegany County nominations made by Governor J. Millard Tawes, he said, "No comment."

W.Va. Legislators Favor State Forest

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The Legislature went on record Thursday asking the State Conservation Commission to consider establishment of a state forest or recreational area in Marion County.

The resolution, sponsored by Sens. O. G. Hedrick (D - Marion) and A. L. Reed (R-Preston), was adopted by the House following Senate approval Feb. 13.

Undergoes Surgery

Top Shriner Will Attend Meeting Here

Potentate's Ball Planned March 6

George E. Stringfellow, imperial potentate of the Shrine in North America, will pay his official visit to Ali Ghan Temple, A. A. O. N. M. S., here next week.

Mr. Stringfellow will be the guest of honor at the annual Potentate's Ball which will be held next Thursday, March 5, at Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club.

Also to be honored at the annual Potentate's Ball will be A. Wayne Reed, Frostburg, a past potentate of Ali Ghan Temple, who is now serving as the most worshipful grand master of Masons in Maryland.

Austin W. Howard, Hagerstown, who was recently elected potentate of Ali Ghan Temple, will preside and he and his Divan will also be honored at the festivities.

Imperial Potentate Stringfellow resides at 75 Prospect Street, East Orange, N. J., and was elected to the top Shrine post last July.

He is vice president in charge of trade relations for the Thomas A. Edison Industries, with which he has been affiliated for 40 years.

He is an active member of Crescent Temple in Trenton, N. J.

Mr. Stringfellow holds honorary degrees from Indiana Technical College, Upsala College, East Orange; South Jersey Law School and Ithaca College.

He is an active member of the New York City Kiwanis Club, was one of the founders of the American Cancer Society and is a member of the board of the American Mining Congress.

As imperial potentate, most of his time will be devoted to directing the work of the Shriners Hospitals for Crippled Children.

St. Luke's Gets Building Permit

St. Luke's Lutheran Church yesterday obtained a city building permit for the new church it is building in Bopp's Addition on Frederick Street.

The church will be erected by the George F. Hazelwood Company at a cost of $415,000, according to the permit.

Annual Library Art Show Scheduled April 13-19

The annual Cumberland Art Show will be held during the week of April 13-19 at the Cumberland Free Public Library.

Miss Mary G. Walsh, librarian, said the show has been held annually for about 15 years.

The show is being sponsored by the Cumberland Branch of the American Association of University Women.

Entry blanks, according to Mrs. Rudolph Steinberger, arts chairman, will be available at the local library after March 1.

She pointed out that entries will be accepted at the library up until the entry deadline, which will be Wednesday, April 8 a. 9 p.m.

There will be four classes of art. They include oils, watercolor, black and white media and three-dimensional.

All work must be original, according to Mrs. Steinberger, who said additional information may be obtained by calling her at PA 2-6179.

Children To Donate $5 Check

Pupils Benefit Dystrophy Drive

Pupils in the second and third grades of Gephart Elementary School would rather be helping less fortunate persons than have a party.

Mrs. Mary Marple, their teacher, said last night that so far this year, the second and third grade rooms have had the largest number of parents in attendance at PTA meetings which are held every other month.

The attendance award is a $5 check. This afternoon Mrs. Marple and a delegation of pupils will go to Central Fire Station to present the check to Fire Chief Virgil A. Parker, chairman of the Allegany-Garrett County Chapter of the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

They plan to give the other check to children in a Kentucky community, where their fathers have been laid off work in coal mines.

In past years the pupils of the two grades have given checks to the Red Cross and Allegany County League for Crippled Children.

Throughout the year, the children do their part in spreading cheer. At Christmas time they sing carols at the County Home and Infirmary. An Easter project is building an egg tree.

Last year's tree was presented to patients at the Infirmary and this year they plan to give one to the patients at the County Home.

Mrs. Marple said that various projects are an outgrowth of "giving instead of receiving" typical of the Christmas season. They could have parties with the money but their teacher pointed out that very few are in favor of a party, but would rather help someone else. Mrs. Marple teaches the second grade and part of the third grade.

No Date Set For Trial In Cuddy Slaying

Although criminal trials are nearing an end for this term of court in Hagerstown, no date has yet been set for the trial of James T. Haney, 68-year-old railroad engineer, who was indicted for murder in the shooting of another engineer last November.

Officials of the Washington County Circuit Court said last night that the petit jury has been excused for this week and will not report back until Monday. Haney is scheduled to be tried for the slaying of James R. Cuddy Jr., 41-year-old Cumberland father of four children.

Cuddy's father, also an engineer with the Western Maryland Railway, was a witness to the shooting which occurred near the railroad yards in Hagerstown.

Route 40 Measure Gets Approval

An Associated Press report from Annapolis last night said that the State Senate gave tentative approval of a measure to authorize the State Roads Commission to acquire land along U. S. Route 40 in Western Maryland for development of recreation areas.

The bill was introduced by Delegate William Walsh, Allegany County Democrat, and covered the area from Hancock west through Allegany and Garrett counties to the Pennsylvania line.

Celanese Pact Negotiations To Open Today

Local 1874 Officers Will Be Installed

Local 1874, Textile Workers Union, AFL-CIO, will open active contract negotiations with the Amcelle plant of the Celanese Corporation of America today.

John G. Thomas, president of the local, said the meeting will open at 10 a.m. at the Amcelle plant.

Ralph Cline, Washington, TWUA representative, will lead the Local 1874 contract negotiators.

Today's meeting will be the first active negotiating session in the contract talks. Some time ago, the union presented its contract package to the company.

The present contract covering some 2,000 hourly paid workers at the Amcelle plant is due to expire on April 8.

The Local 1874 delegation will include Mr. Thomas, other top officers and the Contract Negotiating committee which represents all departments at the plant.

Newly-elected officers of Local 1874 will be installed at a ceremony today at 8 p.m. in the union hall.

They include Mr. Thomas, who will be beginning his third term; James Stewart, vice president; Charles F. Davis, secretary-treasurer, and Francis Harvey, warden.

Executive Board, Robert Blair, Stanley Morgan, James Filsinger, Walter Mahaney, Ira McBride and Floyd Grady.

Truck Driver Badly Injured In Collision

Leslie Higgs Jr., about 32, Cresaptown, was seriously injured in a two-truck accident yesterday afternoon about 25 miles west of Somerset, Pa., on Route 31.

Mr. Higgs, a driver for the Tri-State Towel Company, Cumberland, was making deliveries in the Pennsylvania area when his panel truck collided with the rear of a heavily loaded coal truck.

The force of the impact sheared off the top of the panel truck cab and the driver sustained a broken arm and hand, multiple cuts and abrasions of the face and head and possible internal injuries.

He was admitted to Mt. Pleasant Hospital in Mt. Pleasant, Pa., where he was reported suffering from shock and in serious condition.

The accident occurred about 2 p. m. at Laurelville near Mt. Pleasant, Tri-State Company officials said last night. The panel truck was demolished by the collision, they said.

Meet Weather Expert

Paul A. Humphrey, of the United States Weather Bureau, right, chats with Max Heming, chairman, and William Kight, chairman-elect, of the Western Maryland section of the American Chemical Society, at a meeting last night in Central YMCA. Mr. Humphrey reported on the progress and results in meteorology during the United States Geophysical Year observance.

City Fire Aid Bill Is Tabled By Delegation

Court Stenographer Bill Is Introduced

The Allegany County Delegation on Wednesday decided it would not introduce a bill requiring the county to contribute toward the support of the Cumberland Fire Department.

Del. Fred B. Driscoll, chairman of the Allegany County Delegation, announced the action and said the bill had been tabled.

He said he had advised the attorney for the Board of Allegany County Commissioners and Mayor J. Edwin Keech of the action by phone, adding that confirmation would be made by letter.

The bill was sent down by the City of Cumberland, which asked that the county contribute to the paid Cumberland Fire Department a sum equal to support provided for the various volunteer fire companies of the county.

The exact amount of the contribution would have been $22,813.40, including the $838.40 provided for the Oldtown Volunteer Fire Company in a bill enacted Wednesday night.

It was reported that most members of the delegation felt the plan had not been studied enough.

The Allegany and Garrett county delegations yesterday introduced a bill in the House of Delegates to permit the Circuit Court to establish a schedule of fees for the court stenographer, according to Del. Driscoll.

Community Concerts Group Plans Meet

The Board of Directors of the Tri-State Community Concerts Association will meet at the Clarysville Inn tomorrow at 2 p.m., according to Peter Lukas, president of the group.

Purpose of this meeting is to map plans for the membership campaign set for April 26 to May 2.

Confirmation has been received on the advanced booking of Alec Templeton, renowned pianist, and the Manhattan Concert Orchestra.

In addition to these attractions at least one additional concert by an outstanding performer or organization will be offered to members.

Two Damage Suits Seek $35,000

Two damage suits totaling $35,000 have been filed in Allegany County Circuit Court against a Berkeley Springs, W. Va. resident who was involved in a two-car collision here on December 31, 1957.

Mrs. Helen V. Isner of RFD 4, Willowbrook Road, who was injured in the accident, is suing Jack Waugh for $25,000.

Her husband, Edgar A. Isner, is suing Waugh for $10,000 for medical and hospital expenses as well as the loss of the services of his wife.

The accident occurred at the intersection of U.S. Route 40 and Willowbrook Road as Mr. and Mrs. Isner were traveling along Willowbrook Road.

Attorney Earl Manges is representing the plaintiffs.

Real Estate Group Installs

Officers of the Cumberland Real Estate Board were installed at a dinner meeting last night at Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club.

Taking over the duties of the local real estate group are Howard M. Spiker, president; J. Henry Holzshu, vice president; Bert J. Graham, secretary, and David P. Goodfellow, treasurer.

John W. Fincham, president of the Maryland Real Estate Association, was the principal speaker for the occasion. The Riverdale realtor spoke on the problems and progress of real estate in Maryland.

The state president also said he would make arrangements to have the state convention of the Maryland association held in Cumberland some time in October. The state group met here last about three years ago.

Bitten By Dog

Senate Begins Act On Measure

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—A bill that would, in effect, force State Police Superintendent Hazen H. Fair out of office was advanced to a Senate vote on passage Friday after a partisan fight over amendments Thursday.

The bill, introduced by Senate President Ralph J. Bean (D-Hardy), would:

—Strip the superintendent of his power to promote, demote, discharge or transfer any department member without first getting approval of a board of officers.

—Provide that the superintendent must have 10 years of experience in law enforcement work to qualify for office.

Fair told a reporter he probably would be credited only with four years' experience, during a term as Marshall County sheriff starting in 1941, although he also had been a special policeman at his home town of Cameron.

Would Lower Salary

Even if he is not disqualified under the experience requirement, Fair said the bill, by requiring him to give up certain business holdings, would force his resignation.

Before moving the measure up to passage stage Friday, the Senate beat down amendments offered by Republican Floor Leader John E. Carrigan (R-Marshall) and adopted one by Majority Leader Clarence E. Martin (D-Berkeley) to reduce the superintendent's salary from $8,000 a year to $7,000.

Martin's amendment was adopted and the others defeated by voice vote, with members of the two parties generally supporting their floor leaders. The Democrats hold a 23-9 majority.

Carrigan first was defeated on an amendment which would have allowed the superintendent to make transfers without consulting the board of officers.

He charged the section, if not changed, "will wreck the department" and said there is "no use having a superintendent" if he is without power to make even routine changes.

Issues Challenge

"This body saw fit to confirm the appointment of the superintendent and if it thinks he hasn't done a good job, appropriate action should be taken to remove him," Carrigan said.

Martin told the Senate that the department is already "well on its way to destruction" and that the purpose of the bill is to "remodel" it.

Carrigan also was defeated on an amendment to reduce the experience requirement from 10 years to five and a proposal — offered in jest — to make the bill take effect only after Jan. 15, 1961, when the governor elected in 1960 will take office.

Sen. Joseph Handlan (R-Wood) asked that Carrigan and Martin's remarks be printed in the Senate Journal. When Martin objected Handlan moved that only Carrigan's remarks be printed, but was defeated by another party-line vote.

Health Dept. To Ask State Financial Aid

Indigent Care At Hospitals Costly

With general hospitals in Maryland which participate in the state program for hospitalization and indigent care of the poor losing more than $2,500,000 last year, the State Health Department has decided to ask Gov. Tawes to appropriate $1,440,000 in his supplemental budget this year.

This move is planned in order that each hospital in the state may be compensated at the rate of 80 per cent of its cost in providing care to indigent inpatients in the next fiscal year.

35 Grant Care

The Hospital Council, Inc., reports that 35 hospitals voluntarily grant indigent care to the sick poor. They provided 255,067 days of care to qualified patients during the 1957-58 fiscal year at a total cost of $6,701,482.

However, the report states, the hospitals received only $3,131,211 from the state for this service.

The deficit in the state program at Memorial Hospital in Cumberland was $66,712 and at Sacred Heart Hospital here it was $30,704. At Garrett County Memorial Hospital in Oakland the deficit was reported at $20,435.

The ceiling on state payments to hospitals was $13 per day while the per diem costs of the various hospitals ranged from $16.47 to $36.60.

The council report declares that local governments will be asked to assume the responsibility for 20 per cent of the hospital costs. This is in keeping with State Insurance Commissioner Charles S. Jackson's decision last year denying a request by Blue Cross to pay hospitals in excess of cost to help meet the indigent patient needs. He directed the hospitals seek full reimbursement from state and local governments.

Garrett Figures

A breakdown of the state aid for inpatient care shows Garrett County Memorial Hospital had 2,084 approved days care at a per diem cost of $21.18. This overall cost of $44,159 was supplemented by the state for $23,704 leaving a deficit of $20,435.

Memorial Hospital in Cumberland had 7,996 days care costing $167,356 at the rate of $20.93 per day. The state returned $100,644 leaving a deficit of $66,712.

Sacred Heart Hospital gave 5,954 days care at the rate of $17.78 per day. The $105,862 cost was supplemented by the state by $75,158 leaving a deficit of $30,704.

Methodists Give To Industries

Approximately 700 bags were filled with these items and given to Goodwill Industries last night at the Methodist Youth Fellowship rally in Cresaptown.

This is the fourth year the Methodist youth have participated in the Christian citizenship project. The materials donated to the industries help in providing job opportunities to handicapped and disabled men and women presently employed by the Goodwill Industries in sheltered workshops.

Goodwill maintains its plant and offices in Hagerstown along with retail budget stores located at 107 Virginia Avenue here, and at Martinsburg, W. Va., Hancock, Waynesboro, Pa., and at Hagerstown.

Handicapped employes of Goodwill recondition merchandise used in the retail stores.

Parkway Committee To Meet Rep. Foley

The C & O Canal Parkway committee of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce will meet here Saturday at 4 p. m. with Rep. John R. Foley.

U. S. Senator J. Glenn Beall and Rep. Foley have introduced bills in the Senate and House calling for the establishment of the historic park program.

Former Chief Judge George Henderson is chairman of the C Of C committee.

Conservation Workshop Scheduled Next Week

Allegany County will be represented at the Soil Conservation District Workshop scheduled March 4 and 5 in the auditorium of the Student Union building at the University of Maryland in College Park.

Planning to attend from the county are Martin M. Gordon, work unit conservationist of the SCS office here, and Charles S. Harvey, treasurer of the Allegany District Soil Supervisors.

The workshop will open with registration at 1:30 a.m. March 4. The purpose and objectives of the workshop, explanation of Soil Conservation District Laws and the duties and sponsibilities of Soil Conservation District Supervisors will be discussed at the opening session.

In the afternoon the role of assisting agencies will be discussed. These include the State Department of Forests and Parks, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Program, the Soil Conservation Service State Department of Game and Fish and the Extension Service.

A highlight of the afternoon will be a tour of the Agronomy Department including the soil testing laboratory, seed laboratory and soils department.

A summary of the workshop will bring the sessions to a close.

Lonaconing Man Critically Hurt In Mine Accident

Thomas Ford, 50, Is Hospitalized

A Lonaconing mine foreman was critically injured yesterday afternoon in a coal mine accident at Aaron's Run in Garrett County about three miles west of Westernport.

Thomas Ford, about 50, who recently moved to Lonaconing, was on the critical list at Potomac Valley Hospital in Keyser late last night. Attaches said he sustained possible head injuries.

The accident occurred about 3 p. m. approximately 1,000 feet inside the W. W. Coal Mine, operated by William Brashear of Westernport.

Mr. Brashear said last night that Mr. Ford, who has been employed at the mine for about a year, was operating a four-ton haulage motor. Full details of the accident were not available last night.

About six other miners were working inside the mine at the time of the accident and brought Mr. Ford to the mouth of the mine. He was taken to the hospital in an ambulance of Boal's Funeral Home in Westernport.

The accident occurred when the motor apparently went out of control while Mr. Ford was operating it. He was reported to have been hauling one coal car at the time of the accident.

The victim, who recently moved to Lonaconing, resides on Railroad Street.

Mr. Brashear operates a coal yard southeast of Westernport along State Route 135 between that community and McCoole.

See Is Named To Nominations Unit Of Senate

State Senator Charles M. See has been appointed to the Senate Committee on Executive Nominations.

The committee approves or disapproves state-wide appointments sent down by the Governor.

The Allegany County Republican was named to the post after Senator Harry T. Phoebus (R-Somerset) resigned due to his duties as Senate Minority Leader.

The Senator explained that when the Governor's appointments come down to the Assembly they are turned over to the committee.

The committee, he said, acts on the names in executive session and then gives out its findings. He said that if the committee rejects an appointment, the governor must send down another name.

Allegany County appointments to go before the committee include appointees for magistrates, election board members and substitutes and the liquor board.

The Senator said the committee has set up meetings for March 6 and 7 to act on the appointments.

Sen. See is the only Republican on the 11-member committee. He served on the unit from 1956 to 1958 but lost his seat as the 1959 Assembly opened, as only one GOP place was allowed and it went to Sen. Phoebus as minority leader.

When asked to confirm a report that will object to one of the Allegany County nominations made by Governor J. Millard Tawes, he said, "No comment."

W.Va. Legislators Favor State Forest

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The Legislature went on record Thursday asking the State Conservation Commission to consider establishment of a state forest or recreational area in Marion County.

The resolution, sponsored by Sens. O. G. Hedrick (D - Marion) and A. L. Reed (R-Preston), was adopted by the House following Senate approval Feb. 13.

Two Damage Suits Seek $35,000

Two damage suits totaling $35,000 have been filed in Allegany County Circuit Court against a Berkeley Springs, W. Va. resident who was involved in a two-car collision here on December 31, 1957.

Mrs. Helen V. Isner of RFD 4, Willowbrook Road, who was injured in the accident, is suing Jack Waugh for $25,000.

Her husband, Edgar A. Isner, is suing Waugh for $10,000 for medical and hospital expenses as well as the loss of the services of his wife.

The accident occurred at the intersection of U.S. Route 40 and Willowbrook Road as Mr. and Mrs. Isner were traveling along Willowbrook Road.

The defendant was driving a pickup truck south on Baltimore Pike in the direction of Central Avenue when the two vehicles collided at the intersection.

Attorney Earl Manges is representing the plaintiffs.

Real Estate Group Installs

Officers of the Cumberland Real Estate Board were installed at a dinner meeting last night at Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club.

Taking over the duties of the local real estate group are Howard M. Spiker, president; J. Henry Holzshu, vice president; Bert J. Graham, secretary, and David P. Goodfellow, treasurer.

John W. Fincham, president of the Maryland Real Estate Association, was the principal speaker for the occasion. The Riverdale realtor spoke on the problems and progress of real estate in Maryland.

The state president also said he would make arrangements to have the state convention of the Maryland association held in Cumberland some time in October. The state group met here last about three years ago.

Bitten By Dog

Senate Begins Act On Measure

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—A bill that would, in effect, force State Police Superintendent Hazen H. Fair out of office was advanced to a Senate vote on passage Friday after a partisan fight over amendments Thursday.

The bill, introduced by Senate President Ralph J. Bean (D-Hardy), would:

—Strip the superintendent of his power to promote, demote, discharge or transfer any department member without first getting approval of a board of officers.

—Provide that the superintendent must have 10 years of experience in law enforcement work to qualify for office.

Fair told a reporter he probably would be credited only with four years' experience, during a term as Marshall County sheriff starting in 1941, although he also had been a special policeman at his home town of Cameron.

Would Lower Salary

Even if he is not disqualified under the experience requirement, Fair said the bill, by requiring him to give up certain business holdings, would force his resignation.

Before moving the measure up to passage stage Friday, the Senate beat down amendments offered by Republican Floor Leader John E. Carrigan (R-Marshall) and adopted one by Majority Leader Clarence E. Martin (D-Berkeley) to reduce the superintendent's salary from $8,000 a year to $7,000.

Martin's amendment was adopted and the others defeated by voice vote, with members of the two parties generally supporting their floor leaders. The Democrats hold a 23-9 majority.

Carrigan first was defeated on an amendment which would have allowed the superintendent to make transfers without consulting the board of officers.

He charged the section, if not changed, "will wreck the department" and said there is "no use having a superintendent" if he is without power to make even routine changes.

Issues Challenge

"This body saw fit to confirm the appointment of the superintendent and if it thinks he hasn't done a good job, appropriate action should be taken to remove him," Carrigan said.

Martin told the Senate that the department is already "well on its way to destruction" and that the purpose of the bill is to "remodel" it.

Carrigan also was defeated on an amendment to reduce the experience requirement from 10 years to five and a proposal — offered in jest — to make the bill take effect only after Jan. 15, 1961, when the governor elected in 1960 will take office.

Sen. Joseph Handlan (R-Wood) asked that Carrigan and Martin's remarks be printed in the Senate Journal. When Martin objected Handlan moved that only Carrigan's remarks be printed, but was defeated by another party-line vote.

Health Dept. To Ask State Financial Aid

Indigent Care At Hospitals Costly

With general hospitals in Maryland which participate in the state program for hospitalization and indigent care of the poor losing more than $2,500,000 last year, the State Health Department has decided to ask Gov. Tawes to appropriate $1,440,000 in his supplemental budget this year.

This move is planned in order that each hospital in the state may be compensated at the rate of 80 per cent of its cost in providing care to indigent inpatients in the next fiscal year.

35 Grant Care

The Hospital Council, Inc., reports that 35 hospitals voluntarily grant indigent care to the sick poor. They provided 255,067 days of care to qualified patients during the 1957-58 fiscal year at a total cost of $6,701,482.

However, the report states, the hospitals received only $3,131,211 from the state for this service.

The deficit in the state program at Memorial Hospital in Cumberland was $66,712 and at Sacred Heart Hospital here it was $30,704. At Garrett County Memorial Hospital in Oakland the deficit was reported at $20,435.

The ceiling on state payments to hospitals was $13 per day while the per diem costs of the various hospitals ranged from $16.47 to $36.60.

The council report declares that local governments will be asked to assume the responsibility for 20 per cent of the hospital costs. This is in keeping with State Insurance Commissioner Charles S. Jackson's decision last year denying a request by Blue Cross to pay hospitals in excess of cost to help meet the indigent patient needs. He directed the hospitals seek full reimbursement from state and local governments.

Garrett Figures

A breakdown of the state aid for inpatient care shows Garrett County Memorial Hospital had 2,084 approved days care at a per diem cost of $21.18. This overall cost of $44,159 was supplemented by the state for $23,704 leaving a deficit of $20,435.

Memorial Hospital in Cumberland had 7,996 days care costing $167,356 at the rate of $20.93 per day. The state returned $100,644 leaving a deficit of $66,712.

Sacred Heart Hospital gave 5,954 days care at the rate of $17.78 per day. The $105,862 cost was supplemented by the state by $75,158 leaving a deficit of $30,704.

Methodists Give To Industries

Nearly 70 Methodist churches of Allegany County helped in the collection of clothing, shoes and household appliances recently for Goodwill Industries.

Approximately 700 bags were filled with these items and given to Goodwill Industries last night at the Methodist Youth Fellowship rally in Cresaptown.

This is the fourth year the Methodist youth have participated in the Christian citizenship project. The materials donated to the industries help in providing job opportunities to handicapped and disabled men and women presently employed by the Goodwill Industries in sheltered workshops.

Goodwill' maintains its plant and offices in Hagerstown along with retail budget stores located at 107 Virginia Avenue here, and at Martinsburg, W. Va., Hancock, Waynesboro, Pa., and at Hagerstown.

Conservation Workshop Scheduled Next Week

Allegany County will be represented at the Soil Conservation District Workshop scheduled March 4 and 5 in the auditorium of the Student Union building at the University of Maryland in College Park.

Planning to attend from the county are Martin M. Gordon, work unit conservationist of the SCS office here, and Charles S. Harvey, treasurer of the Allegany District Soil Supervisors.

The workshop will open with registration at :30 a.m. March 4. The purpose and objectives of the workshop, explanation of Soil Conservation District Laws and the duties and sponsibilities of Soil Conservation District Supervisors will be discussed at the opening session.

In the afternoon the role of assisting agencies will be discussed. These include the State Department of Forests and Parks, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Program, the Soil Conservation Service State Department of Game and Fish and the Extension Service.

A highlight of the afternoon will be a tour of the Agronomy Department including the soil testing laboratory, seed laboratory and soils department.

Saturday's sessions will include the preparation of annual programs of work and how to hold successful and worthwhile district supervisors meetings.

A summary of the workshop will bring the sessions to a close.
